Ohio House votes on teen rights

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio House is scheduled to vote today on a bill that would extend legal rights of majority, with a couple of exceptions, to 18 year olds.

The bill would give the youths, who already have the right to vote, the right to drink alcoholic beverages.

It would deny them the right to become city policemen or highway patrolmen, but it would allow them to run and serve as county sheriffs.

The measure died in the House last year, mainly because of the drinking provision. The Senate version left the provision on alcohol out this year, but the House Judiciary Committee put it back in.

Both houses of the legislature are to go into floor session at 1 p.m. The joint House-Senate conference committee will continue to meet on the budget.

The House will also vote during the day on a controversial extension of the civil rights law as it applies to the sexes.

The measure, authored by the state Civil Rights Commission, extends rights once awarded exclusively to women to all workers.

They include the provision of no more than a 48-hour work week and other women-oriented mandates that have since been struck down by the courts as discriminatory.

The Senate approved 32-0 a House bill that allows drivers accumulating five to seven points under the point penalty system to remove two of them by completing a course in driving.

Current law provides for a six-month suspension of licenses when 12 points are received in a two-year period.

A five-year suspension is required when 24 points are received during five years. Reckless driving accounts for four points and drunken driving six.

The bill was carried on the Senate floor by Sen. David Headley, D-6 Barberton.

Sen. Thomas A. Van Meter, R-18 Ashland, won 31-0 approval of another Senate bill protecting public employes in classified service from job abolishments and layoffs not based on seniority. It had bipartisan support.

The Senate voted 32-0 and sent to the House a bill qualifying the state for federal funds under the federal Boat Safety Act of 1971.

Sen. Donald L. Woodland, D-16 Columbus, said it would mean $37.5 million for a Watercraft Law Enforcement Division.

The Senate, by a 32-0 vote, also approved a House bill transferring hospital bills for poor people hurt in traffic accidents from the registrar of motor vehicles to the director of health.

The Senate Ways and Means Committee, meanwhile, postponed any action on a bill to boost the pay of public officials for one week. Supreme Court justices had objected because their pay would be less than elected state officials.

The same committee recommended for a floor vote a bill that would create a five-member commission with the power to immediately implement a state lottery. The vote was 5-1.

The House approved 85-3 a resolution asking President Nixon and Congress to take immediate action to get a full accounting of missing Vietnam War veterans.

It also approved 81-0 and sent to the Senate a bill prohibiting the furnishing—as well as sale—of alcoholic beverages to intoxicated persons.

Kelley wins finalapproval

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today confirmed Clarence M. Kelley, the police chief of Kansas City, as director of the FBI.

He thus became the first FBI director ever confirmed by the Senate, and the bureau's first permanent director in more than a year.

Today's action followed unanimous approval of the nomination Tuesday by the Judiciary Committee.

Kelley, 61, will succeed the legendary J. Edgar Hoover, who served as FBI head for nearly half a century before his death in May 1972.

Under legislation passed in 1968, Senate confirmation of the FBI director is required. And under consideration is a plan to provide a fixed term for the director and to bring the FBI under closer congressional scrutiny.

Kelley served in the FBI for 21 years before returning to his hometown, Kansas City, Mo., 12 years ago to become chief of police.

White House challenge remains unanswered

Dean documents 'enemies list'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ousted presidential counsel John W. Dean III today read documents to support his charges that the White House kept an "enemies list" of politicians, newsmen, union officials and businessmen.

The White House challenged Dean to say whether he leaked secret testimony about Watergate as part of a strategy seeking immunity from prosecution for his own role in the case.

That question was not put to Dean immediately.

Dean gave the Senate's Watergate committee one memorandum, dated June 12, 1972, in which then presidential counselor Charles W. Colson said a tax audit should be ordered against Harold J. Gibbons, a vice president of the Teamsters Union whom Colson considered an all-out Nixon enemy.

Others marked by the White House as enemies, Dean said, included columnist Jack Anderson, former NBC newsman Chet Huntley, Democratic party chairman Robert Strauss, who was then party treasurer, and Columbus, Ind., businessman J. Erwin Miller, a liberal Republican campaign donor.

In one of the memoranda, dated Nov. 17, 1972, Colson said he had information from an informer that Anderson had been in a room with wiretap equipment in connection with the columnist's investigations of the late Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn.

In his third day of televised testimony, Dean was asked questions aimed at testing the truthfulness of his accusations that President Nixon lied about Watergate and collaborated with his top aides in covering up the bugging plot.

Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., probed with a series of questions about the extent of Dean's own involvement in the planning of the Watergate wiretapping.

Gurney asked why Dean hadn't reported to the President when G. Gordon Liddy first proposed a $1-million scheme to use wiretapping, prostitution, kidnaping and mugging as part of the President's re-election campaign.

Dean said he had objected to the plan, assumed it would die a natural death because it was so outlandish, and reported the whole affair to Nixon's chief of staff, H. R. Haldeman. He said he didn't have access to the President, and his "reporting channel" was through Haldeman.

There was some confusion on the part of Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., the committee chairman, about the question submitted by the White House. Ervin thought initially the questions were for the committee, not Dean. The matter was straightened out without Dean being asked to respond.

The questions, drawn up by White

FREEWAY CRASH — Sheriff's deputies survey the scene of a car-truck crash on I-71, two miles north of Ohio 41, which injured a 23-year-old East Liverpool driver Wednesday morning. Officers said the car ran off the freeway and crashed into the rear of the parked truck. The driver of the sports car Geoffrey M. Lowe, was later transferred to Riverside Hospital, Columbus. (Story on Page 9).

'Guilty,' says Watergate probe figure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Frederick C. LaRue, senior official of President Nixon's re-election committee, pleaded guilty today in U.S. District Court to a charge of conspiring to obstruct justice.

LaRue, a wealthy Mississippi oilman, made a surprise appearance before Judge John J. Sirica and waived his right to grand jury indictment.

The single charge was brought by a special Watergate prosecutor who described LaRue as "very cooperative with the government to this point."

Sirica deferred sentencing until after any other defendants are tried.

The conspiracy charges carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and-or a $10,000 fine.

Information presented by the prosecutor alleged that LaRue conspired with unnamed individuals to impede the investigation of the Watergate break-in.

It charged that LaRue and others "would and did participate in meetings to develop and prepare false, deceptive and misleading testimony to be given to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the U.S. attorney's office, the grand jury and ultimately, to the U.S. district court."

The information said that LaRue and others "would and did covertly acquire, transmit, distribute and pay cash funds for the benefit" of the original seven Watergate defendants "for the purpose of concealing the identities of other participants in the violations charged in said indictment and the scope of these and related activities."

Nixon vetoes bomb fund cutoff

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has vetoed a bill containing the amendment cutting off funds for U.S. bombing of Cambodia, congressional sources said today.

The sources said Nixon decided to veto the measure Tuesday night, shortly after it cleared the Senate by a vote of 81 to 11, and that the action would be announced shortly.

The veto would send the measure, a $3.4-billion supplementary money bill, back to the House where Republican leaders are confident they can muster enough support to prevent the two-thirds vote needed to override.

That would prevent the bill from ever returning to the Senate, where the two-thirds vote seemed assured.

The amendment, first Indochina fund cutoff ever to clear both houses of Congress, applied to U.S. military activity in or over both Laos and Cambodia but was directed primarily at the continuing U.S. bombing of the latter country.

Another effort to cut off bombing funds, on a continuing resolution to fund federal agencies after next Sunday, cleared the House Tuesday and is expected to be approved by the Senate later in the week.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield warned that a Nixon veto of that measure could precipitate "a constitutional crisis" between a Congress demanding that funds for the bombing be cut off and an executive refusing to do so.

"It would be most unwise," Mansfield said of a possible veto. "The intent of Congress is crystal clear."

After Tuesday's Senate vote, one top Senate Republican leader, Sen. John G. Tower of Texas, had said he thought Nixon would accept the bill.

Board maps preliminaries for 'middle school' issue

The Fayette County Board of Education delayed asking for a November bond issue, but laid the foundation for such action Tuesday night when it directed architects Joseph Baker and Associates, Newark, to go ahead with plans for a "middle school" building that would house all seventh and eighth graders in the Miami Trace system.

Meeting at Madison Mills School, the board also agreed to retain the law firm of Squires, Sanders and Dempsey, Cleveland, to aid in drawing up a statement of need, the first step toward placing such an issue on the ballot.

Dale Creamer was hired as head basketball coach for Miami Trace High School(see sports page), and several personnel and salary matters were dealt with during the three-hour meeting. Tentative approval was given to the 1974 budget, which includes a $166,096.54 deficit.

FINAL ACTION on the bond issue proposal is expected to come at the board's next meeting. Passage of such an issue would lead to construction of a building on an as yet unselected site. The new facility probably could be opened in September, 1975, according to architect Brooke Baker.

The amount of the bond issue will depend on exactly what the board decides to include in the proposed new facility and the extent to which the elementary school buildings in the system are to be renovated.

Baker presented rough figures Tuesday that estimated the cost of the new building at about $1,731,000. Renovations he outlined would cost about $275,000.

A building originally designed for 600 students could accommodate up to 720 comfortably, Baker told the board. He added that kitchen facilities could be used to feed two or three other schools.

Baker added that a suitable site should include at least 20 acres.

CREAMER'S appointment to the head basketball post vacated the reserve basketball position. The board took no official action on filling the reserve job, but agreed to accept Creamer's recommendation of former MT basketball player Mike Henry for the position. Henry currently is a special education teacher at Hills and Dales School, Highland County. He has assisted in the junior high football and basketball programs at Miami Trace.

Paul Febo was reappointed Miami Trace band director after a year's leave of absence, and John Wedgewood was appointed as his assistant.

One-year teaching contracts were approved for Miss Leslie Johnson, a June graduate of Capital University, and Miss Glenna Bish, a June graduate of Ohio State University. Miss Johnson is expected to replace Mrs. Katharine Carter, whose resignation was accepted Tuesday, as kindergarten teacher at Jasper. Miss Bish will teach on the intermediate level.

The resignation of bus mechanic Norman Rinehart was also accepted, and Stephan Jones was hired for summer work.

THE BOARD agreed to adjust the salaries of non-certified employes paid an hourly rate, compensating them for holidays as required by state law. This covers such employes as cooks and bus drivers. Janitors and others paid a yearly salary are already paid for holidays.

Christmas, Thanksgiving, Labor Day, Memorial Day, July 4 and New Year's Day were approved as paid holidays, and Christmas Eve, New

Senate cuts foreign aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted a sharp cutback of U.S. foreign military aid, setting it at a level a little more than half that requested by the Nixon administration.

The $770-million military aid bill for the new fiscal year is less than the $1.08 billion being spent this year. The new authorization was approved 50 to 42 Tuesday night.

The Nixon administration had requested $1.31 billion.

Administration backers defeated a mandatory four-year phaseout of military assistance grants. They failed to restore major funding reductions voted by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

"This marks the end of the United States assistance programs," said Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz. "It is a signal to the rest of the world that we are pulling in our horns."

The bill now goes to the House, where the Foreign Affairs Committee already is considering foreign aid legislation.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, meanwhile, is listening to administration pleas for authorization of $1.056 billion for foreign economic assistance programs.

The Senate bill earmarks $420 million for nine countries, including $150 million for Cambodia and $119 million for South Korea.

OSU, hospital cannot be sued

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Ohio State University and its hospital are instrumentalities of the state and cannot be sued without consent of the General Assembly, the Ohio Supreme Court ruled today.

The court affirmed lower court decision dismissing the suit Esther H. and Roland T. Thacker of Bethel, which was filed against the school, its hospital and a doctor.

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government said today that it would consider military support for the Cambodian government if a bombing halt forced by the U.S. Congress creates a situation threatening South Vietnam's security.

"If the U.S. air support in Cambodia was stopped and if this created a serious situation that could harm the security of Vietnam, we certainly would respond to the request (for aid)," government spokesman Bui Bao Truc said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has restored most of the money President Nixon cut from health and education programs. Among measures saved would be the Office of Economic Opportunity's antipoverty program run by local community action agencies.

The bill, sent to the Senate Tuesday by a 347 to 58 vote, would boost Nixon's budget for the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare by $1.2 billion.

China tests atomic bomb

BOMBAY, India (AP) — China detonated a small nuclear device today in the atmosphere over Sinkiang province in the far southwestern part of the country, Indian scientists reported.

A spokesman for the Bhabha Atomic Research Center near Bombay said the blast occurred in the Lop Nor region of Sinkiang, China's main nuclear test area. He said the device had power equivalent to one or two million tons of TNT.

The spokesman said the microbarograph network of the Indian Department of Atomic Energy picked up indications of the test at about 9:25 a.m., or 11:55 p.m. EDT Tuesday.

Mandatory fuel allocations set

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government sources say a mandatory allocation system for gasoline appears in the offing, although a survey by the American Automobile Association has indicated that the fuel shortage may be stabilizing.

A presidential message on energy policy is expected later this week, and a decision on mandatory controls could be announced at that time.

However, one source indicated that mandatory controls could be delayed until the appointment of an energy policy coordinator in the White House.

Plans to convert the current voluntary fuel allocation program to mandatory controls have been approved by the Office of Oil and Gas of the Interior Department, and by Deputy Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, head of an interdepartmental policy committee, sources said.

The sources indicated that Colorado Gov. John A. Love has been chosen to serve as energy policy coordinator. The job was turned down by former Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton.

Essentially the mandatory program is expected to follow the guidelines proposed for voluntary compliance in May. Under those, suppliers were requested to provide their customers with fuel this year in the same proportion that they received it last year.

Meanwhile, in its latest nationwide survey on the shortage of gasoline, the AAA said the number of service stations closing early and on Sunday grew from 43 per cent to 47 per cent from a week earlier. The group surveyed 3,417 stations along main travel routes.

However, AAA spokesman Donald Strickland said the shortage "appears to be bottoming out." He did not elaborate.

Storms rake Ohio; funnel clouds sighted

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavy summer thunderstorms lingered over the eastern third of the nation today following Tuesday's onslaught of tornadoes, heavy rains and high winds.

Thunderstorms drenched areas from the eastern parts of Kansas and Oklahoma across the middle and northern Mississippi Valley into the Great Lakes region and the Ohio Valley.

Ohio went through another period of severe thunderstorms and scattered tornado sightings Tuesday night. At least six persons were reported hurt and some damage was caused by the high winds.

There was no severe tornado damage reported other than downed power lines, a few damaged barns and at least one overturned house trailer.

The National Weather Service reported winds that reached as high as 63 miles per hour at Port Columbus. Tornado warnings were issued for much of the state and at least six funnel clouds were sighted.

A tornado watch was in effect for much of northern Ohio in the early afternoon. Warnings were also issued for eastern and southern Ohio late Tuesday night.

Five persons were hurt at Cairo near Lima in Allen County when a house trailer overturned in the high winds. Debra Sharerd, 22, was the most seriously injured and her condition was reported fair after she was removed to a hospital. Four others in the trailer were treated for injuries.

At least one person was hurt and a barn badly damaged by what was described as a tornado touching down at Dublin, far northwest Columbus suburb. Elsewhere in the Columbus area trees and power lines were downed by high winds and one funnel cloud was spotted in the area shortly before 8 p.m.

Conditions had calmed by daybreak Wednesday with only a few rain showers reported. Temperatures were mild with readings mostly in the 60s.

A southerly flow of warm moist air in advance of a slow moving cold front, located west of Ohio, will continue to spread showers and thundershowers over Ohio. Warm, humid conditions were forecast to continue with afternoon temperatures in the 80s.

A repeat of Tuesday conditions was expected this afternoon and evening.

Some relief is in sight as the slow cool front invades the state Thursday and

Senate ponders

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate debates today a bill to grant a 5.5 per cent cost-of-living Social Security increase effective next January.

The boost is tied as a rider to a debt limit extension bill that must become law by the end of this week.

7 persons slain in Chicago suburb

A neighbor and close friend of Clesson and his wife, Neta, had been trying to reach the family Tuesday afternoon to tell of four persons who had been shot to death only three blocks away.

Inside the home, the 72-year-old Clesson lay slumped in a chair, a bullet wound above his left eye, blood covering his shirt and coat.

The body of his 78-year-old wife lay on the floor near that of their son, Paul Clesson Jr., 47. They, too, had been shot.

"I was trying to call Neta to tell her about the Workmans, but I couldn't get her," said Mrs. Rheva Timmons, 62.

Earlier Tuesday, police had found Raymond Workman, 69, and his wife, Dina, 64, shot to death in their home.

Across the street, officers found the bodies of Henrietta Cliff, 35, and her 12-year-old daughter, Kimberly, in their home. They also had been shot.

Police charged that they were the victims of the Workmans' 43-year-old son, William.

"I am God's son," the younger Workman told a city judge at his arraignment on four counts of murder. "I had to take matters into my own hands."

Police said all seven persons had been shot with a .22-caliber weapon. Ballistics tests were being conducted to see if the bullets that killed the Clessons were fired from the rifle police say was used in the other four deaths.

As of late Tuesday, Workman had been charged only with the slayings of his parents and the two neighbors.

Watergate case

House special counsel Fred Buzhardt, asked whether Dean had a strategy for escaping federal prosecution for his own part in the affair, and whether this strategy had involved calculated leaks of information to news media.

Much of Dean's testimony had dribbled out in various forms before he appeared before the committee.

As it stands, Dean's requests for trial immunity have been rejected and he may be prosecuted, although his Senate testimony, or leads developed from it, cannot be used as evidence against him.

Committee rules permit White House or other officials to submit questions seeking answers from a witness.

Dean offered Tuesday to take a lie detector test, as he stuck to his televised testimony before the Senate Watergate committee that the President and his top aides collaborated in a plot to cover up the bugging conspiracy.

He added some new accusations, saying the White House used the FBI and Internal Revenue Service to investigate persons named on a so-called "enemies list" that was routinely updated with new names. And he said the Secret Service once spied on Sen. George McGovern, the 1972 Democratic presidential candidate.

Officials of the Senate committee said Dean would be asked today a series of questions submitted by Leonard Garment, who replaced Dean as White House counsel. Dean was fired April 30.

"It would appear they would like to prove that Mr. Dean was the brains of it all, and that he gave bad advice," said Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii.

Inouye said he saw no reason why Dean shouldn't be asked the questions, that Dean's truthfulness must be tested.

At Tuesday's session, Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.Mex., asked Dean if Nixon told the truth April 17 when he said "I condemn any attempts to cover up in this case, no matter who is involved."

"No, sir," Dean said. "By that time he knew the full implications of the case."

Dean reiterated that Nixon knew a cover-up was going on as early as last Sept. 15. Dean said that on March 21 he told Nixon specifically that former aides H.R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman and Dean himself could be indicted for obstruction of justice because of the cover-up. This was more than three weeks before Nixon's April 17 remark.

White House spokesmen repeated Tuesday that the President stands behind earlier statements denying knowledge or complicity in the Watergate affair.

Meanwhile, Haldeman and Ehrlichman commented on aspects of the Watergate case in separate interviews.

Haldeman told CBS news he hopes for "the chance to tell the whole story" about Watergate, saying that when he does it will clear the President and himself.

Asked if he had been watching Dean's testimony on television, Haldeman replied, "Sure, I have," but declined to comment specifically on Dean's charges "except in the proper form."

He said he expected to "have that opportunity ... in the next few weeks."

Ehrlichman, who declined to answer questions on Watergate specifics, told The Seattle Times that he fears "the very important things the President did and was trying to do in the domestic area are going to be lost in the shuffle" of Watergate.

The budget approved Tuesday includes anticipated receipts of $2,320,755.46 and expenditures of $2,486,852. The receipts included an expected carryover of $28,955.46 from 1973.

The budget will be reviewed at a future date, at which time various figures will be adjusted. It is only a tentative budget.

The board also agreed to invite bids on contracts for gasoline, coal, tires, anti-freeze and fuel oil, to be opened at 10 a.m. July 16.

Ohio's weather

moves through Thursday night and early Friday.

Showers and thundershowers will end from the west Thursday night and in the east on Friday. Lows will drop into the upper 50s and 60s and a return to more normal conditions is expected.

Thundershowers were scattered across the eastern Gulf Coast and Atlantic Coast, and a few thunderstorms washed the mountains of Colorado, New Mexico and central California.

Most of the area from the West Coast to the plains states enjoyed fair weather. However heavy fog grasped much of the West Coast, and temperatures in the Southwest hovered around the 100 mark early today. Temperatures in the desert reached 120 Tuesday.

Thunderstorms, hail and tornadoes plagued the Midwest. Tornadoes struck Spring Green, Wis., and Bloomington, Ind., Tuesday evening. No personal injuries were reported, but the Spring Green High School was damaged. Downed power lines and uprooted trees blocked Wisconsin 60 between Spring Green and Sauk City, northwest of Madison.

Earlier Tuesday, high winds gusted to 95 miles per hour at the Ann Arbor, Mich., airport and raked the lower third of Michigan. Power lines were down, tree and telephone poles toppled and one house was set afire.

Funnel clouds were sighted and may have struck a trailer park where eight to 10 trailers were completely demolished and others blown off their foundations. Only three persons were hospitalized with minor injuries, police said.

Claim up to 3,500 sent to Lima State illegally?

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— An Ohio State University research study says 3,500 persons may have been committed illegally to Lima State Hospital over the last 30 years, the Cleveland Plain Dealer reported today.

The newspaper said the OSU study "in effect challenges Ohio's Ascherman Act and the treatment of mentally disturbed offenders."

Those whom the study alleges were committed illegally are certain mentally disturbed or retarded criminals who were committed under the Ascherman Act of 1939. The act, which was not used until 1943, provides for commitment of such criminals "until cured."

The Ohio State study charges that the state is not providing effective therapy and says even psychiatrists question whether it is possible to identify psychopathic offenders.

The study questions the existence of a "psychopathic personality" and cites growing resistance to committing persons to hospitals for the criminally insane for what may become a life sentence when there is no "cure."

The study, which is still in progress, is being prepared for the Division of Forensic Psychiatry of the Ohio Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation. It traces development of legislation in a number of states resulting from public concern in the 1930s and 1940s over sex crimes.

The Ascherman Act was written originally to apply only to felony cases, but was amended in 1945 to apply to certain misdemeanors and in 1969 to change the language of "mentally deficient offenders" to "mentally retarded offenders."

Since 1943, Ohio courts have sent 10,500 persons to Lima for observation. The hospital's behavior treatment unit now houses nearly 200 persons committed under the Ascherman Act or sent there for observation.

The act is being challenged in a test case filed last month in U.S. District Court in Toledo on behalf of a group of patients who allege they are being held unconstitutionally at Lima.

Prosecutor may broaden probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Watergate special prosecutor's office is debating whether to use John W. Dean III's testimony as a springboard into an investigation of political surveillance during Democratic administrations, according to informed sources.

A spokesman for the prosecutor said Tuesday that he could not "comment on testimony in progress or on what matters might become the subject of investigation."

But sources close to the prosecutor's office said the staff was closely monitoring Dean's testimony, examining references to purported FBI political activity in previous administrations and debating whether they fall within the mandate given prosecutor Archibald Cox.

Dean told the Senate Watergate committee Monday that William C. Sullivan, former associate director of the FBI, had told him the bureau had been used "for political purposes by past administrations."

The former White House counsel quoted President Nixon as telling him "he was convinced that he had been wiretapped in 1968."

Dean testified that he pressed Sullivan for examples of FBI political activity and Sullivan sent him a memorandum. The Washington Star-News said the memorandum described an investigation conducted after the 1968 election of Vice President-elect Spiro T. Agnew.

Sullivan said the investigation was ordered by President Lyndon B. Johnson and nothing adverse was found, according to the newspaper.

Guidelines given Cox by Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson authorize him to investigate and prosecute all offenses arising out of the 1972 election, including "all allegations involving the President, members of the White House staff or presidential appointees."

The sources said that, if Cox's office looks into political use of the FBI or other government investigative and law enforcement agencies, such as the Internal Revenue Service, the probe probably would not be directed toward criminal prosecution.

An investigation more likely would be aimed at disclosure with the results included in one of the periodic reports Cox has said he might issue, the sources said.

Dean told the committee that the matter of FBI surveillance came up during a discussion with the President at the time of the Senate hearings on the nomination of L. Patrick Gray III to be director of the FBI.

"The President told me he was reading a book at that time called 'The 13 Mistakes of Kennedy,' and he told me that I should read the chapter regarding Kennedy's use of the FBI.

"He also told me I should gather any material I could regarding the uses and abuses of the FBI by previous administrations so that we could show we had not abused the FBI for political purposes."

Stock list down again

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned lower today, giving up an early gain, as investors were again unable to move a market stalled by the uncertainties of Phase 4.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 1.28 at 878.16. In early trading, it had been up 3 points. It advanced 10 points Tuesday.

Advancing issues clung to a 576-to-509 lead over declines on the New York Stock Exchange. Earlier, advances ran ahead by a 2-to-1 margin.

Addressograph was the Big Board's most-active issue, down 5/8 at 11 7/8. A 396,700-share block was traded at 11 1/2, off 1. The noon broad-based NYSE index of some 1,500 common stocks was off 0.15 points at 54.16.

On the American Stock Exchange, American Motor Inns was the most-active issue, down 1/8 at 5 1/8. An 83,400-share block was traded at 5 3/8. Advancing issues narrowly led declining issues and the noon price change index was unchanged at 22.22.

Firestone ads ruled deceptive

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— The 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals today ruled that The Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. was guilty of unfair and deceptive advertising in 1967-1968 when it promoted "the safe tire" and the Wide Oval Tire that "stops 25 per cent quicker."

A three-judge panel upheld the Federal Trade Commission in its 1970 order that Firestone cease and desist from running deceptive ads on the two tires.

The court affirmed FTC findings that "the safe tire" ad "unfairly implied all Firestone tires are safe under all conditions, and that the "stops 25 per cent quicker" ad was based on inadequate test data.

Cincinnati man drowns in pond

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The body of a 19-year-old Cincinnati man who went swimming Friday night with two friends in a golf course pond was found in the pond Tuesday.

Wendel Williams of Lincoln Heights apparently drowned in the pond after two companions, who had been swimming with him earlier, left, fire officials said. The pond was at the Losantiville Country Club.

Police blasted for actions in Attica riot

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charges that police needlessly killed inmates and hostages while quelling the Attica Prison riot in New York State have been leveled by a congressional committee.

The committee report also charged that after the riot ended officers beat prisoners and that the wounded went without emergency care.

The report on the September 1971 riot, which resulted in 43 deaths and 80 wounded, was released Tuesday in a study of nationwide correctional systems by the House Select Committee on Crime.

In citing the killing of the nonhostile prisoners and guards, the report focused on police using backshot rounds in police using buckshot rounds in their 12-gauge shotguns.

"Shotguns loaded with double 'O' ammunition were, of course, incredibly inaccurate weapons for such a situation, their use led to the wounding and killing of hostages and inmates who were not acting in a hostile manner," the report said.

The report said police decided to intensify their firepower for the assault after rebellious inmates paraded in front of authorities eight blindfolded hostages with knives at their throats.

But the report said:

"In fact, only four hostages were wounded by inmates who inflicted knife wounds upon them when the assault began— none of these four hostages died from the knife wounds."

Economic indicators rebound

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's index of leading economic indicators rebounded with a strong increase in May after a sharp decline a month earlier, the Commerce Department said today.

The April decline was widely interpreted as showing that the pace of the fast-expanding economy was beginning to slow.

The index, which is supposed to be sensitive to broad ups and downs in the economy, rose 1.5 per cent last month, the department said, with six of the eight economic indicators available showing improvement.

The Nixon administration has been watching for signs that the economy will cool and relieve some of the inflationary pressures building up. The May report of leading indicators gave no such signal.

Opinion And Comment

Overwhelmed or 'underwhelmed'?

It's the vacation season, and many Fayette Countians are shrugging off gasoline shortages and heading for what were once the wide open spaces of the West.

Are they finding themselves overwhelmed or "underwhelmed" by the crowds at national parks?

For instance, it's the same Grand Canyon. But eight times as many visitors view it from the south side as from the scenic overlooks along its north rim.

While the 2.4 million visits recorded last year along the south rim of the Canyon sometimes overwhelmed park staff and facilities, the people who made up the 37,700 visitor days recorded downstream at Grand Canyon National Monument found a wild grandeur totally "underwhelmed" by human visitation.

Just to the north, in Utah, are other relatively under-visited areas of the Department of the Interior's vast National Park System.

At Canyonlands and Arches National Parks, in Utah, are the world's most massive exposures of red rock canyons, spires, pinnacles and wind-eroded arches. Equally spectacular Utah parks include Zion, Bryce Canyon and Capitol Reef. All could welcome thousands of additional visitors.

While Grand Teton and Yellowstone National Parks in Wyoming recorded a combined total of 5.3 million visits last year, Montana's Bighorn Canyon National Recreation Area, with its awe-inspiring gorges and fantastic landscapes, had only 220,300 visits. To the west of Grand Teton fewer than 200,000 vacationers enjoyed the volcanic wonders of Idaho's Craters of the Moon National Monument in 1972.

There are the Fila Cliff Dwellings in New Mexico; the mountains, lakes and glaciers of Washington's North Cascades National Park; the upfolded mountains and deep canyons of Colorado and Utah's Dinosaur National Monument; the major Indian ruins of New Mexico's Aztec Ruins and Chaco Canyon National Monuments. All provide the vacationer with an option for escape from those more crowded NPS areas where the number of visits is increasing each year, to a grand total of 211.6 million in 1972.

And these 92 so-called lesser known and relatively uncrowded National Park Service areas can be found in 34 states. A complete list, with brief descriptions of each, may be obtained by writing "Lesser Known Parks," Office of Information, National Park Service, Department of the Interior, Washington D.C. 20240.

This list can help the vacationer to leave the beaten track this summer and visit some of America's most beauteous national parks, recreation areas and educational historic sites.

Most popular vacation areas, explains NPS Director Ronald H.. Walker, are near the more famed — and most crowded — of America's vacationlands. For example, Great Smoky Mountains National Park had over 8 million visits (highest in the National Park System) last year, while just 80 miles to the north fewer than 500,000 visits were recorded at Cumberland Gap National Historic Park, which offers camping, hiking and reminders of the historic Wilderness Road, hand-hewn by Daniel Boone and his men in 1775.

It's all there, waiting for you.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

Detente and dignity

While the President and his associates delighted in the bonhommie of Comrade Leonid Brezhnev, and American capitalists wandered around Washington drooling at the prospect of making a killing, I confess I was profoundly depressed.

Not because I want to see the United States and the Soviets tossing nukes at each other, or because I oppose normalizing relations with dictatorships. We live in a world that is not composed of play-dough — we can't shape it — so I am prepared to see the United States deal with reality: whether reality is the Greek colonels, Mao, the South African whites or the Soviet Politburo.

But it is one thing to deal with reality and something quite different to pretend that — in most cases — such transactions do not leave a stench in one's notrils. Comrade Brezhnev, after all, runs the world's second largest prison — topped only by President Nixon's other friend, Comrade Mao.

THAT GREAT gas pipeline that will solve our energy crisis will doubtless be built in party by dissident Soviet intellectuals sentenced to labor camps. Perhaps you haven't noticed it because of the euphoria, but there has been a savage clampdown on Soviet dissenters over the past year, a repression that has been overlooked because Moscow, shrewdly, began releasing Jews to Israel.

In domestic political terms the tremendous heat that has been generated in Congress, and incorporated in the Jackson Amendment, arose from the legitimate indignation of the American Jewish community about the status of Soviet Jewry.

I share this indignation, but hold it across the board. What is at issue is the right to emigrate, not the right of Jews to emigrate or the right of Catholics to emigrate.

It would be tragic if the Soviet tactic of promising to be nice to Jews obscured this fundamental point and led Congress to back away from insisting on the Jackson proviso — which is generic in coverage.

At the risk of sounding like a "cold war anachronism" (in a favorite phrase of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee), I am prepared to argue that the Soviets need us far more than we do them. A quarter of a century late, Stalin's heirs are applying for membership in the Marshall Plan.

Again let me emphasize that this is no condemnation of normal interstate relations, but if we are going to be denounced as "capitalists" in the Communist press, the least we can do is live up to our reputation: that is, strike a damned hard bargain.

Last year's wheat deal was an appalling giveaway, one which helped generate the runaway farm inflation of the last six months. Let us do business, but let us be completely hard-nosed about it.

If we do not have as one of our functions the role of world policeman, it is equally true that we have no obligations as world physician. In specific terms, it is hardly our God-inspired mission to rescue the Soviet Union from the egregious incompetence of its leadership.

WHEN I SAY strike a hard bargain, I am not just talking in financial terms (though I see no reason why the American taxpayer should have paid a $300 million subsidy to Soviet agriculture last year). We should utilize our position of strength to demand concessions in the area of human rights. In my judgment, for example, the President should not even have given Brezhnev a necktie, let alone a snappy blazer, until the latter had agreed to stop jamming Radio Liberty.

But here we return to the sad question: Is President Nixon in a position to play our hand to its maximum advantage? (One can almost hear Brezhnev saying sardonically to Dobrynin: "Should I offer him some technical assistance from the KGB?")

As the agreements were signed and stacked, I at least kept wondering: "What did we give away to get that headline." And all that jovial stuff: one must do business with gangsters in this world, but it should be conducted with dignity.

Local option on the First

In its new obscenity ruling the Supreme Court has all but adopted the curious principle that there is local option on First Amendment freedoms. This will be the practical effect of the court's decree that local community standards can be applied by juries in determining what is or is not so obscene as to fall outside the constitutional free speech protection.

In another respect, too, the court narrowed that protection. For some years one of the key tests required under previous Supreme Court rulings has been that to be declared obscene a work - a movie, or a book - must be utterly without redeeming social value.

The new guideline says that juries need only decide "whether the work, taken as a whole, lacks serious literary, artistic, political or scientific value."

The danger in what was decided by a one-vote margin is well expressed by Justice William J. Brennan Jr. in his dissent. It is now, he said, "hard to see how state-ordered regimentation of our minds can ever be forestalled."

In an opinion in which he was joined by Justices Potter Stewart and Thurgood Marshall, Brennan wrote that if "in an effort to maintain or create a particular moral tone" a state may "prescribe what its citizens cannot read or cannot see, then it would seem to follow that in pursuit of that same objective a state could decree that its citizens must read certain books or must view certain films."

Far-fetched as this may seem, it is an outcome dismally foreshadowed in a ruling which says that everything available for reading and viewing must conform to whatever standards this or that community chooses to impose.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

On Wednesday, June 20, at 3:10 p.m., Fayette County Memorial Hospital held an external disaster drill.

What is an external disater?? An external disaster is "anytime" that an exceptional number of patients come to the hospital for treatment and the normal emergency room staff cannot handle the patient load.

For this drill, we held a "mock" train accident with approximately 110 patients expected to come into the hospital. As the announcement was made, all visitors were requested to go to the front hospital lobby. At this time, I would like to take the opportunity to thank all visitors who participated in this drill for their excellent cooperation.

A special team, comprised of hospital personnel and the hospital disaster chief, Dr. P.E. Binzel, evaluated patients that were in the hospital to determine how many could be discharged, if beds were actually needed. The Hospital Administrative Council evaluated each department as to how well they responded to their specific duties.

The final results as to how effective the over-all performance of hospital personnel was during the drill will be determined at a later date. On the surface, it appeared that the staff had responded in an excellent manner. The hospital disaster plan will now be reviewed and updated.

For a hospital to be fully accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals, which Fayette County Memorial Hospital is, it must perform a minimum of two external disaster drills yearly.

This first drill not only brought out the weak and strong points of the plan, but also insured the public of Fayette County and surrounding areas an effective emergency program for patient care in time of a large scale disaster.

Again, a special thanks to all of the visitors who were present and responded so well with us on this important major project.

"HURRY, TRY ON THE PANTS BEFORE THEY RAISE THE WHOLESALE PRICE."

Hal Boyle . . . Making life worth living

NEW YORK (AP) — Things that make life worth living:

The sound of a door closing behind someone leaving who has stayed too long.

Sleeping late on weekends.

Swallowing a watermelon seed as a child and wondering if it will turn the inside of your stomach into a watermelon patch.

Working a loose baby tooth out all by yourself before your mother can get you to a dentist.

Passing a note to your girl friend in grammar school when the teacher turned her back to write on the blackboard.

Stepping on wet sidewalk cement and wondering if your footprints would remain there for later generations to marvel at.

Delivering a paper route the first day and wondering just how it was going to help make you famous later in life. Hadn't all great men delivered newspapers in their youth?

Having the postman finally bring the letter for which you've been haunting the mailbox for for months.

The smell of a good bakery shop on a wintry day.

Going on an overnight hike with your dad and listening later to him brag about how rough it had been.

Tasting an initial caviarloaded cracker and thinking it was hardly worthwhile to become rich if you had to eat stuff like that all the time.

The envious respect the other boys in the neighborhood showed when you told them about being taken to see a real live burlesque show by a raffish older cousin.

The profound feeling of the mystery of life you had when you went through a large dairy and saw a calf being born.

For these and other intimations of gladness and sadness that enlighten our lives, our thanks, Amen.

Haring, Miller get promotions

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert W. Haring, 40, was named today editor of Associated Press financial services.

President and General Manager Wes Gallagher said Haring, AP's Business News Editor since 1971, will be responsible for the technical and editorial design of new financial services for AP members, and opening new opportunities inside and outside the newspaper industry.

Stephen H. Miller, 30, Business Supervising Editor for the past two years, was promoted to Business News Editor to succeed Haring.

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Can father's name be hidden from the law?

DEAR ABBY: I desperately need advice. I can't consult a lawyer because I can't afford it. I am a 38-year-old expectant mother. The baby's father is married and has no intentions of divorcing his wife or acting as father to my child.

I have never been married. I know that what I have done was wrong, but I was so emotionally involved with this man that I wasn't thinking straight.

My baby is due in three weeks. I plan to keep it, but I don't know what to do about the birth certificate. The baby's father is urging me to leave his name off. He says he will be ruined if I use his name. He has suggested that I make up a name.

Please tell me what to do, Abby. If I make up a name I'm afraid the baby's father will be relieved of all responsibilities for the support of his child, and that is not fair because he is well able to help me. (He hasn't paid for even a diaper pin so far.)

I am so alone and troubled. Please help me.

NAME WITHHELD

DEAR NAME: Get in touch with your local Legal Aid Society. They will guide you. Make no decisions until you speak with them.

DEAR ABBY: What is my responsibility in the following situations? Mind my own business? Or stick my nose in and look for a punch?

Example: Tots (2 years to 6) are climbing on top of a convertible sports car and sliding down the back. Owner of car working, mother busy inside, the kids have the time of their lives.

Example: Three new homes being built and a sign posted, "Parents! Keep your children away from construction site," but the 2-to-6-year olds are exploring the half-finished floors and calling to each other from the empty window frames.

Fun is fun, but danger is danger. I have youngsters, but I know where mine are all the time. Do I say something to the children or walk away? I've done both. The mothers shrug and the kids reutrn.

MRS. N.C.B.

DEAR MRS. B.: You can't be a full-time self-appointed policewoman, but you can continue to warn the children when they endager themselves and urge their mothers to be more watchful. Structures in various stages of construction are considered "attractive nuisances" and every effort should be made (by the builder; to keep children out. Signs do not necessarily relieve the builder of responsibility.

DEAR ABBY: Last night my wife threw a tantrum because I wouldn't take her on a business trip with me. She smashed cups and plates against the wall, so I took her across my knee and gave her a good, sound spanking.

Now she claims I "beat" her, and she's suing me for divorce. Abby, she acted like a child so I treated her like one. Was I wrong?

How do you feel about husbands spanking their wives when they have it coming?

HURT AND ANGRY

DEAR HURT: I disapprove of physical punishment in any form. A "good sound spanking" serves only one good purpose: It gives the spanker an opportunity to vent his anger. But I recommend a punching bag-not another person.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going to a psychiatrist of late, with moderate success, and then one day my mother made an appointment with him (for what reasons I do not know) and went to see him, too.

Since then I have been totally unable to relate to him. Doesn't this seem to you like a divorce lawyer trying to represent both sides in a divorce?

WONDERING IN MILWAUKEE

DEAR WONDERING: Quit wondering and ask your psychriatrist.

As Eleanor Tate says in her poem, "The Universal Agrarian:"

He patiently Plants his sprouts
row after row in the Black plowed soil;
Like the Fathers of Fathers of Fathers long ago...
like the Multitudes of Other Men who with Bare Brown Hands toil the soil—
Seed by Seed, Sprout by Sprout,
in Eternal Dignity.

Thornburg, 65, and retired, owns a farm northwest of Pleasantville and plans to plant some 70,000 onion spouts this spring. When harvested, he'll sell them to vegetable stand owners in the Pleasantville area.

He plants his onions early in the spring because, he said, onions will "stand a lot of freezing."

"About a year or so ago there were four mornings straight where the temperature got down to about 24, and they never froze," he said. "'Course, your fingers get pretty cold setting them out."

MR. AND MRS. DENNIS COTNER

Evening service held in Good Shepherd Church

Miss Sharon Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Jones, 1146 E. Temple St., and Dennis Cotner, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Cotner, 632½ S. Fayette St., were married June 16 at 7:30 p.m. in Good Shepherd Lutheran Church. The Rev. E.E. Burrall read the double-ring service before an altar flanked with large baskets of gladioli and daisies. Mrs. Earl Hartley played nuptial music.

Miss Jones, given in marriage by her father, wore an empire A-line gown, in white organza with an attached sheer chapel train. Satin bows topped the train, trimmed in daisies and seed pearls. The collar and cuffs of the bishop sleeves were embroidered in lace. Her veil was of nylon and illusion, attached to a headpiece of satin and miniature satin ribbon love-knots framed her face. Her flowers were in a crescent bouquet of pink sweetheart roses, stephanotis and white satin streamers.

Matron of honor for Miss Jones was Mrs. Gary Hidy and bridesmaids were Miss Marilyn O'Flynn and Miss Valerie Cotner, the groom's sister. Debbie Wilson was flower girl and Chuck Wilson, ring bearer, from Wilmington.

Best man was Jack Whited and the bride's cousin, William Jones Jr. and William Cotner Jr., brother of the groom, were ushers.

The bride's attendants wore identically styled frocks of checked gingham floor-length, with leg-o-mutton sleeves. Mrs. Hidy was in lavender and white, Miss O'Flynn in blue and white and Miss Cotner, in pink and white. They carried colonial bouquets daisies and baby's breath, with multi-color streamers.

Mrs. Jones wore a floor-length navy and white batiste dress for her daughter's wedding and the groom's mother had a light blue formal-length knit, with white flowered bodice. They both had orchid corsages.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church basement, with Miss Kim Cotner, Mrs. Robert Cotner and Mrs. Jack Whited as hostesses. Their corsages were of white daisies. Mrs. Richard Leisure, the bride's sister, was at the guest book and her flowers were yellow and white daisies.

They are living at 729 Sycamore St.

Pretty party honors Miss Oesterle

Miss Melanie Oesterle, bride-elect of Dan Smith, was the guest of honor at a bridal shower, held in the home of Mrs. Virgil Hardman, Miami Trace Rd.

Hostesses for the occasion were Miss Kathy Morris, Miss Jane Counts and Miss Penny Hardman.

The lovely array of gifts were opened by Miss Oesterley and her fiancee, Mr. Smith.

Game prizes, won by Mrs. Maynard Oesterle and Dan Smith, were presented to the honored guest.

The tea table, covered with a lace tablecloth with a yellow underlay, was centered with a bride doll and blue candles. Lime sherbert punch, cookies and mints were served by the hostesses.

The invited guests were Mrs. Maynard Oesterle, of New Holland, and Mrs. Gail Smith, of Newark, mothers of the betrothed couple; Dan Smith and Sandy Smith, of Newark, Miss Debbie Morris, Miss Cindy Cottrill, Diana and Mary Ellen Oesterle, of New Holland;

Mrs. Forrest Priest of Washington C.H.; Mrs. Terry Miracle and daughter, Alison, of Leesburg; Mrs. James Wynkoop and daughter, Lisa and Mrs. Lawrence Woods, of Columbus; Mrs. Warren Traikas, of Bainbridge; Miss Peggy Walker, of Wellston; Mrs. Dee Fawley and Mrs. E.E. Poole, of Chillicothe.

As a glaze for baked ham, you can use a little sweet pickle juice to moisten brown sugar. Pat the sugar mixture over the ham and return to the oven to glaze.

Miss LeMaster is feted at bridal shower

Miss Sharolene LeMaster, bride-elect of David Wackman, was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. John Speakman and Mrs. Fred Pitzer at the home of Mrs. Pitzer.

A color scheme of aqua and lavender was carried out in decorations in the home and refreshments.

Invited guests included Mrs. Forest LeMaster and Mrs. Alex Wackman, mothers of the betrothed couple, Mrs. Pitzer, Mrs. Ed Coil, Miss Alexis Wackman, Miss Jane Ann Wackman, Mrs. Wackman Jr., Mrs. Gerald Wackman, Mrs. Coe, Mrs. Lucille Hoppes, Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Jay Putney;

Mrs. John Ely, Mrs. Forest Gilmer, Mrs. Denen and Mrs. Frank Shasteen, all of Washington C.H.; Mrs. Robert Hamlin, Mrs. Ben Barker, Miss Diana Barker and Mrs. Rose Mabra, of Columbus; and Mrs. Larry Coil, of Middletown.

Miss Lemaster and Mr. Wackman will be married at 7:30 Saturday evening in the First Baptist Church.

Saturday dance scheduled at Country Club

To get the Fourth of July celebration off to a rousing beginning, a dance, for members and guests, will be held at the Washington Country Club, Saturday evening, from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Douglass are in charge and Luther Bolen's band will play for dancing. Cool and casual wear is suggested.

Various golfing and other events are planned for the weekend, culminating in a pot-luck supper Wednesday evening.

Willing Workers

Fifteen members of the Sunnyside Willing Workers class met at the home of Mrs. Edgar Richardson, with Mrs. Mary McCoy in charge of devotions. Mrs. Olive Brookover conducted the business meeting and the usual reports were heard and accepted. A picnic was scheduled for the next meeting at the home of Mrs. Bessie Moots, in Leesburg.

Following the benediction to close the session, Mrs. McCoy assisted Mrs. Richardson serving a salad course.

CHECK PRESSURE CANNER

Planning to can this summer? Check your pressure canner now so you won't be delayed by waiting on parts. Read over the manufacturer's instruction book on care, cleaning, and operation.

Check the canner parts:

If the canner has a rubber gasket, has it been turned? If the gasket is cracked or hard, replace it.

Is the closure tight? Are sealing edges clean? If movable or removable parts show wear, replace them.

Is the vent for exhausting steam shiny clean and free of deposits?

Can you identify the safety plug? It is usually a composition disc or a metal alloy plug which will melt under too high pressure. Either type should be replaced if it is not in good condition.

Give the canner a thorough cleaning. Use a fine cleansing powder such as whiting (available at drug stores) to remove accumulated deposits. Scour the jar rack and dry it carefully. Pull a string or fine bit of cloth through vents and other small openings to clean them.

Have the pressure gauge checked every year before you begin canning. Call our office at 335-1150 for an appointment.

We're setting up workshops on canning for homemakers this summer. We're arranging these to fit your schedule and needs. Call and let me know what help and or information you'd like.

Serve artichokes with a new dip

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

One of the best ways to serve cooked artichokes is with a dipping sauce. And it's fun to invent one to try on family and guests. That's just what we've done and the recipe follows. We were inspired by the popular filling for sandwiches — hard-cooked eggs, pimiento-stuffed green olives and mayonnaise. Here then is our version of the sandwich filling made into a dip.

ARTICHOKES WITH EGG-OLIVE DIP

3 hard-cooked eggs
¾ cup mayonnaise
1-3 cup finely chopped pimiento-stuffed green olives
1½ teaspoons lemon juice
4 cooked artichokes, see below

Press eggs through a sieve or mash. Add mayonnaise, olives and lemon juice; mix well. Makes 1¼ to 1½ cups. Cover and chill. At serving time spoon this dip into the center of the cooked artichokes or pass the dip separately. Makes 4 servings.

COOKED ARTICHOKES

Cut off the stems of 4 artichokes and remove small bottom leaves. With a sharp heavy knife, cut off about 1 inch from top of artichokes. With a kitchen scissors trim tips from leaves. Stand the artichokes upright in a deep saucepot just large enough to hold them snugly. Add 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon olive oil and enough boiling water to come up high on artichokes. Cover and boil gently until base can be pierced easily with a fork — 35 to 45 minutes. Turn artichokes upside down and allow to drain, then stand top side up. Gently pull out small inner leaves attached to chokes (thistle portions) and discard; with a sturdy teaspoon scoop out chokes and discard. Cover and chill until serving time.

To make herb bread, add caraway seeds, crumbled leaf sage and nutmeg to regular yeast dough for white bread.

Afternoon visitors were Mrs. Virginia Harper, of Washington C.H., Mrs. Frank Fuller, Yazoo City, Miss., Mrs. Minnie Mann and Mrs. Billie Mann and daughter, of Greenfield, and Donald Allison, of South Solon.

Put candles for the dinner table in the freezer the day before you intend to use them. This treatment is said to make the candles burn more slowly than usual and of course last longer.

Memorial service held

The Virginia Circle of the United Methodist Church held their picnic supper in the home of Mrs. Harold Zimmerman. Mrs. David Grants, Circle leader, opened the meeting with a poem. A memorial service was held for Mrs. Ray Fisher, and a memorial fund collected in her honor.

Mrs. Helen Fults had charge of the program and closed the meeting with prayer.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — There's a lively media show you might want to catch Thursday night on CBS-TV, particularly if you're among those who think network news departments are filled with rascals, buffoons and poltroons.

The show, "Anatomy of a News Story," doesn't spill any beans in that respect, but it does offer a reasonably thorough, behind-the-lines look at the way a major network covers a major story.

The story was the 1972 GOP National Convention in Miami Beach. CBS News sent a documentary team, headed by producer-reporter John Sharnick, to cover the way CBS' newsmen handled the proceedings.

Special emphasis was put on the way they reported demonstrations; as you'll recall, the networks came under heavy criticism for the way they covered the violent street battles that accompanied the 1968 Democratic National Convention in Chicago.

CBS correspondent Dan Rather notes at the start of "Anatomy" that the 1972 conventions and the threat of similar incidents provided "a good chance for a case study of television news in action—not by way of trying to debate the charges, but simply to give you some basis on which to make your judgements."

He calls the program "a form of self-examination," which is partly correct. CBS newsmen, a field producer and cameramen are asked about their coverage of the scenes outside the convention hall, about what they saw and how they reacted to it.

'Anatomy" is a good primer for viewers who never before have seen the actual pressures and workings of a network news department as it covers a constantly changing story.

It's at its best in capturing the organized pandemonium of the control room, where CBS News executives facing banks of flickering screens must make fast, intelligent decisions while talking with and hearing from two, three or more people simultaneously.

See shortage of milk soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders of the National Milk Producers Federation say that Nixon administration decisions, including the recent price freeze, could lead to milk shortages later this year.

"This nation's consumers will find empty retail dairy counters later this year if corrective measures are not taken immediately," Patrick Healy, federation secretary, said Monday.

The cost of producing milk has risen steeply while prices paid to dairy farmers have lagged, Healy said. The price freeze announced June 13 is an "intolerable position" for producers, he said.

"While it is true that raw agricultural prices were technically exempt from the price freeze, because processors and distributors of milk and dairy products cannot pass their increased cost through the market, the effect is to freeze prices paid farmers," Healy said.

Healy and Glenn Lake, president of the federation, told a news conference that unless dairy farmers get relief soon they will have to cut back operations sharply.

Pesticide safety rules relaxed by government

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bending to pressure from Congress and farmers, the Labor Department has watered down controversial regulations intended to protect farm workers from pesticides.

Asst. Labor Secretary John H. Stender said the original regulations were "broader than necessary" and covered some pesticides that "are not highly toxic."

This was the explanation given by Stender in signing the revised emergency temporary regulations last Friday. They were not to be announced until published in the Federal Register June 29. A copy was obtained by The Associated Press.

The initial regulations, which governed the time farm workers could enter fields or orchards after the area has been sprayed with organophosphorous chemicals, met heavy opposition from growers and farm state congressmen.

Fewer men seek psychiatric aid

VICTORIA, British Columbia (AP) — Dr. Ian Kenning, head of the division of psychiatry at the Eric Martin Institute, says women outnumber men in mental institutions but men outnumber women in jails.

Dr. Kenning says society rules that men must not be sick or weak, so men with emotional problems are less likely to seek psychiatric help and tend instead to get into trouble with the law.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birhtday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

THURSDAY, JUNE 28

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

This should be a fruitful day, when some of your more vigorous efforts could bring unexpected rewards and recognition. Romance also favored.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Best results will accrue from working with those who have know-how and inspiration to offer. Solo ventures may not be as successful.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

Avoid a tendency toward lethargy. Rewards will be commensurate with the efforts you expend. Keep your own counsel in personal affairs.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

Waste no time getting this day out of the planning stage and into enthusiastic, well-executed action. Any possible obstacle should stimulate you — not annoy.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Put a bit more enthusiasm into efforts.. Success can come through new alliances. The "different," if appropriate, could spark day's drive.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Quite unexpectedly, you may be afforded the chance to do something big, attain a new foothold on the ladder to success. Keep alert and ready to act.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

What you say and do now could have more far-reaching effects than you realize, so mark time, think things over before acting. NO impulsiveness!

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Reflexes, intuition and business acumen should be knee now. Especially favored under day's aspects: research, merchandising, business transactions in general.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

With your innate ingenuity, you will probably discover more than one novel way of meeting this day's demands. Others are competing for identical goals: Push on!

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Some situations may be getting out of hand. This is the time to use your wits and clear up matters insofar as YOU are personally concerned.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

A top day for displaying your canny sense of timing and ability to cut deadwood from your schedule. Some new opportunities in the offing.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

A good period. Augment your program with something special, out-of-the-ordinary. Trump competition's move with quiet, tactful skill.

YOU BORN TODAY are an extremely sensitive, compassionate and responsive individual, devoted to home, family and friends. You tend to be jealous and overpossessive with loves ones, however, and should try to curb these traits since they tend to "strangle" the very ones whose affection you crave. You have a lively imagination and a delightful sense of humor; would make an excellent writer or entertainer. You could also succeed in the law — especially of the criminal variety — but, if not attracted to any of the aforementioned fields, may find your greatest happiness in science — especially medicine. Your affinity for the unknown and the untried, coupled with your investigative mind, would also make you a brilliant detective.

Child abuse said disgrace

NEW YORK (AP) — The ways in which American parents batter and neglect and even kill their children is "a national disgrace worse than Watergate," a physician specializing on child abuse declared declared today.

"It is estimated we will be dealing with a minimum of 1.5 million cases of suspected child abuse and neglect this year, approximately 50,000 childhood deaths that could be attributed to maltreatment and 300,000 permanently injured children, (injured) both physically and emotionally," said Dr. Vincent J. Fontana of New York City.

He is director of pediatrics at St. Vincent's Hospital and medical director of the New York Foundling Hospital.

Battered, abused and neglected children grow up to become parents who treat their children the same way, in an abuse that spirals upward, producing more or continuing anger, hate and criminality. Fontana told the American Medical Association meeting in convention here.

"Unless we move to recognize this problem and give a great amount of money toward solving it, some day very few of us will be able to go out on the streets," Fontana said.

Driver, 23, trapped in car-truck crackup

An East Liverpool driver was seriously injured when his foreign model sports car crashed into the rear of a parked semi-rig on I-71, two miles north of Ohio 41, Wednesday morning.

Sheriff's deputies said Geoffery M. Lowe,23, was pinned in his mangled car for several minutes before he was finally freed and brought to Memorial Hospital. He suffered head injuries and was later transfered to Riverside Hospital, Columbus,

Lowe was southbound when his car ran off the right side and crashed into the left rear wheels of a Chemical Lehman tank truck parked under the Hidy Road overpass, officers reported. The car then bounced back onto the roadway, blocking the right lane of traffic.

Officers said Lowe's seatbelt was fastened and possibly saved him from further injuries.

The 1970 model car was demolished. There was moderate damage to the left rear of the tank trailer.

THREE DRIVERS were cited in two other traffic mishaps investigated by police and sheriff's departments overnight.

Drivers of both cars involved in a crash in front of 1225 N. North Street at 8:48 p.m. Tuesday were cited by police for traffic law violations.

Investigation officers said a car driven by Kenneth J. Matthews, 21, of 1225 N. North St., had pulled from a private drive into the path of a southbound car driven by Charles B. Eastes, 16, of 412½ Eastern Ave.

The Eastes car hit the left rear of Matthew's car and both vehicles spun around off the east side of the highway. Officers said the head lights on the Eastes car were not on at the time of the crash.

Matthews was cited for failure to yield the right of way and Eastes for driving without sufficient lights. Damage to both cars was moderate.

SHERIFF'S deputies cited David J. Williams, 28, Storybrook Apt. 882, for failing to drive on the right side of the roadway after a single car crash on the CCC Highway-W just east of Jasper-Coil Road at 1 a.m. Wednesday.

Williams claimed injury but was not treated at the time. His 1964 model car was demolished.

Storm damage minimal here

Despite some ominous looking clouds, and a tornado watch, strong winds, there was little in the way of damage reported as a result of a band of thunderstorms which passed through Fayette County Tuesday evening.

Local weather observer Coyt A. Stookey, reported .35 inch of rain fell in the Washington C.H. area. Gale Parrett reported .84 inch of precipitation at Parrott Station.

Trees were reported down across roads in Octa and on Prairie Road while city police reported some limbs in streets.

Dayton Power and Light Co., and Ohio Bell Telephone Co., both said they had some scattered outages but no major damage.

Union trustees meet

Union Township trustees had a short, routine meeting Tuesday night. The payment of several bills was approved.

Ohio's corn crop fate in question

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Ohio's corn crop, delayed and disorganized by rain and muddy fields, finally is virtually in the ground. The next question, is: What kind of yield will farmers get?

"When you plant after the optimum deadline," said Dr. Herbert Hadley of Ohio State University, "you can expect reduced yield.

"Say the optimum planting deadline is May 10. You may lose as much as half a bushel an acre a day for every day you plant after that."

Ohio's average yield is just under 90 bushels to the acre. With corn selling at more than $2 a bushel, and the intended acreage for this year estimated at 3.66 million acres, the loss in money could be sizeable.

Loss of just one bushel to the acre would add up to $7.3 million at harvest time.

Ohio corn planting is reported to be two weeks to one month behind schedule. "Ohio is worse off than any of the corn belt states," said Dr. Hadley. "For instance, a week ago the average of the corn belt states was 96 per cent of the corn crop planted. Ohio stood at 90 per cent."

The Statistical Reporting Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture said corn, by tradition knee-high on July 4, was running 11 inches tall compared to 13 inches tall this time last year.

"Ohio still needs more sun and less wetness," SRS said. "Farmers have been able to get into the fields four days last week and five days the previous week.

"That's the third time this year the average has gone over four days and the first time it has gone over four days two consecutive weeks."

Dr. Hadley said, "South of Columbus the corn looks good. It's spotty, of course, and weedy here and there. North of Columbus they're hurting more. The Northeast is worse off, but the Northwest reports are generally fair."

Buckeye farmers have planted 80 per cent of the soybean crop, SRS reported, and the yields are listed as in fair condition. Beans are running four inches tall, about the same as last year.

With the market price for beans above $10 a bushel, farmers watch this crop anxiously. They have an estimated 3.316 million acres at stake.

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Safety Council estimates that between 180 and 240 persons may be killed in traffic accidents during the Fourth of July holiday.

The estimate covers the period from 6 p.m. Tuesday, July 3, to midnight Wednesay, July 4, in each daylight time zone. The six hours of Tuesday are included to account for those leaving on trips immediately after work.

During the same 30-hour period, the council estimated 10,000 to 12,000 persons may suffer disabling injuries in motor traffic accidents. It defines disabling injuries as those requiring hospital care beyond the day of the accident.

The last time Independence Day fell on Wednesday was in 1962. There were 146 fatalities that year.

Arizona accident claims Ohio woman

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP) — A collision involving two station wagons has claimed the lives of two Arizonans and an elderly Ohio woman.

The Arizona Highway Patrol identified the victims Tuesday as Ronald Delmont Mafit, 21, Flagstaff; Mayme Aleen Strang, 72, Phoenix, Ariz.; and Vonna Leif, about 70, Ansonia, Ohio.

Forty foreign students who have been in Southwestern Ohio high schools this past year under the American Field Service program will meet at Washington Senior High School Saturday to begin a one-week tour of the Eastern Uunited States.

After they have completed the tour, each will leave for his or her respective homeland.

Two of the students will arrive Friday night and stay with local residents. The rest will be arriving Saturday morning to board a Greyhound bus for an itinerary known only by AFS aides.

The purpose of the trip is twofold — it gives the students a chance to better acquaint themselves with the country in which they have studied, and it cushions the blow of leaving the American families with whom they have been living.

The separation of these "families" is difficult for both the student and their American hosts, and the trip acts as a buffer for the students.

Beginning at 7 a.m. Saturday Mrs. Walter Seifried will be checking in the young visitors, while William Pool is weighing their luggage. Mrs. Gerald Wheat will be serving coffee at the Washington Senior High School building to the students and their "parents" as well as any local residents who wish to attend.

The visiting students will leave for the Eastern seaboard and their homes Monday, July 9.

State solons seek avenue for parochial aid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State lawmakers apparently have not given up plans to try to help Ohio's parochial schools, despite Monday's adverse decision by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Members of the conference committee from both political parties said Tuesday night that other legal ways may be found, and that at least part of the $81 million originally earmarked for that purpose should be kept for parochial education.

The high court ruled that a New York law granting tax credits to parents of parochial school pupils violates the constitutional separation of church and state. Ohio's law is almost identical.

A Democratic member of the conference committee studying the state's proposed $9.9 billion budget said he wants the legislature to appropriate the entire $81 million pending further study.

"It's their money," said House Speaker Pro Tem Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, one of the three Democrats on the six-member conference committee.

Riffe said it may be possible for the state to channel some of the funds to the private schools in auxiliary services such as textbooks and audio-visual aids. He said Ohio has been doing this since 1967 "and so far as I know, this latest decision doesn't affect it."

Senate Finance Chairman Max H. Dennis, R-10 Wilmington, one of the three GOP conferees, indicated Republicans want to retain the $53.6 million subsidy appropriated in the 1973-75 budget, but may seek to reappropriate $27.9 million left over from this biennium after the tax credit program was halted in the courts.

The present budget expires at midnight Saturday.

Dennis said Republicans may propose using $16 million for additional vocational education construction, with that amount representing the state's share of matching funds with local vocational school districts. He said the local districts have voted levies to provide their share and the state is obligated to provide the remainder.

Otherwise, the Wilmington attorney said he feels "there are many worthwhile things" the legislature might do in areas it felt it previously could not afford. Among these, he said, are subsidies for increased salaries for deputy sheriffs and transportation for retarded school pupils.

The conference committee headed by House Finance Chairman Myrl Shoemaker, D-88 Bourneville, held no formal meetings Tuesday, but had a series of "private discussions." He said the committee probably will get together for a formal session Wednesday.

Besides the dilemma over the parochial schools, the committee still has to resolve Senate-House differences on about $100 million in cut state department budget requests.

Democrats want to scale down a GOP provision for $75 million in income tax relief for working couples who file joint returns—about 10 per cent a year—and use some of that money to restore the cuts.

Dennis said Tuesday that Republicans will not agree.

"We're holding firm on that," he said.

Theft, dumping reports checked

A bicycle theft and trash-dumping complaint were investigated by police and sheriff's departments overnight.

Debbie Lightner, of 832 S. Hinde St., reported that a bicycle had been stolen from the front yard at her home sometime overnight Monday. The bicycle was recovered Tuesday.

Someone dumped several bags of trash in a ditch on Creek Road, near Rock Bridge. The trash was discovered by a county highway department crew.

Ohio Perspective

State solons get vacation itch

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Some Ohio legislators are showing signs of restlessness now that the summer vacation season has begun.

Rep. Thomas P. Gilmartin, D-51 Youngstown, admits he is one of the restless group, but the veteran Democrat said it wasn't so much the time of the year.

"I think the people get tired of us being down here so long," said Gilmartin the other night in the Statehouse. "They think there's too much government as it is."

Gilmartin is a veteran of five House terms and one in the Senate. He has learned compromise as a means of speeding up legislation.

The Youngstown legislator was among a trio of House Democrats who wanted to concur last week in Republican changes to Gov. John J. Gilligan's $9.9 billion appropriations bill.

"I think it's a basically good bill," Gilmartin said. "We ought to pass it and get out of here."

Gilmartin voted to concur along with Reps. George Tablack, D-52 Campbell, and John P. Wargo, D-2 Lisbon. Others who might have so voted were persuaded not to do so at a Democratic caucus.

Robert Tenenbaum, Gov. John J. Gilligan's press secretary, sent out word that he and the communications staff had been moved during the remodeling of the governor's office.

He said their new office area is next to the base of the west steps inside the rotunda, and could be entered through a door "which has been kept locked for several years."

Tenenbaum added: "For those of you who attach significance to such things, we are just to the left of the Mike DiSalle portrait and opposite the Jim Rhodes portrait."

Sen. Robert T. Secrest, the former long-time congressman from Cambridge who has sat through thousands of hours of legislative hearings, likes to reduce things to pure simplicity when it's possible.

Secrest was listening at a committee meeting to an explanation of an amendment to eliminate a $1.7 million claims fund in the budget of the attorney general.

The senator bore down with questions after hearing that the attorney general wanted the rotary fund eliminated. Finally he established that the witness wanted the money transferred, not taken out of the budget.

"He asked that you take off a shoe, and you cut off the whole foot," Secrest said, producing chuckles along the table but no disagreement.

Resolution adopted for 'Tecumseh' show

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State senators Tuesday unanimously adopted a resolution saluting sponsors of Ohio's newest outdoor epic drama, "Tecumseh," which tells the story of the troubled Ohio frontier and portrays the Shawnee chief as "one of the most powerful figures in American history."

Sen. Harry Armstrong, R-17 Logan, offered the resolution saying the production will enhance the Scioto Valley's tourist prospects and also be an economic boost for the area.

Golf course expenses mount; so does income

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Maybe some of you country clubbers wouldn't complain so loudly about your dues if you knew how much it costs to maintain that lush golf course you so casually abuse.

The typical course that could be maintained for $3,162 a hole in 1958 now costs $6,243 a hole, and like most things in life the increase is accelerating.

Expenses last year rose 5.3 per cent, which really isn't so bad as to make you spill your drink. Your household expenses probably rose more than that.

An accounting firm, Harris, Kerr, Forster & Co., broke down the costs of operating 100 clubs coast to coast, and now you have some dollar signs to think about every time you make a divot with your five iron.

The biggest item, as it always has been, is labor, which averaged out in the survey to $3,833 a hole, to which must be added $437 in payroll taxes and employe benefits.

Course supplies and contracts added another $919; repairs to equipment, buildings, water and drainage systems tacked on $597, and "all other expenses" put $457 on the tab, bringing the total to $6,243.

But this is an average, and in a country so large and diverse as the United States, averages lie. The operator of a Pacific Coast club might give a consultant free golf privileges if he told him how to reduce his costs to that of a Midwest club.

Here's the breakdown: East $5,852, South $6,901, Midwest $5,166, and Far West $8,150. The accounting firm didn't specify the reasons for the spread, but topographical and climatic conditions, and life styles, clearly played a role.

There is one more cost factor that isn't included on the line called "total golf course maintenance." It is called "golf shop, caddy and committee expenses, and it adds $1,216, making total golf expenses $7,459.

But then there is another side to the ledger that puts all these figures into reverse. The accountants put it on a line called "income from golf fees, golf carts, driving range, etc." and subtact it from total golf expenses.

While the average of such income was $3,016, the regional differences again were great: $1,980 in the East, $3,280 South, $2,747 Midwest and $5,394 in the Far West.

Because this income was highest in areas where expenses were also highest, net golf expenses throughout the country were surprisingly near the $4,443 average in all geographical divisions.

Country clubs do, of course, have income other than from golf. Members pay dues, for example, which averaged $657 last year, an increase of $40 in one year, and about double the dues of 1958.

And they eat and drink at the clubs. Food and beverage sales averaged $611 per club last year, which might convince certain indulgent members that they are contributing by their presence at the bar, until they realize that many clubs lose money on such operations.

Use of computers delaying payments?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Welfare Department's use of computers is delaying payment to health care providers of crippled children, two legislators charged Tuesday.

State Reps. Sam Speck, R-95 New Concord, and E. William O'Neill, R-26 Columbus, said the program does not have to be billed by computer, as the rest of the Medicaid programs.

Governor's award for Youngstown firm

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The governor's award for Community Action was presented Tuesday to Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co.

Gov. John Gilligan honored the firm for its efforts in installing pollution control equipment at its Ohio plants.

Grover takes helm as Rotary Club 'changes guard'

The Washington C.H. Rotary Club went through its customary "changing of the guard" ceremonies at its regular meeting held Tuesday in the Country Club.

Fred L. Domenico conducted his last meeting as president and turned the gavel over to Phil Grover, the new president, who was officially installed.

Domenico reviewed what he felt was "a very good year" in the Rotary Club and thanked members for their cooperation throughout his term of office.

He mentioned projects such as the Rotary-Ann program and the inception of the Rotary foreign exchange student program in which Edson Pitwak came to Washington C.H. from Brazil. The annual Little League fish fry was also a highlight of Domenico's review. This year's fish fry was termed the best-ever in regard to the amount of money which was raised to benefit the Little League baseball program in Washington C.H.

Past President Charles (Bud) Mustine presented Domenico with a gaval, symbolic of holding the president's office.

Grover outlined his program for the coming year and announced the various committee appointments.

Judge Rollo M. Marchant presented the traditional charge to the Rotary Club's new members. Marchant paid tribute to the late Ray Maddox who prepared the charge a number of years while he was a member of the Rotary Club.

The club inducted eight new members this year. They are Ray Downing, Ron Hidy, John Gruber, John Toby, the Rev. Elmer E. Burrall, City Manager Dan Wolford, Jack Brennan and Leo Krause.

Froeign exchange students Claudia Becht, of West Germany, who lived with the Dwight Duff family, Washington-Waterloo Rd., and Bundit Kanyavongha, of Thailand, who lived with the Edwin Nestor family, Green Valley Rd., were guests of the club and were presented gifts. The students were introduced by William Pool. The Rotary Club is active in the foreign exchange student program.

Edwin Nestor was a guest of Domenico, and visiting Rotarians were Dr. Walter Felson, of Greenfield, John Hill, of London, and Larry Hughes, of Mount Sterling.

2 more bodies taken from river

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— The bodies of two drowning victims were recovered by authorities Tuesday, leaving one of four persons lost in weekend accidents still missing.

The bodies of Ralph Hensley, 23, Price Hill, and David Roach, 19, Mt. Healthy, were retrieved by rescue workers.

Hensley and a companion drowned while swimming in the Whitewater River between Elizabethtown and Cleves. Roach and Charles Manis, 25, Norwood, disappeared in the same stretch of water.

Manis' body is still missing.

Anyway, it worked

BOMBAY, India (AP) — An accused gambler claimed a pickpocket took his money in the courtroom just before his bail hearing. The judge gave him the benefit of the doubt and freed him without bail.

BABY CHICKS KILLED — Workers in a hatchery in Ranger, Ga., dump baby chicks into large drums that will be covered and buried in woods nearby. More than 20,000 were destroyed by the hatchery which said President Nixon's price freeze and the rising cost of grain would force them to sell the chicks, when full grown, at a loss.

European fuel supply plentiful

LONDON (AP) — The oil shortage threatening American motorists has not been felt in Europe and it is not expected to become a problem anytime soon, according to oil industry sources.

A British oil industry source says, "America is now paying for 70 years of self-sufficiency.

"For years the United States was able to meet its own oil needs from domestic production while Europe had to buy its oil on the world market.

"Now because of increasing needs, the U.S. has had to come out onto the world market to buy where Europeans already are well-established and have their supplies sewed up," the source explained.

European oil industry sources predict that some day oil could also be in short supply for the Europeans if American companies continue their shopping spree on world markets.

Oil experts say that American antipollution laws, which cut gas mileage and restrict refining operations, also contribute to the U.S. fuel shortage. The many heavy, high-powered cars Americans drive also contribute to the problem.

However, gasoline prices are high in Europe compared to America and the price is going up in several countries. Britain had a recent price rise of 2.6 U.S. cents which brought the price of a gallon of gasoline to 99 cents.

West German officials say the price of a liter of gasoline has risen since January by nearly one U.S cent to around 26 cents a liter. Another 2-cent increase is expected next month when an anti-inflation tax is imposed. A liter is slightly more than a quart.

The only report of gasoline shortages comes from Moscow, where the city's relatively few stations sometimes run out. But this probably is due to logistical and distribution problems plaguing the Soviet economy, rather than to any shortage of gasoline.

Traffic Court

Two drivers were fined and three forfeited bond in traffic cases before Judge Reed M. Winegardner in Municipal Court Tuesday afternoon.

POLICE

Fined:

SHERIFF

Bond Forfeitures:

Robert L. Wilson, 34, Rt. 3, reckless operation, $60.

Samuel J. Hunt, 59, Sabina, reckless operation $60.

Gerald G. Bowsher, 30, of 825 Washington Ct., failure to yield the right of way, $25.

Irish election violence mounts

BELFAST (AP) — Northern Ireland's bloodstained election campaign hit the final stretch today with tight security planned against the threat of bombing and assassination.

One million persons are expected to vote Thursday for a provincial assembly intended to help end the province's guerrilla war between Protestants and Roman Catholics.

The three-week campaign has produced 25 violent deaths and more than 70 bombings.

New Girl Scout program has parents up in arms

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Girl Scouts 12 to 14 years old are being told about sex, birth control and abortion in a pilot program here. Some protesting mothers feel the girls should stick to baking cookies.

The controversy centers around a new Girl Scout merit badge called "To Be a Woman." It threatens to split Philadelphia's Girl Scout troops.

Roman Catholics, especially, are up in arms over the badge which has not yet been approved nationally.

The merit badge has four parts: Know Our Bodies, Know Our Heritage, Know Your Opportunities and Know Our Situation.

Requirements include knowledge about menopause, hysterectomies, termination of a pregnancy, women in history, how women live and how to handle a rape emergency. Girls are urged to visit a VD clinic, to use a stethoscope and listen to their hearts and lungs and those of their friends and to prepare a skit on how to deal with a rape situation.

Parental permission is required to participate in the program. But this doesn't satisfy critics.

"Nonsense," replies Muriel Lehman, president of the Philadelphia Council, which has 29,000 scouts.

Mrs. Lehman says, "The badge supports women in their struggle for parity. For too long women have been ill-informed, timid, inactive or denied the opportunity to be truly active citizens."

Mrs. Arnold sees the badge as representing "a radical element of the women's liberation movement." She adds:

"I would rather not have my children indoctrinated to sex education, abortion education and contraceptive education, especially at so young an age."

Ernesta Drinker Ballard is chairman of the "To Be a Woman" badge committee. She disagrees with those who say it isn't "the Girl Scout organization's place to make children aware of womanhood and their bodies" and that sex education should be taught at home or in church.

Mrs. Ballard says, "Our office has received letters from scouts who cannot discuss these subjects with their parents and do not learn it in health class."

Hold justice workshop

CAMBRIDGE, Ohio (AP) — The 39-member Ohio Criminal Justice Supervisory Commission opens a three-day workshop at Salt Fork State Park here today to examine recommendations of a national study on criminal justice.

Judge John V. Corrigan of Cleveland, chairman of the state commission, said Tuesday "Ohio must take a long and hard look at the complete criminal justice system in light of a national call for higher standards and greater goals.

"This week Ohio will become one of the first states in the union to begin such a major revision in its justice environment."

Corrigan termed the workshop "a screening session, and an opportunity to sift out those recommendations by the national commission which should be implemented in Ohio."

Dollar slumps after trade data bared

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar slumped to another record low in Frankfurt and was down at the opening of other European exchanges today.

Disappointment over a bad showing in American overseas trade was blamed for setting off a new wave of dollar selling.

"There is just no encouraging news from America these days," one dealer in London commented.

The dollar opened at 2.5180 marks in Frankfurt after being as low as 2.5125 marks in premarket dealing. That was a drop of four pfennigs in the past 36 hours. Tuesday's closing level was 2.5325 marks.

In London, the pound jumped more than half a cent to $2.58395.

In Paris, the dollar dropped two centimes to 4.2050 francs, still above the all-time low of 4.17 francs.

The dollar price of gold moved up 50 cents an ounce to $123.50 in London and 25 cents in Zurich to $123.25. The dollar price of the metal generally moves in opposition to the value of the dollar.

Soviets laud Brezhnev 'triumph'

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The Soviet press has created an aura of triumph for Leonid I. Brezhnev on his return from his prospecting trip to the goldfields of capitalism. The enormous press coverage suggests to Russians that their chief's summitry was the biggest thing since the Bolshevik revolution.

That could leave many a Russian puzzled. It should present some mysteries for knowledgeable Americans as well.

"As you know, two years ago the 24th Congress of our ruling party, the Communist party of the Soviet Union, approved the Soviet peace program, which is a concrete embodiment of the policy of peaceful coexistence in modern conditions," said Brezhnev on U.S. television.

He likely was aware few Americans knew anything of the sort.

But if Americans take his word for it, that the long centerpiece report Brezhnev laid down at that Congress was the source of this whole peace offensive, it makes for some interesting reflections about Brezhnev 1971 and Brezhnev 1973. Just a few examples:

Brezhnev industriously courted every U.S. capitalist within reach in his U.S. week, admiring the American system's efficiency and know-how and expressing hopes of concluding big deals. What did he have to say about the U.S. system in 1971 when, according to him, his current foreign policy was being drawn up?

"The general crisis of capitalism has continued to deepen," he said in the report that was the basis of his current program. "Even the most developed capitalist states are not free from grave economic upheavals. The U.S.A., for example, has been floundering in one of its economic crises for almost two years."

Brezhnev told the American public that patience and understanding are needed to promote peace. What sort of understanding of the U.S. "imperialists" did he display in that 1971 program speech?

"The imperialists are prepared to commit any crime in their efforts to preserve and restore their domination of peoples in ... countries that are escaping from the grip of capitalist exploitation...." Brezhnev told the Americans the cold war was over. Does this suggest calling it quits in the war of ideology?

In that same "program" speech of 1971, Brezhnev said Soviet policies meant "fresh prospects have opened up for the triumph of socialism all over the world.

"The full triumph of the socialist cause all over the world is inevitable," he said. "And we shall not spare ourselves in the fight for this triumph."

Fuel costs increase for school districts

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Twelve school districts in Franklin County will have to pay more for their fuel this fiscal year.

Standard Oil submitted the lone bid on the one million gallons of fuel the districts use each year.

The bid was 26.9 cents a gallon. Last year, school districts bought gasoline at prices ranging from 18.95 cents to 21.45 a gallon.

Paris summitry enters 2nd day

Gesturing toward the chateau, Pompidou told the Soviet leader, "This is where the rupture between De Gaulle and Macmillan took place."

He was referring to a 1962 meeting in which the then British prime minister, Harold Macmillan and Gen. Charles de Gaulle could not agree on a concept for an independent nuclear force.

Tolan's escape act fuses Cincy's win over Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Cincinnati centerfielder Bobby Tolan pulled an escape act in stealing second base against Houston that would have made Houdini proud.

Tolan, apparently caught in a rundown, dived into Astros shortstop Roger Metzger in the eighth inning and mysteriously appeared again on second base without being tagged Tuesday night.

From that point, with two out, the Redlegs scored three runs on a two-run double by Dave Concepcion and a run-scoring single by Bill Plummer to rout the Houston Astros 5-1, snapping a four-game winning streak.

"I tagged him as I jumped over him," Metzger said. "I wasn't low enough to tag the turf and I know I hit something."

"They had already run me as hard as I could go, so I figured the only thing to do was slide," said Tolan. "I didn't feel any tag. The only thing I felt was (pitcher Don) Wilson's knee when I dove back into second base."

"I'm looking right down the line and I can see Metzger tag him," said Astros Manager Leo Durocher, who was ejected from the game in the ensuing rhubarb for kicking a batting helmet twice. "That call cost us three runs."

The Astros already were trailing the Reds 2-1 on the strength of Joe Morgan's tworun double in the third inning. Houston got its only run in the second off Tommy Helm's double.

The Astros blew plenty of scoring opportunities against the defending National League champions, leaving runners on third base in the third, fourth and sixth innings.

Doug Rader flied out with the bases loaded and two away in the third. In the fourth, Reds right fielder Larry Stahl caught Jim Wynn's fly, then made a perfect throw home to catch Tommy Helms.

Successive groundouts by Wynn and Metzger ended the sixth with runners on second and third.

Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson said Tolan definitely was safe on the controversial play, but he couldn't say if the victory would pick the Reds up from the doldrums.

But Anderson agreed that a few more escape acts like Tolan's would help the Reds in their efforts to climb from fourth place in the National League West.

Reserve boss succeeds Stauffer

Creamer elevated in MT's basketball coaching ranks

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Sports Editor

Dale Creamer, reserve basketball coach at Miami Trace High School the past four seasons, has been elevated to the head coaching position.

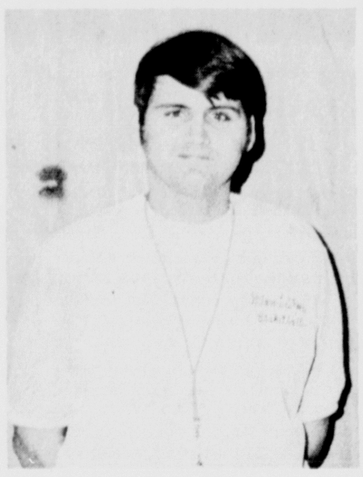
Creamer, who was named to the head coaching job by the Fayette County Board of Education at its regular meeting Tuesday night, replaces Jan Stauffer, who resigned last week to accept a position as an assistant instructor in physical education and help head coach Bobby Knight with the basketball program at Indiana University.

STAUFFER, who had coached Miami Trace's basketball teams for the past three years, will also be working toward his doctorate degree at Indiana University.

Creamer, a product of Otterbein College, Westerville, and a former All-South Central Ohio League basketball player, has guided Miami Trace's reserve basketball teams to a respectable 42-30 all-games record during his four-year tenure.

His first Panther version turned in a lowly 4-14 all-games record, but the 1970-71 team completely reversed that showing with a 14-4 mark and captured a SCOL championship.

Creamer's last two Miami Trace editions have registered identical 12-6 records, with the 1971-72 team winning a SCOL title.



DALE CREAMER

In the 1970 and 1971 seasons, Creamer was an assistant with the Miami Trace freshman football program and last year joined head coach Fred Bernier's varsity staff where he tutored the offensive line.

He was born in Jeffersonville and graduated from Pleasant View High School, near Columbus, in 1962. Creamer played basketball, baseball and football and it was in basketball that he was named to the All-SCOL honors during his senior year. In football he played defensive tackle and was a pitcher in baseball.

Following graduation from Pleasant View High School, Creamer went to Otterbein College where he received a bachelor of science degree in education in 1966.

Creamer played varsity basketball for three years at Otterbein College before a fractured foot sidelined him during his senior season.

AFTER GRADUATION from Otterbein College, Creamer accepted a teaching position in the Xenia School District, where he stayed three years before coming to Miami Trace.

While at Xenia he coached junior high football, basketball and baseball for one year and served as an assistant coach and reserve basketball coach for two seasons on the high school level.

During his first year at Miami Trace, Creamer taught at Eber Junior High School and the following year joined the high school faculty. He has been teaching history and driver's education, but will instruct health and physical education next school year.

In 1971, Creamer completed the requirements for his master's degree at Xavier University, Cincinnati.

Creamer and his wife, Susan, reside at 403 Western Ave., in Washington C.H. and have two children, Kimberly, 3, and Kregg, eight and a half months.

Pistol match slated Sunday

The Fayette County Fish and Game Association will sponsor the second in a series of pistol matches from noon until 5 p.m. Sunday at the association's range on Stafford Road.

Phil French, chairman of the project, said all firing courses will be held at a distance of 50 yards and the competiitors will be grouped together according to the type of handgun.

The course of fire will consist of 30 shots and the public is invited to participate in the event.

The Fish and Game Association's April 29 pistol match attracted a fine turnout and officials are expecting more competitors this month.

WCH visits Waverly in SCOL play tonight

Weather permitting, Washington C.H.'s Post 25 American Legion baseball team will be hoping to improve its disappointing 1-4 record inside the South Central Ohio League pennant chase tonight when it visits Waverly for a single game beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Rain forced postponement of a non-league game between Washington C.H. and Lebanon Tuesday night at the Washington Senior High School diamond.

The game, played under a tornado watch, got off to a late start and the teams had completed three innings before home plate umpire Dale Creamer called the game at 8:45 p.m. following a 15-minute delay.

THE RAINS started to drench the players in the third inning after a three-run triple by Randy Rodgers had handed Washington C.H. a comfortable 5-0 lead. Post 25 had pushed across two runs in the opening inning on a two-run single by Paul England.

Lebanon was threatening to score in its half of the fourth inning as two runners had reached the basepaths on Post 25 starting pitcher Jeff Green before the weather conditions forced the umpires to call the game.

Following tonight's SCOL encounter at Waverly, Post 25 will have Thursday off before entertaining always-tough Cincinnati Bentley in a 5:30 p.m. clash Friday at the WSHS diamond.

Two more home games are billed for Post 25 this weekend. Washington C.H. is scheduled to host Groveport in a non-league game here Saturday and veteran manager Dick Shaffer's Hillsboro team will invade for a SCOL doubleheader at 1:30 p.m. Sunday.

Nicklaus threatened during tournament

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Authorities were remaining quiet over a reported death threat against golfer Jack Nicklaus Tuesday while he was playing a fund-raising round with comedian Bob Hope.

Additional protection joined the duo after the threat was made, according to The Cincinnati Enquirer.

Blue Chip Dan joins race with Secretariat

CHICAGO (AP) — It will be three against the Big One at Arlington Park Saturday, with Blue Chip Dan joining the battle against Secretariat in a 1⅛-mile, $125,000 special race.

An Arlington Park spokesman announced Tuesday that the connections of Secretariat, the winner of the Triple Crown; Our Native and My Gallant, had agreed to allow Blue Chip Dan into the race.

Unser's career aided by Washington paper

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Del Unser is not one of them.

In fact, the Philadelphia outfielder, who had five hits, including two homers in Tuesday's twi-night doubleheader split with the St. Louis Cardinals, recognizes that a Washington paper may have helped his career.

Unser's three-run blast in the first game powered the Phils to a 10-3 victory and his two-out ninth-inning homer tied the second game before the Cards won it in the 11th.

Last winter, Unser opened a Washington paper only to find he'd be reading a different sports page this summer. The story said he'd be trading his fifth-place letters in Cleveland for Philadelphia's last-place letters.

But that didn't bother Unser. Reading on, Unser found out that his job in Philadelphia wasn't going to be fulltime. Now that irked Unser.

The article said that he was slated for pinch-hitting, pinchrunning and defensive work, all part-time stuff. So the first act he did as a Philadelphia Phillie was call his manager.

"I'm going to be a starter," Unser said from his end of the phone. "Just give me a chance."

From the other end of the line Phils' Manager Danny Ozark claimed he was misquoted and assured Unser he'd get his chance.

Elsewhere in the National League, Los Angeles shut out San Diego 7-0; Atlanta blasted San Francisco 9-2; Chicago defeated New York 5-1; Cincinnati beat Houston 5-1 and Montreal stunned Pittsburgh 10-3.

The Giants lost No. 14 of their last 18 games Tuesday night at the hands of Atlanta. Substitute starter Ron Scheuler pitched a six-hitter and Darrell Evans and John Oates clouted homers in the Braves' victory.

The loss dropped the Giants 6½ games behind the pace-setting Dodgers in the NL West.

The Dodgers, behind Don Sutton's two-hit pitching, blanked the Padres for their 11th victory in their last 12 games.

The Mets are damaging New York's dream of a subway series. While the Yankees are first in the American League East, the Mets have dropped into last place in the NL East. Burt Hooton pitched a four-hitter and Jose Cardenal keyed a three-run third inning rally for Chicago's victory.

The Cubs now lead second-place Montreal by 6½ games.

In Houston, Joe Morgan's two-run double and the combined pitching of Ross Grimsley and Clay Carroll gave Cincinnati the victory and halted the Astros' four-game winning streak.

Rozelle still ponders drug testing proposal

NEW YORK (AP) — National Football League players who have been steaming over reports that Commissioner Pete Rozelle might force them to take urine tests as a means of deterring drug abuse may soon have a new target for their wrath.

Rozelle said Tuesday the league has put off any plans for such unprecedented testing of its athletes—but he stressed the idea is far from dead.

It is "still under consideration," he said, and may be resurrected for the 1973 season if legal problems regarding such a concept don't crop up and if the league's newest official, a medical consultant, thinks it's necessary.

The post hasn't been filled yet and isn't expected to be until this summer. Rozelle said three men—none of whom he identified—are being considered for the job and that several medical groups are being consulted in the search for the right man.

The appointment of an NFL medical consultant and the absence of urinalysis were highlights of a news conference in which Rozelle introduced some new procedures to supplement the league's drug abuse program.

The 26 team representatives in the NFLPA unanimously endorsed a resolution last Sunday rejecting "proposals lacking due process which would invade the privacy of gifted athletes and further violate individual rights and freedoms enjoyed by other citizens."

And a number of players, fuming over what they feel is the idea that they might end up being treated like race horses, say they're ready to seek legal counsel to fight urine testing.

The NFL didn't come up with the idea. It sprang from a congressional subcommittee probing the relation, if any, between sports and drugs. And the subcommittee has suggested that, if the drug problem becomes a serious one, it may seek its own solutions—such as urinalysis in a variety of pro sports.

Home runs pace Good Hope win

GOOD HOPE — Good Hope's Little League team, behind the one-hit pitching of Billy Henry and a deadly home run assault, bopped New Holland 18-2 Tuesday night. It was Good Hope's fourth win in five starts.

Mike Cline cracked a pair of home runs including a grand slam while Brian Zurface belted a pair of round-trippers and a single for Good Hope. Mark Dunn had three hits to provide ample support in the 15-hit attack.

Decker's prayer answered with 15-whiff performance

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The curveball and the fastball are a pitcher's most effective weapons. But then, it never hurts to look elsewhere for an extra edge.

Minnesota's Joe Decker looked...up.

"Before the game," said Decker after his 15-strikeout effort defeated the Chicago White Sox 4-0 Tuesday night, "I prayed that I would have a decent performance. One that would get me started—get me going this season."

To say that Decker's prayer was answered is an understatement. The strikeout total became the new American League high this season and nearly doubled the total the 26-year-old right-hander had accumulated going into the game.

In other American League games, the New York Yankees pummeled the Cleveland Indians 10-2, the Baltimore Orioles blanked the Milwaukee Brewers 6-0, the Detroit Tigers topped the Boston Red Sox 4-1, the Oakland Athletics beat the Texas Rangers 6-2 and the California Angels edged the Kansas City Royals 6-5.

At Fenway Park in Boston, Mike Strahler pitched 8 2-3 innings of seven-hit ball to help defeat the Red Sox and break the Tigers' eight-game losing streak. Gates Brown supplied the power with a run-scoring triple and two singles and Strahler did the rest, except for the final out, which was handled by John Hiller.

For many of the Oakland A's, the highlight of their victory was was not the long-ball hitting of Bill North and Joe Rudi, but the appearance at bat of relief pitcher Rollie Fingers. Fingers, who batted .316 last year before the inception of the designated hitter, batted for Deron Johnson in the ninth inning of the triumph.

The result might explain why the AL doesn't allow its pitchers to swing bats. Fingers fanned, becoming the second pitcher to have a strikeout recorded next to his name. Chicago's Cy Acosta was the first.

The Cleveland pitching staff couldn't keep from getting hit— and hit hard— by the New York Yankees, who piled up 17 hits on the way to their victory. Graig Nettles and Roy White hit home runs as the Yankees won their ninth game in 10 starts.

Boog Powell's two-run double and and Bobby Grich's two-run single backed Jim Palmer's four-hitter in Milwaukee. Palmer cruised to his eighth victory in 12 decisions and stopped the five-game win streak of Brewers' ace Jim Colborn.

Kansas City's Dick Drago was coasting into the eighth inning on a two-hitter in California when the Angels, behind Vada Pinson's home run, erupted for four runs, then scored two more in the ninth to overcome a 5-0 Royals lead.

Eight to compete in Can-Am final

COLUMBUS — And then there were eight.

The nine gruelling qualifying legs of the 1973 Canadian-American Pacing Series have been completed, and from an original list of 101 nominees, the top eight point-earners are set for the $50,300 finale at Scioto Downs Thursday night.

Vying for the second largest harness racing purse ever paid in Ohio, the eight finalists in the Can-Am Series will meet at Scioto Downs, which is the fastest rated track in the series.

MUDDY GEORGE, the fleet bay son of Muddy Hanover, owned by Lawrence Hooey of Orono, Ontario, Canada, heads the impressive field of finalists, boasting the most wins in the series (5), the fastest mile in the series (1:59.4), and the most points earned (275). Trained and driven by Ron Waples, son of the crack Canadian reinsman, Keith Waples who won last year's Little Brown Jug with Strike Out, Muddy George has demonstrated that he can win over any size track, and under any weather conditions. He won at Blue Bonnets Raceway's five eights mile oval in 1:59.4, won at Batavia Downs and Buffalo Raceway's half mile ovals in the rain, and won the first division of the Can-Am over Vernon Downs' three quarter mile track in the rain.

Finishing second in the final point standings was Smog, the handsome roan son of Meadow Skipper, trained and driven by Stanley Dancer. Owned by the A.M. Cuddy Stables of Strathroy, Ontario, Canada, Smog won three legs in the series, but his finest performance of the year was at Rosecroft Raceway. With Dancer up, Smog won the $30,000 William E. Miller Memorial with a new lifetime record of 2:00.4.

With Smog's start in the 1973 Can-Am Final, Stanley Dancer will have the opportunity to become the second driver ever to win two Can-Am finals, he won the 1967 final with Nevele Dancer at Mohawk Raceway in Canada.

American Skipper trained and driven by Dick Buxton is America's big hope in the Can-Am Final. Owned by Gordon Walters of Canton, Ohio, American Skipper won two legs of the 1973 Can-Am Series, but like Smog, American Skipper had his finest hour in a race out of the series.

On June 16, American Skipper won a Preferred Pace at Wolverine Raceway in a dazzling 1:58.4, to give him the fastest clocking of the year of any starter in the Can-Am Final.

Hasty Ed jumped from sixth to fourth in the final point standings with his brilliant two length victory in last Friday night's leg at Northville Downs in 2:01.4 over Muddy George. Hasty Ed, owned by Allan Begg and driver Clayton Faurot of Marshall, Michigan has been the "Iron Horse" of the series, starting in every one of the nine qualifying legs. He won one, had one second, and six thirds. Last Friday's mile in 2:01.4 was a new race record for the son of King's Regent. His fastest rip was a time trial in 1:59.4.

Hurricane Shadow is one of five Canadian entries in the 1973 final, and this powerful son of Shadow Wave is owned-trained-and driven by the veteran, Jack Kopas, with three wins in thirteen starts this year. Hurricane Shadow won the second division of the first leg at Blue Bonnets Raceway in 2:02.1, and owns a lifetime mark of 2:00.2.

DURRELL'S CHIP won his second victory of the year in thirteen starts, with a decisive win the Windsor Raceway leg in 2:02.1. Owned by A.F. & Mrs. Laurence Brazeau, of Aylmer, Ontario, Canada, Durrell's Chip has started in all nine legs of the series.

When Saumon O Mouette pulled up lame after Friday night's last qualifying leg at Northville Downs, that left a berth in the final Thursday night for Hortense Barmin. The only mare in the race, Hortense Barmin won eight races last year, with earnings of over $11,000, and owns a half mile track record of 2:03.3.

'Suddendeath' qualifications scheduled for Schaefer 500

MOUNT POCONO, Pa. (AP) — A "sudden death" playoff was scheduled at Pocono International Raceway today for six open berths in the line-up for Sunday's $400,000 Schaefer 500 Mile Championship Race.

Thirteen drivers were to get one shot at the timing clocks beginning at 9:45 a.m., EDT, in a special qualifying session that was arranged after rain broke up Sunday's final day of trials with only 27 of the 33 starters determined.

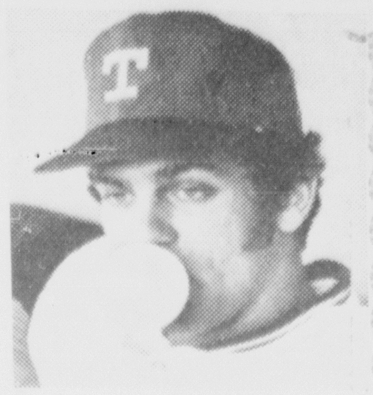
"You get only one shot at it," Dick King, competition director for the sanctioning U.S. Auto Club, told the non-qualified drivers Tuesday.

Under King's edict, drivers in today's qualifying line-up were to take their places in line, hold their positions there until called, and then drive the standard four-laps under the clock.

Under qualifying procedure last weekend, a driver was allowed three shots at the clock, his crew having only to wave him off the track before completion of four laps. He then could take his place in the line for another shot.

Among drivers expected to work their way into the line-up, beginning with the vacant 28th position, were Dick Simon, Mel Kenyon, Bob Harkey, John Martin and Jerry Karl, all of whom were starters in the recent Indianapolis race.

Two regular qualifying sessions saw 21 drivers make the field on Saturday and six more on Sunday. Their average speed was 184.780 miles per hour—nearly eight miles faster than the average for a similar number last year.



DAVID CLYDE

David Clyde sets debut

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — One of the most publicized schoolboy stars in baseball history makes his major league pitching debut tonight, and 18-year-old David Clyde will at least get the Texas Rangers his bonus money back even if he doesn't get a single Minnesota Twin out.

Clyde, who pitched nine nohitters for Houston's Westchester High School, was paid a bonus believed in the neighborhood of $100,000. A record crowd of over 32,000 will jam Arlington Stadium to see the lefthander's blazing fastball, and tickets averaging $3 apiece are making the Ranger front office happy.

The lowly Rangers, again languishing in last place in the American League West, went into the contest behind last year's attendance pace, but sudden success by Clyde could cure all that.

Clyde had a 52-13 career high school record and says he won't mind pitching in front of a huge crowd.

Ranger manager Whitey Herzog says no matter what happens Clyde "won't go nine innings even if he's pitching a shutout. Clyde hasn't pitched in 19 days and only thrown batting practice three times. I don't want to take any chance of hurting him. How far he goes depends on a lot of things—how he is laboring while throwing."

Paul Brown remarries

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati Bengal coach and general manager Paul Brown said Tuesday that he has married his former secretary.

"This is no big deal for anybody but us," said the 64-year-old Brown.

He married Mrs. Mary Rightsell, 44, an attractive blonde who is the mother of four. Her brother, Ray Taylor, is a nationally known harness driver and trainer.

Brown, reached in New York where he is attending a National Football League meeting, said the marriage took place in LaJolla, Calif. in the past week.

Brown's first wife, Katy, died in 1969. Mrs. Rightsell, who formerly resided in London, Ohio, was widowed about four years ago.

Good Hope extends skein in Mosquito

GOOD HOPE — The Good Hope Mosquito League team won its seventh game in eight tries with an 8-4 win over New Holland in a rain-shortened game at New Holland.

Roman Linton and Jimmy Perrill pitched for Good Hope. Perrill had a double and Bruce Coil two singles for the Good Hope team.

Once Irish victorious in River Downs race

The winner, paying $4.00, $3.00 and $2.60, went the six furlongs in 1:11.

Saloon Girl placed to return $10.20 and $6.00. Diplomat Girl showed at $4.60.

AVAILABLE
FAYETTE COUNTY FARMS

140 Acres. Well located just off U.S. Route 62 with virtually new split-level, fancy family residence along a 3 acre lake (plenty of fish). Balance of land nearly all tillable. Other out buildings. Early possession of residence, lake, pastures and farm buildings. Balance of farm on 50-50 crop basis for this year.

125 Acres. Fronting on state route and sided by secondary road. This highly improved two-story, four bedroom home, basement, extra outside summer kitchen (with fireplace) plus so many extras. Plenty of horse barns and loafing sheds, along with other farm buildings. 30 days possession on residence and barns. Farm land is on cash rent basis for this crop year.

100 Acres. Another show place fronting on U.S. route and sided by two county roads. Five bedrooms, modern residence with lots of trees. Plenty of horse barns, silo and other farm buildings. Early possession of residence. Farm land is rented for this crop year.

53 Acres. Vacant land. Located in the Corporation of Jeffersonville. City sewer and municipal water available, plus financing at 7 per cent interest. Full possession when wheat is harvested.

Opening lead — king of spades.

There is a permanence about hands played in duplicate bridge that is not achieved in hands played in rubber bridge, where the outcome is often quickly forgotten.

Consider this deal from a team of four match, where the swing was simply enormous.

At the first table, the bidding went as shown and South wound up at seven clubs doubled. North's two notrump bid over a spade was equivalent to a takeout double, except that it indicated unusually great length in the minor suits.

The rest of the bidding was natural, North finally bidding seven clubs as a sacrifice against the slam East-West seemed destined to make. East's double was rather poor — the least he could have done was pass and let partner make the final decision.

The double proved to be exceptionally expensive when West compounded the felony by leading the king of spades instead of the ace of hearts. Declarer ruffed in dummy, drew trumps, and easily made the rest of the tricks to notch up a resounding 1,630 points.

At the second table, East-West got to six spades doubled and made the contract with an overtrick to add another 1,860 points to their teammates' score, thus gaining 3,490 points on one deal!

The hand once again illustrates the principle that — in high level contracts where the outcome is uncertain — a player should tend to bd one extra for luck in order to stop a major disaster from taking place.

East-West at the first table and North-South at the second table could both profitably have applied the principle by bidding one more time. In any case, their failure to act more prudently is something they will not easily forget.

A Miracle: Speech Regained

I have had my voice box removed because I had a cancer. I've been told you have written about a way for people like me to speak again.

Can you tell me more about this and where I can find this miracle?

Mr. T.N.B., Ill.

Dear Mr. B.:

The real "miracle" is that so many people who have had their larynx, or "voice box," removed because of a cancer have been able to survive and live fruitful and productive lives. They heeded the advice that all persistent hoarseness must not be neglected.

Hoarseness is a vital sign. It may indicate many other conditions besides cancer. But if cancer does exist, and is recognized early and treated intensively, the results are quite spectacular.

My admiration is limitless for the courage of laryngectomized patients who have had their entire voice box removed. Many men function very well in business and socially, and have learned, through a special technique, to speak. I specifically say "men" because for some strange and unexplained rason, women rarely develop cancer of the larynx.

After the voice box is removed, many patients learn to speak understandably, but it is far from normal speech, with all its intonations.

Some people have difficulty in acquiring the knack of "esophageal" speech, by which air is swallowed, and "burped up" in order for the speech to be understandable.

It is for them that I particularly described a new device, implanted by a simple operation, to bring better and more clearly distinguishable speech.

Dr. Stanley Taub, a Clincial Professor at the New York Medical College, designed a system of tubes and valves that makes possible recognizable speech in patients who have had difficulty after the voice box is removed.

Patients are carefully chosen because some cases do not readily lend themselves to the use of this brilliantly conceived device. It is a great boon to those people who are condidates for its use.

Ohio House votes on teen rights

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio House is scheduled to vote today on a bill that would extend legal rights of majority, with a couple of exceptions, to 18 year olds.

The bill would give the youths, who already have the right to vote, the right to drink alcoholic beverages.

It would deny them the right to become city policemen or highway patrolmen, but it would allow them to run and serve as county sheriffs.

The measure died in the House last year, mainly because of the drinking provision. The Senate version left the provision on alcohol out this year, but the House Judiciary Committee put it back in.

Both houses of the legislature are to go into floor session at 1 p.m. The joint House-Senate conference committee will continue to meet on the budget.

The House will also vote during the day on a controversial extension of the civil rights law as it applies to the sexes.

The measure, authored by the state Civil Rights Commission, extends rights once awarded exclusively to women to all workers.

They include the provision of no more than a 48-hour work week and other women-oriented mandates that have since been struck down by the courts as discriminatory.

The Senate approved 32-0 a House bill that allows drivers accumulating five to seven points under the point penalty system to remove two of them by completing a course in driving.

Current law provides for a six-month suspension of licenses when 12 points are received in a two-year period.

A five-year suspension is required when 24 points are received during five years. Reckless driving accounts for four points and drunken driving six.

The bill was carried on the Senate floor by Sen. David Headley, D-6 Barberton.

Sen. Thomas A. Van Meter, R-18 Ashland, won 31-0 approval of another Senate bill protecting public employes in classified service from job abolishments and layoffs not based on seniority. It had bipartisan support.

The Senate voted 32-0 and sent to the House a bill qualifying the state for federal funds under the federal Boat Safety Act of 1971.

Sen. Donald L. Woodland, D-16 Columbus, said it would mean $37.5 million for a Watercraft Law Enforcement Division.

The Senate, by a 32-0 vote, also approved a House bill transferring hospital bills for poor people hurt in traffic accidents from the registrar of motor vehicles to the director of health.

The Senate Ways and Means Committee, meanwhile, postponed any action on a bill to boost the pay of public officials for one week. Supreme Court justices had objected because their pay would be less than elected state officials.

The same committee recommended for a floor vote a bill that would create a five-member commission with the power to immediately implement a state lottery. The vote was 5-1.

The House approved 85-3 a resolution asking President Nixon and Congress to take immediate action to get a full accounting of missing Vietnam War veterans.

It also approved 81-0 and sent to the Senate a bill prohibiting the furnishing—as well as sale—of alcoholic beverages to intoxicated persons.

Kelley wins finalapproval

He thus became the first FBI director ever confirmed by the Senate, and the bureau's first permanent director in more than a year.

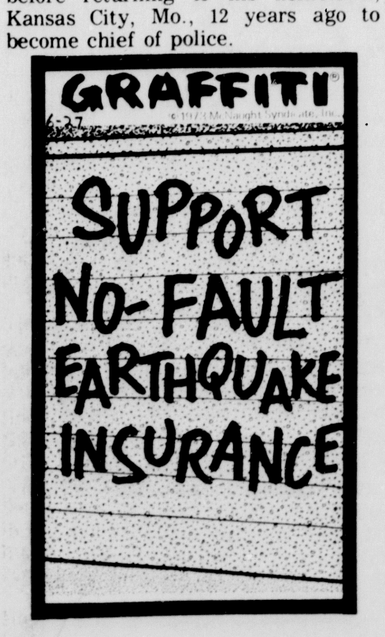
Kelley, 61, will succeed the legendary J. Edgar Hoover, who served as FBI head for nearly half a century before his death in May 1972.

Under legislation passed in 1968, Senate confirmation of the FBI director is required. And under consideration is a plan to provide a fixed term for the director and to bring the FBI under closer congressional scrutiny.

Kelley served in the FBI for 21 years before returning to his hometown, Kansas City, Mo., 12 years ago to become chief of police.



White House challenge remains unanswered

Dean documents 'enemies list'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ousted presidential counsel John W. Dean III today read documents to support his charges that the White House kept an "enemies list" of politicians, newsmen, union officials and businessmen.

The White House challenged Dean to say whether he leaked secret testimony about Watergate as part of a strategy seeking immunity from prosecution for his own role in the case.

That question was not put to Dean immediately.

Dean gave the Senate's Watergate committee one memorandum, dated June 12, 1972, in which then presidential counselor Charles W. Colson said a tax audit should be ordered against Harold J. Gibbons, a vice president of the Teamsters Union whom Colson considered an all-out Nixon enemy.

Others marked by the White House as enemies, Dean said, included columnist Jack Anderson, former NBC newsman Chet Huntley, Democratic party chairman Robert Strauss, who was then party treasurer, and Columbus, Ind., businessman J. Erwin Miller, a liberal Republican campaign donor.

In one of the memoranda, dated Nov. 17, 1972, Colson said he had information from an informer that Anderson had been in a room with wiretap equipment in connection with the columnist's investigations of the late Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn.

In his third day of televised testimony, Dean was asked questions aimed at testing the truthfulness of his accusations that President Nixon lied about Watergate and collaborated with his top aides in covering up the bugging plot.

Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., probed with a series of questions about the extent of Dean's own involvement in the planning of the Watergate wiretapping.

Gurney asked why Dean hadn't reported to the President when G. Gordon Liddy first proposed a $1-million scheme to use wiretapping, prostitution, kidnaping and mugging as part of the President's re-election campaign.

Dean said he had objected to the plan, assumed it would die a natural death because it was so outlandish, and reported the whole affair to Nixon's chief of staff, H. R. Haldeman. He said he didn't have access to the President, and his "reporting channel" was through Haldeman.

There was some confusion on the part of Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., the committee chairman, about the question submitted by the White House. Ervin thought initially the questions were for the committee, not Dean. The matter was straightened out without Dean being asked to respond.

The questions, drawn up by White

FREEWAY CRASH — Sheriff's deputies survey the scene of a car-truck crash on I-71, two miles north of Ohio 41, which injured a 23-year-old East Liverpool driver Wednesday morning. Officers said the car ran off the freeway and crashed into the rear of the parked truck. The driver of the sports car Geoffrey M. Lowe, was later transferred to Riverside Hospital, Columbus. (Story on Page 9).

'Guilty,' says Watergate probe figure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Frederick C. LaRue, senior official of President Nixon's re-election committee, pleaded guilty today in U.S. District Court to a charge of conspiring to obstruct justice.

The single charge was brought by a special Watergate prosecutor who described LaRue as "very cooperative with the government to this point."

Sirica deferred sentencing until after any other defendants are tried.

The conspiracy charges carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and-or a $10,000 fine.

Information presented by the prosecutor alleged that LaRue conspired with unnamed individuals to impede the investigation of the Watergate break-in.

It charged that LaRue and others "would and did participate in meetings to develop and prepare false, deceptive and misleading testimony to be given to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the U.S. attorney's office, the grand jury and ultimately, to the U.S. district court."

The information said that LaRue and others "would and did covertly acquire, transmit, distribute and pay cash funds for the benefit" of the original seven Watergate defendants "for the purpose of concealing the identities of other participants in the violations charged in said indictment and the scope of these and related activities."

Nixon vetoes bomb fund cutoff

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has vetoed a bill containing the amendment cutting off funds for U.S. bombing of Cambodia, congressional sources said today.

The sources said Nixon decided to veto the measure Tuesday night, shortly after it cleared the Senate by a vote of 81 to 11, and that the action would be announced shortly.

The veto would send the measure, a $3.4-billion supplementary money bill, back to the House where Republican leaders are confident they can muster enough support to prevent the two-thirds vote needed to override.

That would prevent the bill from ever returning to the Senate, where the two-thirds vote seemed assured.

The amendment, first Indochina fund cutoff ever to clear both houses of Congress, applied to U.S. military activity in or over both Laos and Cambodia but was directed primarily at the continuing U.S. bombing of the latter country.

Another effort to cut off bombing funds, on a continuing resolution to fund federal agencies after next Sunday, cleared the House Tuesday and is expected to be approved by the Senate later in the week.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield warned that a Nixon veto of that measure could precipitate "a constitutional crisis" between a Congress demanding that funds for the bombing be cut off and an executive refusing to do so.

"It would be most unwise," Mansfield said of a possible veto. "The intent of Congress is crystal clear."

After Tuesday's Senate vote, one top Senate Republican leader, Sen. John G. Tower of Texas, had said he thought Nixon would accept the bill.

Board maps preliminaries for 'middle school' issue

The Fayette County Board of Education delayed asking for a November bond issue, but laid the foundation for such action Tuesday night when it directed architects Joseph Baker and Associates, Newark, to go ahead with plans for a "middle school" building that would house all seventh and eighth graders in the Miami Trace system.

Meeting at Madison Mills School, the board also agreed to retain the law firm of Squires, Sanders and Dempsey, Cleveland, to aid in drawing up a statement of need, the first step toward placing such an issue on the ballot.

Dale Creamer was hired as head basketball coach for Miami Trace High School(see sports page), and several personnel and salary matters were dealt with during the three-hour meeting. Tentative approval was given to the 1974 budget, which includes a $166,096.54 deficit.

FINAL ACTION on the bond issue proposal is expected to come at the board's next meeting. Passage of such an issue would lead to construction of a building on an as yet unselected site. The new facility probably could be opened in September, 1975, according to architect Brooke Baker.

The amount of the bond issue will depend on exactly what the board decides to include in the proposed new facility and the extent to which the elementary school buildings in the system are to be renovated.

Baker presented rough figures Tuesday that estimated the cost of the new building at about $1,731,000. Renovations he outlined would cost about $275,000.

A building originally designed for 600 students could accommodate up to 720 comfortably, Baker told the board. He added that kitchen facilities could be used to feed two or three other schools.

CREAMER'S appointment to the head basketball post vacated the reserve basketball position. The board took no official action on filling the reserve job, but agreed to accept Creamer's recommendation of former MT basketball player Mike Henry for the position. Henry currently is a special education teacher at Hills and Dales School, Highland County. He has assisted in the junior high football and basketball programs at Miami Trace.

Paul Febo was reappointed Miami Trace band director after a year's leave of absence, and John Wedgewood was appointed as his assistant.

One-year teaching contracts were approved for Miss Leslie Johnson, a June graduate of Capital University, and Miss Glenna Bish, a June graduate of Ohio State University. Miss Johnson is expected to replace Mrs. Katharine Carter, whose resignation was accepted Tuesday, as kindergarten teacher at Jasper. Miss Bish will teach on the intermediate level.

The resignation of bus mechanic Norman Rinehart was also accepted, and Stephan Jones was hired for summer work.

THE BOARD agreed to adjust the salaries of non-certified employes paid an hourly rate, compensating them for holidays as required by state law. This covers such employes as cooks and bus drivers. Janitors and others paid a yearly salary are already paid for holidays.

Christmas, Thanksgiving, Labor Day, Memorial Day, July 4 and New Year's Day were approved as paid holidays, and Christmas Eve, New

Senate cuts foreign aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted a sharp cutback of U.S. foreign military aid, setting it at a level a little more than half that requested by the Nixon administration.

The $770-million military aid bill for the new fiscal year is less than the $1.08 billion being spent this year. The new authorization was approved 50 to 42 Tuesday night.

The Nixon administration had requested $1.31 billion.

Administration backers defeated a mandatory four-year phaseout of military assistance grants. They failed to restore major funding reductions voted by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

"This marks the end of the United States assistance programs," said Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz. "It is a signal to the rest of the world that we are pulling in our horns."

The bill now goes to the House, where the Foreign Affairs Committee already is considering foreign aid legislation.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, meanwhile, is listening to administration pleas for authorization of $1.056 billion for foreign economic assistance programs.

The Senate bill earmarks $420 million for nine countries, including $150 million for Cambodia and $119 million for South Korea.

OSU, hospital cannot be sued

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Ohio State University and its hospital are instrumentalities of the state and cannot be sued without consent of the General Assembly, the Ohio Supreme Court ruled today.

The court affirmed lower court decision dismissing the suit Esther H. and Roland T. Thacker of Bethel, which was filed against the school, its hospital and a doctor.

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government said today that it would consider military support for the Cambodian government if a bombing halt forced by the U.S. Congress creates a situation threatening South Vietnam's security.

"If the U.S. air support in Cambodia was stopped and if this created a serious situation that could harm the security of Vietnam, we certainly would respond to the request (for aid)," government spokesman Bui Bao Truc said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has restored most of the money President Nixon cut from health and education programs. Among measures saved would be the Office of Economic Opportunity's antipoverty program run by local community action agencies.

The bill, sent to the Senate Tuesday by a 347 to 58 vote, would boost Nixon's budget for the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare by $1.2 billion.

China tests atomic bomb

BOMBAY, India (AP) — China detonated a small nuclear device today in the atmosphere over Sinkiang province in the far southwestern part of the country, Indian scientists reported.

A spokesman for the Bhabha Atomic Research Center near Bombay said the blast occurred in the Lop Nor region of Sinkiang, China's main nuclear test area. He said the device had power equivalent to one or two million tons of TNT.

The spokesman said the microbarograph network of the Indian Department of Atomic Energy picked up indications of the test at about 9:25 a.m., or 11:55 p.m. EDT Tuesday.

Mandatory fuel allocations set

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government sources say a mandatory allocation system for gasoline appears in the offing, although a survey by the American Automobile Association has indicated that the fuel shortage may be stabilizing.

A presidential message on energy policy is expected later this week, and a decision on mandatory controls could be announced at that time.

However, one source indicated that mandatory controls could be delayed until the appointment of an energy policy coordinator in the White House.

Plans to convert the current voluntary fuel allocation program to mandatory controls have been approved by the Office of Oil and Gas of the Interior Department, and by Deputy Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, head of an interdepartmental policy committee, sources said.

The sources indicated that Colorado Gov. John A. Love has been chosen to serve as energy policy coordinator. The job was turned down by former Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton.

Essentially the mandatory program is expected to follow the guidelines proposed for voluntary compliance in May. Under those, suppliers were requested to provide their customers with fuel this year in the same proportion that they received it last year.

Meanwhile, in its latest nationwide survey on the shortage of gasoline, the AAA said the number of service stations closing early and on Sunday grew from 43 per cent to 47 per cent from a week earlier. The group surveyed 3,417 stations along main travel routes.

However, AAA spokesman Donald Strickland said the shortage "appears to be bottoming out." He did not elaborate.

Storms rake Ohio; funnel clouds sighted

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavy summer thunderstorms lingered over the eastern third of the nation today following Tuesday's onslaught of tornadoes, heavy rains and high winds.

Thunderstorms drenched areas from the eastern parts of Kansas and Oklahoma across the middle and northern Mississippi Valley into the Great Lakes region and the Ohio Valley.

Ohio went through another period of severe thunderstorms and scattered tornado sightings Tuesday night. At least six persons were reported hurt and some damage was caused by the high winds.

There was no severe tornado damage reported other than downed power lines, a few damaged barns and at least one overturned house trailer.

The National Weather Service reported winds that reached as high as 63 miles per hour at Port Columbus. Tornado warnings were issued for much of the state and at least six funnel clouds were sighted.

A tornado watch was in effect for much of northern Ohio in the early afternoon. Warnings were also issued for eastern and southern Ohio late Tuesday night.

Five persons were hurt at Cairo near Lima in Allen County when a house trailer overturned in the high winds. Debra Sharerd, 22, was the most seriously injured and her condition was reported fair after she was removed to a hospital. Four others in the trailer were treated for injuries.

At least one person was hurt and a barn badly damaged by what was described as a tornado touching down at Dublin, far northwest Columbus suburb. Elsewhere in the Columbus area trees and power lines were downed by high winds and one funnel cloud was spotted in the area shortly before 8 p.m.

Conditions had calmed by daybreak Wednesday with only a few rain showers reported. Temperatures were mild with readings mostly in the 60s.

A southerly flow of warm moist air in advance of a slow moving cold front, located west of Ohio, will continue to spread showers and thundershowers over Ohio. Warm, humid conditions were forecast to continue with afternoon temperatures in the 80s.

A repeat of Tuesday conditions was expected this afternoon and evening.

Some relief is in sight as the slow cool front invades the state Thursday and

Senate ponders

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate debates today a bill to grant a 5.5 per cent cost-of-living Social Security increase effective next January.

The boost is tied as a rider to a debt limit extension bill that must become law by the end of this week.

7 persons slain in Chicago suburb

A neighbor and close friend of Clesson and his wife, Neta, had been trying to reach the family Tuesday afternoon to tell of four persons who had been shot to death only three blocks away.

The body of his 78-year-old wife lay on the floor near that of their son, Paul Clesson Jr., 47. They, too, had been shot.

"I was trying to call Neta to tell her about the Workmans, but I couldn't get her," said Mrs. Rheva Timmons, 62.

Earlier Tuesday, police had found Raymond Workman, 69, and his wife, Dina, 64, shot to death in their home.

Across the street, officers found the bodies of Henrietta Cliff, 35, and her 12-year-old daughter, Kimberly, in their home. They also had been shot.

Police charged that they were the victims of the Workmans' 43-year-old son, William.

"I am God's son," the younger Workman told a city judge at his arraignment on four counts of murder. "I had to take matters into my own hands."

Police said all seven persons had been shot with a .22-caliber weapon. Ballistics tests were being conducted to see if the bullets that killed the Clessons were fired from the rifle police say was used in the other four deaths.

As of late Tuesday, Workman had been charged only with the slayings of his parents and the two neighbors.

House special counsel Fred Buzhardt, asked whether Dean had a strategy for escaping federal prosecution for his own part in the affair, and whether this strategy had involved calculated leaks of information to news media.

Much of Dean's testimony had dribbled out in various forms before he appeared before the committee.

As it stands, Dean's requests for trial immunity have been rejected and he may be prosecuted, although his Senate testimony, or leads developed from it, cannot be used as evidence against him.

Committee rules permit White House or other officials to submit questions seeking answers from a witness.

Dean offered Tuesday to take a lie detector test, as he stuck to his televised testimony before the Senate Watergate committee that the President and his top aides collaborated in a plot to cover up the bugging conspiracy.

He added some new accusations, saying the White House used the FBI and Internal Revenue Service to investigate persons named on a so-called "enemies list" that was routinely updated with new names. And he said the Secret Service once spied on Sen. George McGovern, the 1972 Democratic presidential candidate.

Officials of the Senate committee said Dean would be asked today a series of questions submitted by Leonard Garment, who replaced Dean as White House counsel. Dean was fired April 30.

"It would appear they would like to prove that Mr. Dean was the brains of it all, and that he gave bad advice," said Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii.

Inouye said he saw no reason why Dean shouldn't be asked the questions, that Dean's truthfulness must be tested.

At Tuesday's session, Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.Mex., asked Dean if Nixon told the truth April 17 when he said "I condemn any attempts to cover up in this case, no matter who is involved."

"No, sir," Dean said. "By that time he knew the full implications of the case."

Dean reiterated that Nixon knew a cover-up was going on as early as last Sept. 15. Dean said that on March 21 he told Nixon specifically that former aides H.R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman and Dean himself could be indicted for obstruction of justice because of the cover-up. This was more than three weeks before Nixon's April 17 remark.

White House spokesmen repeated Tuesday that the President stands behind earlier statements denying knowledge or complicity in the Watergate affair.

Meanwhile, Haldeman and Ehrlichman commented on aspects of the Watergate case in separate interviews.

Haldeman told CBS news he hopes for "the chance to tell the whole story" about Watergate, saying that when he does it will clear the President and himself.

Asked if he had been watching Dean's testimony on television, Haldeman replied, "Sure, I have," but declined to comment specifically on Dean's charges "except in the proper form."

He said he expected to "have that opportunity ... in the next few weeks."

Ehrlichman, who declined to answer questions on Watergate specifics, told The Seattle Times that he fears "the very important things the President did and was trying to do in the domestic area are going to be lost in the shuffle" of Watergate.

The budget approved Tuesday includes anticipated receipts of $2,320,755.46 and expenditures of $2,486,852. The receipts included an expected carryover of $28,955.46 from 1973.

The budget will be reviewed at a future date, at which time various figures will be adjusted. It is only a tentative budget.

The board also agreed to invite bids on contracts for gasoline, coal, tires, anti-freeze and fuel oil, to be opened at 10 a.m. July 16.

moves through Thursday night and early Friday.

Showers and thundershowers will end from the west Thursday night and in the east on Friday. Lows will drop into the upper 50s and 60s and a return to more normal conditions is expected.

Thundershowers were scattered across the eastern Gulf Coast and Atlantic Coast, and a few thunderstorms washed the mountains of Colorado, New Mexico and central California.

Most of the area from the West Coast to the plains states enjoyed fair weather. However heavy fog grasped much of the West Coast, and temperatures in the Southwest hovered around the 100 mark early today. Temperatures in the desert reached 120 Tuesday.

Thunderstorms, hail and tornadoes plagued the Midwest. Tornadoes struck Spring Green, Wis., and Bloomington, Ind., Tuesday evening. No personal injuries were reported, but the Spring Green High School was damaged. Downed power lines and uprooted trees blocked Wisconsin 60 between Spring Green and Sauk City, northwest of Madison.

Earlier Tuesday, high winds gusted to 95 miles per hour at the Ann Arbor, Mich., airport and raked the lower third of Michigan. Power lines were down, tree and telephone poles toppled and one house was set afire.

Funnel clouds were sighted and may have struck a trailer park where eight to 10 trailers were completely demolished and others blown off their foundations. Only three persons were hospitalized with minor injuries, police said.

Claim up to 3,500 sent to Lima State illegally?

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— An Ohio State University research study says 3,500 persons may have been committed illegally to Lima State Hospital over the last 30 years, the Cleveland Plain Dealer reported today.

The newspaper said the OSU study "in effect challenges Ohio's Ascherman Act and the treatment of mentally disturbed offenders."

Those whom the study alleges were committed illegally are certain mentally disturbed or retarded criminals who were committed under the Ascherman Act of 1939. The act, which was not used until 1943, provides for commitment of such criminals "until cured."

The Ohio State study charges that the state is not providing effective therapy and says even psychiatrists question whether it is possible to identify psychopathic offenders.

The study questions the existence of a "psychopathic personality" and cites growing resistance to committing persons to hospitals for the criminally insane for what may become a life sentence when there is no "cure."

The study, which is still in progress, is being prepared for the Division of Forensic Psychiatry of the Ohio Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation. It traces development of legislation in a number of states resulting from public concern in the 1930s and 1940s over sex crimes.

The Ascherman Act was written originally to apply only to felony cases, but was amended in 1945 to apply to certain misdemeanors and in 1969 to change the language of "mentally deficient offenders" to "mentally retarded offenders."

Since 1943, Ohio courts have sent 10,500 persons to Lima for observation. The hospital's behavior treatment unit now houses nearly 200 persons committed under the Ascherman Act or sent there for observation.

The act is being challenged in a test case filed last month in U.S. District Court in Toledo on behalf of a group of patients who allege they are being held unconstitutionally at Lima.

Prosecutor may broaden probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Watergate special prosecutor's office is debating whether to use John W. Dean III's testimony as a springboard into an investigation of political surveillance during Democratic administrations, according to informed sources.

A spokesman for the prosecutor said Tuesday that he could not "comment on testimony in progress or on what matters might become the subject of investigation."

But sources close to the prosecutor's office said the staff was closely monitoring Dean's testimony, examining references to purported FBI political activity in previous administrations and debating whether they fall within the mandate given prosecutor Archibald Cox.

Dean told the Senate Watergate committee Monday that William C. Sullivan, former associate director of the FBI, had told him the bureau had been used "for political purposes by past administrations."

The former White House counsel quoted President Nixon as telling him "he was convinced that he had been wiretapped in 1968."

Dean testified that he pressed Sullivan for examples of FBI political activity and Sullivan sent him a memorandum. The Washington Star-News said the memorandum described an investigation conducted after the 1968 election of Vice President-elect Spiro T. Agnew.

Sullivan said the investigation was ordered by President Lyndon B. Johnson and nothing adverse was found, according to the newspaper.

Guidelines given Cox by Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson authorize him to investigate and prosecute all offenses arising out of the 1972 election, including "all allegations involving the President, members of the White House staff or presidential appointees."

The sources said that, if Cox's office looks into political use of the FBI or other government investigative and law enforcement agencies, such as the Internal Revenue Service, the probe probably would not be directed toward criminal prosecution.

An investigation more likely would be aimed at disclosure with the results included in one of the periodic reports Cox has said he might issue, the sources said.

Dean told the committee that the matter of FBI surveillance came up during a discussion with the President at the time of the Senate hearings on the nomination of L. Patrick Gray III to be director of the FBI.

"The President told me he was reading a book at that time called 'The 13 Mistakes of Kennedy,' and he told me that I should read the chapter regarding Kennedy's use of the FBI.

"He also told me I should gather any material I could regarding the uses and abuses of the FBI by previous administrations so that we could show we had not abused the FBI for political purposes."

Stock list down again

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned lower today, giving up an early gain, as investors were again unable to move a market stalled by the uncertainties of Phase 4.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 1.28 at 878.16. In early trading, it had been up 3 points. It advanced 10 points Tuesday.

Advancing issues clung to a 576-to-509 lead over declines on the New York Stock Exchange. Earlier, advances ran ahead by a 2-to-1 margin.

Addressograph was the Big Board's most-active issue, down 5/8 at 11 7/8. A 396,700-share block was traded at 11 1/2, off 1. The noon broad-based NYSE index of some 1,500 common stocks was off 0.15 points at 54.16.

On the American Stock Exchange, American Motor Inns was the most-active issue, down 1/8 at 5 1/8. An 83,400-share block was traded at 5 3/8. Advancing issues narrowly led declining issues and the noon price change index was unchanged at 22.22.

Firestone ads ruled deceptive

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— The 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals today ruled that The Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. was guilty of unfair and deceptive advertising in 1967-1968 when it promoted "the safe tire" and the Wide Oval Tire that "stops 25 per cent quicker."

A three-judge panel upheld the Federal Trade Commission in its 1970 order that Firestone cease and desist from running deceptive ads on the two tires.

The court affirmed FTC findings that "the safe tire" ad "unfairly implied all Firestone tires are safe under all conditions, and that the "stops 25 per cent quicker" ad was based on inadequate test data.

Cincinnati man drowns in pond

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The body of a 19-year-old Cincinnati man who went swimming Friday night with two friends in a golf course pond was found in the pond Tuesday.

Wendel Williams of Lincoln Heights apparently drowned in the pond after two companions, who had been swimming with him earlier, left, fire officials said. The pond was at the Losantiville Country Club.

Police blasted for actions in Attica riot

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charges that police needlessly killed inmates and hostages while quelling the Attica Prison riot in New York State have been leveled by a congressional committee.

The committee report also charged that after the riot ended officers beat prisoners and that the wounded went without emergency care.

The report on the September 1971 riot, which resulted in 43 deaths and 80 wounded, was released Tuesday in a study of nationwide correctional systems by the House Select Committee on Crime.

In citing the killing of the nonhostile prisoners and guards, the report focused on police using backshot rounds in police using buckshot rounds in their 12-gauge shotguns.

"Shotguns loaded with double 'O' ammunition were, of course, incredibly inaccurate weapons for such a situation, their use led to the wounding and killing of hostages and inmates who were not acting in a hostile manner," the report said.

The report said police decided to intensify their firepower for the assault after rebellious inmates paraded in front of authorities eight blindfolded hostages with knives at their throats.

But the report said:

"In fact, only four hostages were wounded by inmates who inflicted knife wounds upon them when the assault began— none of these four hostages died from the knife wounds."

Economic indicators rebound

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's index of leading economic indicators rebounded with a strong increase in May after a sharp decline a month earlier, the Commerce Department said today.

The April decline was widely interpreted as showing that the pace of the fast-expanding economy was beginning to slow.

The index, which is supposed to be sensitive to broad ups and downs in the economy, rose 1.5 per cent last month, the department said, with six of the eight economic indicators available showing improvement.

The Nixon administration has been watching for signs that the economy will cool and relieve some of the inflationary pressures building up. The May report of leading indicators gave no such signal.

Opinion And Comment

Overwhelmed or 'underwhelmed'?

It's the vacation season, and many Fayette Countians are shrugging off gasoline shortages and heading for what were once the wide open spaces of the West.

Are they finding themselves overwhelmed or "underwhelmed" by the crowds at national parks?

For instance, it's the same Grand Canyon. But eight times as many visitors view it from the south side as from the scenic overlooks along its north rim.

While the 2.4 million visits recorded last year along the south rim of the Canyon sometimes overwhelmed park staff and facilities, the people who made up the 37,700 visitor days recorded downstream at Grand Canyon National Monument found a wild grandeur totally "underwhelmed" by human visitation.

Just to the north, in Utah, are other relatively under-visited areas of the Department of the Interior's vast National Park System.

At Canyonlands and Arches National Parks, in Utah, are the world's most massive exposures of red rock canyons, spires, pinnacles and wind-eroded arches. Equally spectacular Utah parks include Zion, Bryce Canyon and Capitol Reef. All could welcome thousands of additional visitors.

While Grand Teton and Yellowstone National Parks in Wyoming recorded a combined total of 5.3 million visits last year, Montana's Bighorn Canyon National Recreation Area, with its awe-inspiring gorges and fantastic landscapes, had only 220,300 visits. To the west of Grand Teton fewer than 200,000 vacationers enjoyed the volcanic wonders of Idaho's Craters of the Moon National Monument in 1972.

There are the Fila Cliff Dwellings in New Mexico; the mountains, lakes and glaciers of Washington's North Cascades National Park; the upfolded mountains and deep canyons of Colorado and Utah's Dinosaur National Monument; the major Indian ruins of New Mexico's Aztec Ruins and Chaco Canyon National Monuments. All provide the vacationer with an option for escape from those more crowded NPS areas where the number of visits is increasing each year, to a grand total of 211.6 million in 1972.

And these 92 so-called lesser known and relatively uncrowded National Park Service areas can be found in 34 states. A complete list, with brief descriptions of each, may be obtained by writing "Lesser Known Parks," Office of Information, National Park Service, Department of the Interior, Washington D.C. 20240.

This list can help the vacationer to leave the beaten track this summer and visit some of America's most beauteous national parks, recreation areas and educational historic sites.

Most popular vacation areas, explains NPS Director Ronald H.. Walker, are near the more famed — and most crowded — of America's vacationlands. For example, Great Smoky Mountains National Park had over 8 million visits (highest in the National Park System) last year, while just 80 miles to the north fewer than 500,000 visits were recorded at Cumberland Gap National Historic Park, which offers camping, hiking and reminders of the historic Wilderness Road, hand-hewn by Daniel Boone and his men in 1775.

It's all there, waiting for you.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

Detente and dignity

While the President and his associates delighted in the bonhommie of Comrade Leonid Brezhnev, and American capitalists wandered around Washington drooling at the prospect of making a killing, I confess I was profoundly depressed.

Not because I want to see the United States and the Soviets tossing nukes at each other, or because I oppose normalizing relations with dictatorships. We live in a world that is not composed of play-dough — we can't shape it — so I am prepared to see the United States deal with reality: whether reality is the Greek colonels, Mao, the South African whites or the Soviet Politburo.

But it is one thing to deal with reality and something quite different to pretend that — in most cases — such transactions do not leave a stench in one's notrils. Comrade Brezhnev, after all, runs the world's second largest prison — topped only by President Nixon's other friend, Comrade Mao.

THAT GREAT gas pipeline that will solve our energy crisis will doubtless be built in party by dissident Soviet intellectuals sentenced to labor camps. Perhaps you haven't noticed it because of the euphoria, but there has been a savage clampdown on Soviet dissenters over the past year, a repression that has been overlooked because Moscow, shrewdly, began releasing Jews to Israel.

In domestic political terms the tremendous heat that has been generated in Congress, and incorporated in the Jackson Amendment, arose from the legitimate indignation of the American Jewish community about the status of Soviet Jewry.

I share this indignation, but hold it across the board. What is at issue is the right to emigrate, not the right of Jews to emigrate or the right of Catholics to emigrate.

It would be tragic if the Soviet tactic of promising to be nice to Jews obscured this fundamental point and led Congress to back away from insisting on the Jackson proviso — which is generic in coverage.

At the risk of sounding like a "cold war anachronism" (in a favorite phrase of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee), I am prepared to argue that the Soviets need us far more than we do them. A quarter of a century late, Stalin's heirs are applying for membership in the Marshall Plan.

Again let me emphasize that this is no condemnation of normal interstate relations, but if we are going to be denounced as "capitalists" in the Communist press, the least we can do is live up to our reputation: that is, strike a damned hard bargain.

Last year's wheat deal was an appalling giveaway, one which helped generate the runaway farm inflation of the last six months. Let us do business, but let us be completely hard-nosed about it.

If we do not have as one of our functions the role of world policeman, it is equally true that we have no obligations as world physician. In specific terms, it is hardly our God-inspired mission to rescue the Soviet Union from the egregious incompetence of its leadership.

WHEN I SAY strike a hard bargain, I am not just talking in financial terms (though I see no reason why the American taxpayer should have paid a $300 million subsidy to Soviet agriculture last year). We should utilize our position of strength to demand concessions in the area of human rights. In my judgment, for example, the President should not even have given Brezhnev a necktie, let alone a snappy blazer, until the latter had agreed to stop jamming Radio Liberty.

But here we return to the sad question: Is President Nixon in a position to play our hand to its maximum advantage? (One can almost hear Brezhnev saying sardonically to Dobrynin: "Should I offer him some technical assistance from the KGB?")

As the agreements were signed and stacked, I at least kept wondering: "What did we give away to get that headline." And all that jovial stuff: one must do business with gangsters in this world, but it should be conducted with dignity.

Local option on the First

In its new obscenity ruling the Supreme Court has all but adopted the curious principle that there is local option on First Amendment freedoms. This will be the practical effect of the court's decree that local community standards can be applied by juries in determining what is or is not so obscene as to fall outside the constitutional free speech protection.

In another respect, too, the court narrowed that protection. For some years one of the key tests required under previous Supreme Court rulings has been that to be declared obscene a work - a movie, or a book - must be utterly without redeeming social value.

The new guideline says that juries need only decide "whether the work, taken as a whole, lacks serious literary, artistic, political or scientific value."

The danger in what was decided by a one-vote margin is well expressed by Justice William J. Brennan Jr. in his dissent. It is now, he said, "hard to see how state-ordered regimentation of our minds can ever be forestalled."

In an opinion in which he was joined by Justices Potter Stewart and Thurgood Marshall, Brennan wrote that if "in an effort to maintain or create a particular moral tone" a state may "prescribe what its citizens cannot read or cannot see, then it would seem to follow that in pursuit of that same objective a state could decree that its citizens must read certain books or must view certain films."

Far-fetched as this may seem, it is an outcome dismally foreshadowed in a ruling which says that everything available for reading and viewing must conform to whatever standards this or that community chooses to impose.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

On Wednesday, June 20, at 3:10 p.m., Fayette County Memorial Hospital held an external disaster drill.

What is an external disater?? An external disaster is "anytime" that an exceptional number of patients come to the hospital for treatment and the normal emergency room staff cannot handle the patient load.

For this drill, we held a "mock" train accident with approximately 110 patients expected to come into the hospital. As the announcement was made, all visitors were requested to go to the front hospital lobby. At this time, I would like to take the opportunity to thank all visitors who participated in this drill for their excellent cooperation.

A special team, comprised of hospital personnel and the hospital disaster chief, Dr. P.E. Binzel, evaluated patients that were in the hospital to determine how many could be discharged, if beds were actually needed. The Hospital Administrative Council evaluated each department as to how well they responded to their specific duties.

The final results as to how effective the over-all performance of hospital personnel was during the drill will be determined at a later date. On the surface, it appeared that the staff had responded in an excellent manner. The hospital disaster plan will now be reviewed and updated.

For a hospital to be fully accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals, which Fayette County Memorial Hospital is, it must perform a minimum of two external disaster drills yearly.

This first drill not only brought out the weak and strong points of the plan, but also insured the public of Fayette County and surrounding areas an effective emergency program for patient care in time of a large scale disaster.

Again, a special thanks to all of the visitors who were present and responded so well with us on this important major project.

Hal Boyle . . . Making life worth living

NEW YORK (AP) — Things that make life worth living:

The sound of a door closing behind someone leaving who has stayed too long.

Sleeping late on weekends.

Swallowing a watermelon seed as a child and wondering if it will turn the inside of your stomach into a watermelon patch.

Working a loose baby tooth out all by yourself before your mother can get you to a dentist.

Passing a note to your girl friend in grammar school when the teacher turned her back to write on the blackboard.

Stepping on wet sidewalk cement and wondering if your footprints would remain there for later generations to marvel at.

Delivering a paper route the first day and wondering just how it was going to help make you famous later in life. Hadn't all great men delivered newspapers in their youth?

Having the postman finally bring the letter for which you've been haunting the mailbox for for months.

The smell of a good bakery shop on a wintry day.

Going on an overnight hike with your dad and listening later to him brag about how rough it had been.

Tasting an initial caviarloaded cracker and thinking it was hardly worthwhile to become rich if you had to eat stuff like that all the time.

The envious respect the other boys in the neighborhood showed when you told them about being taken to see a real live burlesque show by a raffish older cousin.

The profound feeling of the mystery of life you had when you went through a large dairy and saw a calf being born.

For these and other intimations of gladness and sadness that enlighten our lives, our thanks, Amen.

Haring, Miller get promotions

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert W. Haring, 40, was named today editor of Associated Press financial services.

President and General Manager Wes Gallagher said Haring, AP's Business News Editor since 1971, will be responsible for the technical and editorial design of new financial services for AP members, and opening new opportunities inside and outside the newspaper industry.

Stephen H. Miller, 30, Business Supervising Editor for the past two years, was promoted to Business News Editor to succeed Haring.

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Can father's name be hidden from the law?

DEAR ABBY: I desperately need advice. I can't consult a lawyer because I can't afford it. I am a 38-year-old expectant mother. The baby's father is married and has no intentions of divorcing his wife or acting as father to my child.

I have never been married. I know that what I have done was wrong, but I was so emotionally involved with this man that I wasn't thinking straight.

My baby is due in three weeks. I plan to keep it, but I don't know what to do about the birth certificate. The baby's father is urging me to leave his name off. He says he will be ruined if I use his name. He has suggested that I make up a name.

Please tell me what to do, Abby. If I make up a name I'm afraid the baby's father will be relieved of all responsibilities for the support of his child, and that is not fair because he is well able to help me. (He hasn't paid for even a diaper pin so far.)

I am so alone and troubled. Please help me.

NAME WITHHELD

DEAR NAME: Get in touch with your local Legal Aid Society. They will guide you. Make no decisions until you speak with them.

DEAR ABBY: What is my responsibility in the following situations? Mind my own business? Or stick my nose in and look for a punch?

Example: Tots (2 years to 6) are climbing on top of a convertible sports car and sliding down the back. Owner of car working, mother busy inside, the kids have the time of their lives.

Example: Three new homes being built and a sign posted, "Parents! Keep your children away from construction site," but the 2-to-6-year olds are exploring the half-finished floors and calling to each other from the empty window frames.

Fun is fun, but danger is danger. I have youngsters, but I know where mine are all the time. Do I say something to the children or walk away? I've done both. The mothers shrug and the kids reutrn.

MRS. N.C.B.

DEAR MRS. B.: You can't be a full-time self-appointed policewoman, but you can continue to warn the children when they endager themselves and urge their mothers to be more watchful. Structures in various stages of construction are considered "attractive nuisances" and every effort should be made (by the builder; to keep children out. Signs do not necessarily relieve the builder of responsibility.

DEAR ABBY: Last night my wife threw a tantrum because I wouldn't take her on a business trip with me. She smashed cups and plates against the wall, so I took her across my knee and gave her a good, sound spanking.

Now she claims I "beat" her, and she's suing me for divorce. Abby, she acted like a child so I treated her like one. Was I wrong?

How do you feel about husbands spanking their wives when they have it coming?

HURT AND ANGRY

DEAR HURT: I disapprove of physical punishment in any form. A "good sound spanking" serves only one good purpose: It gives the spanker an opportunity to vent his anger. But I recommend a punching bag-not another person.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going to a psychiatrist of late, with moderate success, and then one day my mother made an appointment with him (for what reasons I do not know) and went to see him, too.

Since then I have been totally unable to relate to him. Doesn't this seem to you like a divorce lawyer trying to represent both sides in a divorce?

WONDERING IN MILWAUKEE

DEAR WONDERING: Quit wondering and ask your psychriatrist.

As Eleanor Tate says in her poem, "The Universal Agrarian:"

row after row in the Black plowed soil;
Like the Fathers of Fathers of Fathers long ago...
like the Multitudes of Other Men who with Bare Brown Hands toil the soil—
Seed by Seed, Sprout by Sprout,
in Eternal Dignity.

Thornburg, 65, and retired, owns a farm northwest of Pleasantville and plans to plant some 70,000 onion spouts this spring. When harvested, he'll sell them to vegetable stand owners in the Pleasantville area.

He plants his onions early in the spring because, he said, onions will "stand a lot of freezing."

"About a year or so ago there were four mornings straight where the temperature got down to about 24, and they never froze," he said. "'Course, your fingers get pretty cold setting them out."

MR. AND MRS. DENNIS COTNER

Evening service held in Good Shepherd Church

Miss Sharon Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Jones, 1146 E. Temple St., and Dennis Cotner, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Cotner, 632½ S. Fayette St., were married June 16 at 7:30 p.m. in Good Shepherd Lutheran Church. The Rev. E.E. Burrall read the double-ring service before an altar flanked with large baskets of gladioli and daisies. Mrs. Earl Hartley played nuptial music.

Miss Jones, given in marriage by her father, wore an empire A-line gown, in white organza with an attached sheer chapel train. Satin bows topped the train, trimmed in daisies and seed pearls. The collar and cuffs of the bishop sleeves were embroidered in lace. Her veil was of nylon and illusion, attached to a headpiece of satin and miniature satin ribbon love-knots framed her face. Her flowers were in a crescent bouquet of pink sweetheart roses, stephanotis and white satin streamers.

Matron of honor for Miss Jones was Mrs. Gary Hidy and bridesmaids were Miss Marilyn O'Flynn and Miss Valerie Cotner, the groom's sister. Debbie Wilson was flower girl and Chuck Wilson, ring bearer, from Wilmington.

Best man was Jack Whited and the bride's cousin, William Jones Jr. and William Cotner Jr., brother of the groom, were ushers.

The bride's attendants wore identically styled frocks of checked gingham floor-length, with leg-o-mutton sleeves. Mrs. Hidy was in lavender and white, Miss O'Flynn in blue and white and Miss Cotner, in pink and white. They carried colonial bouquets daisies and baby's breath, with multi-color streamers.

The groom's attendants wore carnations to match the dresses of the bridesmaids.

Mrs. Jones wore a floor-length navy and white batiste dress for her daughter's wedding and the groom's mother had a light blue formal-length knit, with white flowered bodice. They both had orchid corsages.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church basement, with Miss Kim Cotner, Mrs. Robert Cotner and Mrs. Jack Whited as hostesses. Their corsages were of white daisies. Mrs. Richard Leisure, the bride's sister, was at the guest book and her flowers were yellow and white daisies.

They are living at 729 Sycamore St.

Pretty party honors Miss Oesterle

Miss Melanie Oesterle, bride-elect of Dan Smith, was the guest of honor at a bridal shower, held in the home of Mrs. Virgil Hardman, Miami Trace Rd.

Hostesses for the occasion were Miss Kathy Morris, Miss Jane Counts and Miss Penny Hardman.

The lovely array of gifts were opened by Miss Oesterley and her fiancee, Mr. Smith.

Game prizes, won by Mrs. Maynard Oesterle and Dan Smith, were presented to the honored guest.

The tea table, covered with a lace tablecloth with a yellow underlay, was centered with a bride doll and blue candles. Lime sherbert punch, cookies and mints were served by the hostesses.

The invited guests were Mrs. Maynard Oesterle, of New Holland, and Mrs. Gail Smith, of Newark, mothers of the betrothed couple; Dan Smith and Sandy Smith, of Newark, Miss Debbie Morris, Miss Cindy Cottrill, Diana and Mary Ellen Oesterle, of New Holland;

Mrs. Forrest Priest of Washington C.H.; Mrs. Terry Miracle and daughter, Alison, of Leesburg; Mrs. James Wynkoop and daughter, Lisa and Mrs. Lawrence Woods, of Columbus; Mrs. Warren Traikas, of Bainbridge; Miss Peggy Walker, of Wellston; Mrs. Dee Fawley and Mrs. E.E. Poole, of Chillicothe.

As a glaze for baked ham, you can use a little sweet pickle juice to moisten brown sugar. Pat the sugar mixture over the ham and return to the oven to glaze.

Miss LeMaster is feted at bridal shower

Miss Sharolene LeMaster, bride-elect of David Wackman, was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. John Speakman and Mrs. Fred Pitzer at the home of Mrs. Pitzer.

A color scheme of aqua and lavender was carried out in decorations in the home and refreshments.

Invited guests included Mrs. Forest LeMaster and Mrs. Alex Wackman, mothers of the betrothed couple, Mrs. Pitzer, Mrs. Ed Coil, Miss Alexis Wackman, Miss Jane Ann Wackman, Mrs. Wackman Jr., Mrs. Gerald Wackman, Mrs. Coe, Mrs. Lucille Hoppes, Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Jay Putney;

Mrs. John Ely, Mrs. Forest Gilmer, Mrs. Denen and Mrs. Frank Shasteen, all of Washington C.H.; Mrs. Robert Hamlin, Mrs. Ben Barker, Miss Diana Barker and Mrs. Rose Mabra, of Columbus; and Mrs. Larry Coil, of Middletown.

Miss Lemaster and Mr. Wackman will be married at 7:30 Saturday evening in the First Baptist Church.

Saturday dance scheduled at Country Club

To get the Fourth of July celebration off to a rousing beginning, a dance, for members and guests, will be held at the Washington Country Club, Saturday evening, from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Douglass are in charge and Luther Bolen's band will play for dancing. Cool and casual wear is suggested.

Various golfing and other events are planned for the weekend, culminating in a pot-luck supper Wednesday evening.

Willing Workers

Fifteen members of the Sunnyside Willing Workers class met at the home of Mrs. Edgar Richardson, with Mrs. Mary McCoy in charge of devotions. Mrs. Olive Brookover conducted the business meeting and the usual reports were heard and accepted. A picnic was scheduled for the next meeting at the home of Mrs. Bessie Moots, in Leesburg.

Following the benediction to close the session, Mrs. McCoy assisted Mrs. Richardson serving a salad course.

CHECK PRESSURE CANNER

Planning to can this summer? Check your pressure canner now so you won't be delayed by waiting on parts. Read over the manufacturer's instruction book on care, cleaning, and operation.

Check the canner parts:

If the canner has a rubber gasket, has it been turned? If the gasket is cracked or hard, replace it.

Is the closure tight? Are sealing edges clean? If movable or removable parts show wear, replace them.

Is the vent for exhausting steam shiny clean and free of deposits?

Can you identify the safety plug? It is usually a composition disc or a metal alloy plug which will melt under too high pressure. Either type should be replaced if it is not in good condition.

Give the canner a thorough cleaning. Use a fine cleansing powder such as whiting (available at drug stores) to remove accumulated deposits. Scour the jar rack and dry it carefully. Pull a string or fine bit of cloth through vents and other small openings to clean them.

Have the pressure gauge checked every year before you begin canning. Call our office at 335-1150 for an appointment.

We're setting up workshops on canning for homemakers this summer. We're arranging these to fit your schedule and needs. Call and let me know what help and or information you'd like.

APPLIANCE INFORMATION AT YOUR FINGERTIPS

I'm so pleased with the printing of our 1973 Home Letter Study, "Major Home Appliances: Selection, Use, and Care". It's in a single packet that you can keep on file for future use. You'll learn about refrigerators, freezers, microwave ovens, smooth top ranges, trash compactors, dishwashers, self-cleaning ranges, and general appliance purchasing. It's free. Just call 335-1150 or write the Fayette County Extension Service, Box 190, Washington Court House, Ohio 43160.

Birthday cookout honors two

Mrs. Joseph E. Daugherty and children, Richard, Steffen and Jane, had a cookout Sunday evening to honor the birthdays of Mr. Daugherty and Mrs. Helen Watson, Mrs. Daugherty's sister.

The table was centered with a large birthday cake and joining in the "Happy Birthday" chorus were Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Glass and sons, Craig and Keith, of Bloomingville; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Glass, of Wilmington; Mrs. Helen Glass, Mrs. Ruth Drake, Suzanna, Janet and Juanita McClain, Mike Rouch, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Watson and daughters, Rita and Pamela, and sons, Garry and Ricky and Terry Estle, all of Washington C.H.

The evening was spent visiting.

Serve artichokes with a new dip

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

One of the best ways to serve cooked artichokes is with a dipping sauce. And it's fun to invent one to try on family and guests. That's just what we've done and the recipe follows. We were inspired by the popular filling for sandwiches — hard-cooked eggs, pimiento-stuffed green olives and mayonnaise. Here then is our version of the sandwich filling made into a dip.

ARTICHOKES WITH EGG-OLIVE DIP

3 hard-cooked eggs
¾ cup mayonnaise
1-3 cup finely chopped pimiento-stuffed green olives
1½ teaspoons lemon juice
4 cooked artichokes, see below

Press eggs through a sieve or mash. Add mayonnaise, olives and lemon juice; mix well. Makes 1¼ to 1½ cups. Cover and chill. At serving time spoon this dip into the center of the cooked artichokes or pass the dip separately. Makes 4 servings.

COOKED ARTICHOKES

Cut off the stems of 4 artichokes and remove small bottom leaves. With a sharp heavy knife, cut off about 1 inch from top of artichokes. With a kitchen scissors trim tips from leaves. Stand the artichokes upright in a deep saucepot just large enough to hold them snugly. Add 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon olive oil and enough boiling water to come up high on artichokes. Cover and boil gently until base can be pierced easily with a fork — 35 to 45 minutes. Turn artichokes upside down and allow to drain, then stand top side up. Gently pull out small inner leaves attached to chokes (thistle portions) and discard; with a sturdy teaspoon scoop out chokes and discard. Cover and chill until serving time.

To make herb bread, add caraway seeds, crumbled leaf sage and nutmeg to regular yeast dough for white bread.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — There's a lively media show you might want to catch Thursday night on CBS-TV, particularly if you're among those who think network news departments are filled with rascals, buffoons and poltroons.

The show, "Anatomy of a News Story," doesn't spill any beans in that respect, but it does offer a reasonably thorough, behind-the-lines look at the way a major network covers a major story.

The story was the 1972 GOP National Convention in Miami Beach. CBS News sent a documentary team, headed by producer-reporter John Sharnick, to cover the way CBS' newsmen handled the proceedings.

Special emphasis was put on the way they reported demonstrations; as you'll recall, the networks came under heavy criticism for the way they covered the violent street battles that accompanied the 1968 Democratic National Convention in Chicago.

CBS correspondent Dan Rather notes at the start of "Anatomy" that the 1972 conventions and the threat of similar incidents provided "a good chance for a case study of television news in action—not by way of trying to debate the charges, but simply to give you some basis on which to make your judgements."

He calls the program "a form of self-examination," which is partly correct. CBS newsmen, a field producer and cameramen are asked about their coverage of the scenes outside the convention hall, about what they saw and how they reacted to it.

'Anatomy" is a good primer for viewers who never before have seen the actual pressures and workings of a network news department as it covers a constantly changing story.

It's at its best in capturing the organized pandemonium of the control room, where CBS News executives facing banks of flickering screens must make fast, intelligent decisions while talking with and hearing from two, three or more people simultaneously.

See shortage of milk soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders of the National Milk Producers Federation say that Nixon administration decisions, including the recent price freeze, could lead to milk shortages later this year.

"This nation's consumers will find empty retail dairy counters later this year if corrective measures are not taken immediately," Patrick Healy, federation secretary, said Monday.

The cost of producing milk has risen steeply while prices paid to dairy farmers have lagged, Healy said. The price freeze announced June 13 is an "intolerable position" for producers, he said.

"While it is true that raw agricultural prices were technically exempt from the price freeze, because processors and distributors of milk and dairy products cannot pass their increased cost through the market, the effect is to freeze prices paid farmers," Healy said.

Healy and Glenn Lake, president of the federation, told a news conference that unless dairy farmers get relief soon they will have to cut back operations sharply.

Pesticide safety rules relaxed by government

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bending to pressure from Congress and farmers, the Labor Department has watered down controversial regulations intended to protect farm workers from pesticides.

Asst. Labor Secretary John H. Stender said the original regulations were "broader than necessary" and covered some pesticides that "are not highly toxic."

This was the explanation given by Stender in signing the revised emergency temporary regulations last Friday. They were not to be announced until published in the Federal Register June 29. A copy was obtained by The Associated Press.

The initial regulations, which governed the time farm workers could enter fields or orchards after the area has been sprayed with organophosphorous chemicals, met heavy opposition from growers and farm state congressmen.

Fewer men seek psychiatric aid

VICTORIA, British Columbia (AP) — Dr. Ian Kenning, head of the division of psychiatry at the Eric Martin Institute, says women outnumber men in mental institutions but men outnumber women in jails.

Dr. Kenning says society rules that men must not be sick or weak, so men with emotional problems are less likely to seek psychiatric help and tend instead to get into trouble with the law.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birhtday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

THURSDAY, JUNE 28

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

This should be a fruitful day, when some of your more vigorous efforts could bring unexpected rewards and recognition. Romance also favored.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Best results will accrue from working with those who have know-how and inspiration to offer. Solo ventures may not be as successful.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

Avoid a tendency toward lethargy. Rewards will be commensurate with the efforts you expend. Keep your own counsel in personal affairs.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

Waste no time getting this day out of the planning stage and into enthusiastic, well-executed action. Any possible obstacle should stimulate you — not annoy.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Put a bit more enthusiasm into efforts.. Success can come through new alliances. The "different," if appropriate, could spark day's drive.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Quite unexpectedly, you may be afforded the chance to do something big, attain a new foothold on the ladder to success. Keep alert and ready to act.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

What you say and do now could have more far-reaching effects than you realize, so mark time, think things over before acting. NO impulsiveness!

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Reflexes, intuition and business acumen should be knee now. Especially favored under day's aspects: research, merchandising, business transactions in general.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

With your innate ingenuity, you will probably discover more than one novel way of meeting this day's demands. Others are competing for identical goals: Push on!

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Some situations may be getting out of hand. This is the time to use your wits and clear up matters insofar as YOU are personally concerned.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

A top day for displaying your canny sense of timing and ability to cut deadwood from your schedule. Some new opportunities in the offing.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

YOU BORN TODAY are an extremely sensitive, compassionate and responsive individual, devoted to home, family and friends. You tend to be jealous and overpossessive with loves ones, however, and should try to curb these traits since they tend to "strangle" the very ones whose affection you crave. You have a lively imagination and a delightful sense of humor; would make an excellent writer or entertainer. You could also succeed in the law — especially of the criminal variety — but, if not attracted to any of the aforementioned fields, may find your greatest happiness in science — especially medicine. Your affinity for the unknown and the untried, coupled with your investigative mind, would also make you a brilliant detective.

Child abuse said disgrace

"It is estimated we will be dealing with a minimum of 1.5 million cases of suspected child abuse and neglect this year, approximately 50,000 childhood deaths that could be attributed to maltreatment and 300,000 permanently injured children, (injured) both physically and emotionally," said Dr. Vincent J. Fontana of New York City.

He is director of pediatrics at St. Vincent's Hospital and medical director of the New York Foundling Hospital.

Battered, abused and neglected children grow up to become parents who treat their children the same way, in an abuse that spirals upward, producing more or continuing anger, hate and criminality. Fontana told the American Medical Association meeting in convention here.

"Unless we move to recognize this problem and give a great amount of money toward solving it, some day very few of us will be able to go out on the streets," Fontana said.

Driver, 23, trapped in car-truck crackup

An East Liverpool driver was seriously injured when his foreign model sports car crashed into the rear of a parked semi-rig on I-71, two miles north of Ohio 41, Wednesday morning.

Sheriff's deputies said Geoffery M. Lowe,23, was pinned in his mangled car for several minutes before he was finally freed and brought to Memorial Hospital. He suffered head injuries and was later transfered to Riverside Hospital, Columbus,

Officers said Lowe's seatbelt was fastened and possibly saved him from further injuries.

The 1970 model car was demolished. There was moderate damage to the left rear of the tank trailer.

THREE DRIVERS were cited in two other traffic mishaps investigated by police and sheriff's departments overnight.

Drivers of both cars involved in a crash in front of 1225 N. North Street at 8:48 p.m. Tuesday were cited by police for traffic law violations.

Investigation officers said a car driven by Kenneth J. Matthews, 21, of 1225 N. North St., had pulled from a private drive into the path of a southbound car driven by Charles B. Eastes, 16, of 412½ Eastern Ave.

The Eastes car hit the left rear of Matthew's car and both vehicles spun around off the east side of the highway. Officers said the head lights on the Eastes car were not on at the time of the crash.

Matthews was cited for failure to yield the right of way and Eastes for driving without sufficient lights. Damage to both cars was moderate.

SHERIFF'S deputies cited David J. Williams, 28, Storybrook Apt. 882, for failing to drive on the right side of the roadway after a single car crash on the CCC Highway-W just east of Jasper-Coil Road at 1 a.m. Wednesday.

Ruth Ann Brown, 1104 Gregg St., is seeking a divorce from James E. Brown, 1145 E. Paint St., charging neglect of duty. The parties were married here Dec. 10, 1970, and have no children, the petition states. The plaintiff is seeking alimony.

Shirley S. Moore, 622 W. Market St., has filed for divorce from Stephen C. Moore, 520 N. North St., charging neglect. The parties were married here Oct. 6, 1971, and have no children, according to the petition.

Storm damage minimal here

Despite some ominous looking clouds, and a tornado watch, strong winds, there was little in the way of damage reported as a result of a band of thunderstorms which passed through Fayette County Tuesday evening.

Local weather observer Coyt A. Stookey, reported .35 inch of rain fell in the Washington C.H. area. Gale Parrett reported .84 inch of precipitation at Parrott Station.

Trees were reported down across roads in Octa and on Prairie Road while city police reported some limbs in streets.

Dayton Power and Light Co., and Ohio Bell Telephone Co., both said they had some scattered outages but no major damage.

Union trustees meet

Union Township trustees had a short, routine meeting Tuesday night. The payment of several bills was approved.

Ohio's corn crop fate in question

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Ohio's corn crop, delayed and disorganized by rain and muddy fields, finally is virtually in the ground. The next question, is: What kind of yield will farmers get?

"When you plant after the optimum deadline," said Dr. Herbert Hadley of Ohio State University, "you can expect reduced yield.

"Say the optimum planting deadline is May 10. You may lose as much as half a bushel an acre a day for every day you plant after that."

Ohio's average yield is just under 90 bushels to the acre. With corn selling at more than $2 a bushel, and the intended acreage for this year estimated at 3.66 million acres, the loss in money could be sizeable.

Loss of just one bushel to the acre would add up to $7.3 million at harvest time.

Ohio corn planting is reported to be two weeks to one month behind schedule. "Ohio is worse off than any of the corn belt states," said Dr. Hadley. "For instance, a week ago the average of the corn belt states was 96 per cent of the corn crop planted. Ohio stood at 90 per cent."

The Statistical Reporting Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture said corn, by tradition knee-high on July 4, was running 11 inches tall compared to 13 inches tall this time last year.

"Ohio still needs more sun and less wetness," SRS said. "Farmers have been able to get into the fields four days last week and five days the previous week.

"That's the third time this year the average has gone over four days and the first time it has gone over four days two consecutive weeks."

Dr. Hadley said, "South of Columbus the corn looks good. It's spotty, of course, and weedy here and there. North of Columbus they're hurting more. The Northeast is worse off, but the Northwest reports are generally fair."

Buckeye farmers have planted 80 per cent of the soybean crop, SRS reported, and the yields are listed as in fair condition. Beans are running four inches tall, about the same as last year.

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Safety Council estimates that between 180 and 240 persons may be killed in traffic accidents during the Fourth of July holiday.

The estimate covers the period from 6 p.m. Tuesday, July 3, to midnight Wednesay, July 4, in each daylight time zone. The six hours of Tuesday are included to account for those leaving on trips immediately after work.

During the same 30-hour period, the council estimated 10,000 to 12,000 persons may suffer disabling injuries in motor traffic accidents. It defines disabling injuries as those requiring hospital care beyond the day of the accident.

The last time Independence Day fell on Wednesday was in 1962. There were 146 fatalities that year.

Arizona accident claims Ohio woman

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP) — A collision involving two station wagons has claimed the lives of two Arizonans and an elderly Ohio woman.

The Arizona Highway Patrol identified the victims Tuesday as Ronald Delmont Mafit, 21, Flagstaff; Mayme Aleen Strang, 72, Phoenix, Ariz.; and Vonna Leif, about 70, Ansonia, Ohio.

Group due here this weekend

City to host 40 AFS students

Forty foreign students who have been in Southwestern Ohio high schools this past year under the American Field Service program will meet at Washington Senior High School Saturday to begin a one-week tour of the Eastern Uunited States.

After they have completed the tour, each will leave for his or her respective homeland.

Two of the students will arrive Friday night and stay with local residents. The rest will be arriving Saturday morning to board a Greyhound bus for an itinerary known only by AFS aides.

The purpose of the trip is twofold — it gives the students a chance to better acquaint themselves with the country in which they have studied, and it cushions the blow of leaving the American families with whom they have been living.

The separation of these "families" is difficult for both the student and their American hosts, and the trip acts as a buffer for the students.

Beginning at 7 a.m. Saturday Mrs. Walter Seifried will be checking in the young visitors, while William Pool is weighing their luggage. Mrs. Gerald Wheat will be serving coffee at the Washington Senior High School building to the students and their "parents" as well as any local residents who wish to attend.

The visiting students will leave for the Eastern seaboard and their homes Monday, July 9.

State solons seek avenue for parochial aid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State lawmakers apparently have not given up plans to try to help Ohio's parochial schools, despite Monday's adverse decision by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Members of the conference committee from both political parties said Tuesday night that other legal ways may be found, and that at least part of the $81 million originally earmarked for that purpose should be kept for parochial education.

The high court ruled that a New York law granting tax credits to parents of parochial school pupils violates the constitutional separation of church and state. Ohio's law is almost identical.

A Democratic member of the conference committee studying the state's proposed $9.9 billion budget said he wants the legislature to appropriate the entire $81 million pending further study.

"It's their money," said House Speaker Pro Tem Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, one of the three Democrats on the six-member conference committee.

Riffe said it may be possible for the state to channel some of the funds to the private schools in auxiliary services such as textbooks and audio-visual aids. He said Ohio has been doing this since 1967 "and so far as I know, this latest decision doesn't affect it."

Senate Finance Chairman Max H. Dennis, R-10 Wilmington, one of the three GOP conferees, indicated Republicans want to retain the $53.6 million subsidy appropriated in the 1973-75 budget, but may seek to reappropriate $27.9 million left over from this biennium after the tax credit program was halted in the courts.

The present budget expires at midnight Saturday.

Dennis said Republicans may propose using $16 million for additional vocational education construction, with that amount representing the state's share of matching funds with local vocational school districts. He said the local districts have voted levies to provide their share and the state is obligated to provide the remainder.

Otherwise, the Wilmington attorney said he feels "there are many worthwhile things" the legislature might do in areas it felt it previously could not afford. Among these, he said, are subsidies for increased salaries for deputy sheriffs and transportation for retarded school pupils.

The conference committee headed by House Finance Chairman Myrl Shoemaker, D-88 Bourneville, held no formal meetings Tuesday, but had a series of "private discussions." He said the committee probably will get together for a formal session Wednesday.

Besides the dilemma over the parochial schools, the committee still has to resolve Senate-House differences on about $100 million in cut state department budget requests.

Democrats want to scale down a GOP provision for $75 million in income tax relief for working couples who file joint returns—about 10 per cent a year—and use some of that money to restore the cuts.

Dennis said Tuesday that Republicans will not agree.

"We're holding firm on that," he said.

Theft, dumping reports checked

A bicycle theft and trash-dumping complaint were investigated by police and sheriff's departments overnight.

Debbie Lightner, of 832 S. Hinde St., reported that a bicycle had been stolen from the front yard at her home sometime overnight Monday. The bicycle was recovered Tuesday.

Someone dumped several bags of trash in a ditch on Creek Road, near Rock Bridge. The trash was discovered by a county highway department crew.

Ohio Perspective

State solons get vacation itch

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Some Ohio legislators are showing signs of restlessness now that the summer vacation season has begun.

Rep. Thomas P. Gilmartin, D-51 Youngstown, admits he is one of the restless group, but the veteran Democrat said it wasn't so much the time of the year.

"I think the people get tired of us being down here so long," said Gilmartin the other night in the Statehouse. "They think there's too much government as it is."

Gilmartin is a veteran of five House terms and one in the Senate. He has learned compromise as a means of speeding up legislation.

The Youngstown legislator was among a trio of House Democrats who wanted to concur last week in Republican changes to Gov. John J. Gilligan's $9.9 billion appropriations bill.

"I think it's a basically good bill," Gilmartin said. "We ought to pass it and get out of here."

Gilmartin voted to concur along with Reps. George Tablack, D-52 Campbell, and John P. Wargo, D-2 Lisbon. Others who might have so voted were persuaded not to do so at a Democratic caucus.

Robert Tenenbaum, Gov. John J. Gilligan's press secretary, sent out word that he and the communications staff had been moved during the remodeling of the governor's office.

He said their new office area is next to the base of the west steps inside the rotunda, and could be entered through a door "which has been kept locked for several years."

Tenenbaum added: "For those of you who attach significance to such things, we are just to the left of the Mike DiSalle portrait and opposite the Jim Rhodes portrait."

Sen. Robert T. Secrest, the former long-time congressman from Cambridge who has sat through thousands of hours of legislative hearings, likes to reduce things to pure simplicity when it's possible.

Secrest was listening at a committee meeting to an explanation of an amendment to eliminate a $1.7 million claims fund in the budget of the attorney general.

The senator bore down with questions after hearing that the attorney general wanted the rotary fund eliminated. Finally he established that the witness wanted the money transferred, not taken out of the budget.

"He asked that you take off a shoe, and you cut off the whole foot," Secrest said, producing chuckles along the table but no disagreement.

Resolution adopted for 'Tecumseh' show

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State senators Tuesday unanimously adopted a resolution saluting sponsors of Ohio's newest outdoor epic drama, "Tecumseh," which tells the story of the troubled Ohio frontier and portrays the Shawnee chief as "one of the most powerful figures in American history."

Sen. Harry Armstrong, R-17 Logan, offered the resolution saying the production will enhance the Scioto Valley's tourist prospects and also be an economic boost for the area.

Golf course expenses mount; so does income

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Maybe some of you country clubbers wouldn't complain so loudly about your dues if you knew how much it costs to maintain that lush golf course you so casually abuse.

The typical course that could be maintained for $3,162 a hole in 1958 now costs $6,243 a hole, and like most things in life the increase is accelerating.

Expenses last year rose 5.3 per cent, which really isn't so bad as to make you spill your drink. Your household expenses probably rose more than that.

An accounting firm, Harris, Kerr, Forster & Co., broke down the costs of operating 100 clubs coast to coast, and now you have some dollar signs to think about every time you make a divot with your five iron.

The biggest item, as it always has been, is labor, which averaged out in the survey to $3,833 a hole, to which must be added $437 in payroll taxes and employe benefits.

Course supplies and contracts added another $919; repairs to equipment, buildings, water and drainage systems tacked on $597, and "all other expenses" put $457 on the tab, bringing the total to $6,243.

But this is an average, and in a country so large and diverse as the United States, averages lie. The operator of a Pacific Coast club might give a consultant free golf privileges if he told him how to reduce his costs to that of a Midwest club.

Here's the breakdown: East $5,852, South $6,901, Midwest $5,166, and Far West $8,150. The accounting firm didn't specify the reasons for the spread, but topographical and climatic conditions, and life styles, clearly played a role.

There is one more cost factor that isn't included on the line called "total golf course maintenance." It is called "golf shop, caddy and committee expenses, and it adds $1,216, making total golf expenses $7,459.

But then there is another side to the ledger that puts all these figures into reverse. The accountants put it on a line called "income from golf fees, golf carts, driving range, etc." and subtact it from total golf expenses.

While the average of such income was $3,016, the regional differences again were great: $1,980 in the East, $3,280 South, $2,747 Midwest and $5,394 in the Far West.

Because this income was highest in areas where expenses were also highest, net golf expenses throughout the country were surprisingly near the $4,443 average in all geographical divisions.

Country clubs do, of course, have income other than from golf. Members pay dues, for example, which averaged $657 last year, an increase of $40 in one year, and about double the dues of 1958.

And they eat and drink at the clubs. Food and beverage sales averaged $611 per club last year, which might convince certain indulgent members that they are contributing by their presence at the bar, until they realize that many clubs lose money on such operations.

Use of computers delaying payments?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Welfare Department's use of computers is delaying payment to health care providers of crippled children, two legislators charged Tuesday.

State Reps. Sam Speck, R-95 New Concord, and E. William O'Neill, R-26 Columbus, said the program does not have to be billed by computer, as the rest of the Medicaid programs.

Governor's award for Youngstown firm

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The governor's award for Community Action was presented Tuesday to Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co.

Gov. John Gilligan honored the firm for its efforts in installing pollution control equipment at its Ohio plants.

Grover takes helm as Rotary Club 'changes guard'

The Washington C.H. Rotary Club went through its customary "changing of the guard" ceremonies at its regular meeting held Tuesday in the Country Club.

Fred L. Domenico conducted his last meeting as president and turned the gavel over to Phil Grover, the new president, who was officially installed.

Domenico reviewed what he felt was "a very good year" in the Rotary Club and thanked members for their cooperation throughout his term of office.

He mentioned projects such as the Rotary-Ann program and the inception of the Rotary foreign exchange student program in which Edson Pitwak came to Washington C.H. from Brazil. The annual Little League fish fry was also a highlight of Domenico's review. This year's fish fry was termed the best-ever in regard to the amount of money which was raised to benefit the Little League baseball program in Washington C.H.

Grover outlined his program for the coming year and announced the various committee appointments.

Judge Rollo M. Marchant presented the traditional charge to the Rotary Club's new members. Marchant paid tribute to the late Ray Maddox who prepared the charge a number of years while he was a member of the Rotary Club.

The club inducted eight new members this year. They are Ray Downing, Ron Hidy, John Gruber, John Toby, the Rev. Elmer E. Burrall, City Manager Dan Wolford, Jack Brennan and Leo Krause.

Froeign exchange students Claudia Becht, of West Germany, who lived with the Dwight Duff family, Washington-Waterloo Rd., and Bundit Kanyavongha, of Thailand, who lived with the Edwin Nestor family, Green Valley Rd., were guests of the club and were presented gifts. The students were introduced by William Pool. The Rotary Club is active in the foreign exchange student program.

Edwin Nestor was a guest of Domenico, and visiting Rotarians were Dr. Walter Felson, of Greenfield, John Hill, of London, and Larry Hughes, of Mount Sterling.

2 more bodies taken from river

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— The bodies of two drowning victims were recovered by authorities Tuesday, leaving one of four persons lost in weekend accidents still missing.

The bodies of Ralph Hensley, 23, Price Hill, and David Roach, 19, Mt. Healthy, were retrieved by rescue workers.

Hensley and a companion drowned while swimming in the Whitewater River between Elizabethtown and Cleves. Roach and Charles Manis, 25, Norwood, disappeared in the same stretch of water.

Manis' body is still missing.

Anyway, it worked

BOMBAY, India (AP) — An accused gambler claimed a pickpocket took his money in the courtroom just before his bail hearing. The judge gave him the benefit of the doubt and freed him without bail.

BABY CHICKS KILLED — Workers in a hatchery in Ranger, Ga., dump baby chicks into large drums that will be covered and buried in woods nearby. More than 20,000 were destroyed by the hatchery which said President Nixon's price freeze and the rising cost of grain would force them to sell the chicks, when full grown, at a loss.

European fuel supply plentiful

LONDON (AP) — The oil shortage threatening American motorists has not been felt in Europe and it is not expected to become a problem anytime soon, according to oil industry sources.

A British oil industry source says, "America is now paying for 70 years of self-sufficiency.

"For years the United States was able to meet its own oil needs from domestic production while Europe had to buy its oil on the world market.

"Now because of increasing needs, the U.S. has had to come out onto the world market to buy where Europeans already are well-established and have their supplies sewed up," the source explained.

European oil industry sources predict that some day oil could also be in short supply for the Europeans if American companies continue their shopping spree on world markets.

Oil experts say that American antipollution laws, which cut gas mileage and restrict refining operations, also contribute to the U.S. fuel shortage. The many heavy, high-powered cars Americans drive also contribute to the problem.

However, gasoline prices are high in Europe compared to America and the price is going up in several countries. Britain had a recent price rise of 2.6 U.S. cents which brought the price of a gallon of gasoline to 99 cents.

West German officials say the price of a liter of gasoline has risen since January by nearly one U.S cent to around 26 cents a liter. Another 2-cent increase is expected next month when an anti-inflation tax is imposed. A liter is slightly more than a quart.

The only report of gasoline shortages comes from Moscow, where the city's relatively few stations sometimes run out. But this probably is due to logistical and distribution problems plaguing the Soviet economy, rather than to any shortage of gasoline.

Traffic Court

Two drivers were fined and three forfeited bond in traffic cases before Judge Reed M. Winegardner in Municipal Court Tuesday afternoon.

POLICE

Fined:

SHERIFF

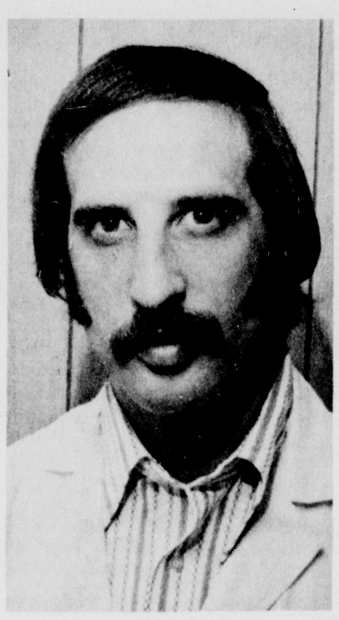
Bond Forfeitures:

Robert L. Wilson, 34, Rt. 3, reckless operation, $60.

Samuel J. Hunt, 59, Sabina, reckless operation $60.

Gerald G. Bowsher, 30, of 825 Washington Ct., failure to yield the right of way, $25.

The golden-mantled squirrel spends most of its life sleeping. Even after seven months of hibernation, it rises for "breakfast" late in the morning.



DR. ROBERT L. FIERMAN

Two podiatrists practicing in Washington C.H.

Dr. Robert L. Fierman of Columbus and Dr. Fred R. Knopf, of Dayton, both graduate foot specialists, have taken over the podiatry practice of Dr. William E. Lawyer at 312 E. Market St.

The office is open for appointments Tuesday through Friday. Dr. Fierman is in the office on Tuesdays and Thursdays, and Dr. Knopf is in the office on Wednesdays and Fridays.

Dr. Lawyer, whose patient records have been retained in the office, is now practicing in Columbus and teaching at Ohio State University.

Arrests

POLICE

TUESDAY — Charles B. Eastes, 16, 412½ Eastern Ave., driving without lights.

Kenneth J. Matthews, 21, of 1225 N. North St., failure to yield the right of way.

SHERIFF

WEDNESDAY — David J. Williams, 29, of Apt. 882, Storybrook, failure to drive on the right side of the roadway.

Irish election violence mounts

BELFAST (AP) — Northern Ireland's bloodstained election campaign hit the final stretch today with tight security planned against the threat of bombing and assassination.

One million persons are expected to vote Thursday for a provincial assembly intended to help end the province's guerrilla war between Protestants and Roman Catholics.

The three-week campaign has produced 25 violent deaths and more than 70 bombings.

New Girl Scout program has parents up in arms

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Girl Scouts 12 to 14 years old are being told about sex, birth control and abortion in a pilot program here. Some protesting mothers feel the girls should stick to baking cookies.

The controversy centers around a new Girl Scout merit badge called "To Be a Woman." It threatens to split Philadelphia's Girl Scout troops.

Roman Catholics, especially, are up in arms over the badge which has not yet been approved nationally.

The merit badge has four parts: Know Our Bodies, Know Our Heritage, Know Your Opportunities and Know Our Situation.

Requirements include knowledge about menopause, hysterectomies, termination of a pregnancy, women in history, how women live and how to handle a rape emergency. Girls are urged to visit a VD clinic, to use a stethoscope and listen to their hearts and lungs and those of their friends and to prepare a skit on how to deal with a rape situation.

Parental permission is required to participate in the program. But this doesn't satisfy critics.

"Nonsense," replies Muriel Lehman, president of the Philadelphia Council, which has 29,000 scouts.

Mrs. Lehman says, "The badge supports women in their struggle for parity. For too long women have been ill-informed, timid, inactive or denied the opportunity to be truly active citizens."

Mrs. Arnold sees the badge as representing "a radical element of the women's liberation movement." She adds:

"I would rather not have my children indoctrinated to sex education, abortion education and contraceptive education, especially at so young an age."

Ernesta Drinker Ballard is chairman of the "To Be a Woman" badge committee. She disagrees with those who say it isn't "the Girl Scout organization's place to make children aware of womanhood and their bodies" and that sex education should be taught at home or in church.

Mrs. Ballard says, "Our office has received letters from scouts who cannot discuss these subjects with their parents and do not learn it in health class."

Hold justice workshop

CAMBRIDGE, Ohio (AP) — The 39-member Ohio Criminal Justice Supervisory Commission opens a three-day workshop at Salt Fork State Park here today to examine recommendations of a national study on criminal justice.

Judge John V. Corrigan of Cleveland, chairman of the state commission, said Tuesday "Ohio must take a long and hard look at the complete criminal justice system in light of a national call for higher standards and greater goals.

"This week Ohio will become one of the first states in the union to begin such a major revision in its justice environment."

Corrigan termed the workshop "a screening session, and an opportunity to sift out those recommendations by the national commission which should be implemented in Ohio."

Dollar slumps after trade data bared

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar slumped to another record low in Frankfurt and was down at the opening of other European exchanges today.

Disappointment over a bad showing in American overseas trade was blamed for setting off a new wave of dollar selling.

"There is just no encouraging news from America these days," one dealer in London commented.

The dollar opened at 2.5180 marks in Frankfurt after being as low as 2.5125 marks in premarket dealing. That was a drop of four pfennigs in the past 36 hours. Tuesday's closing level was 2.5325 marks.

In London, the pound jumped more than half a cent to $2.58395.

In Paris, the dollar dropped two centimes to 4.2050 francs, still above the all-time low of 4.17 francs.

The dollar price of gold moved up 50 cents an ounce to $123.50 in London and 25 cents in Zurich to $123.25. The dollar price of the metal generally moves in opposition to the value of the dollar.

Brazil, the fifth largest country in the world, is bordered by every country in South America except Chile and Ecuador.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The Soviet press has created an aura of triumph for Leonid I. Brezhnev on his return from his prospecting trip to the goldfields of capitalism. The enormous press coverage suggests to Russians that their chief's summitry was the biggest thing since the Bolshevik revolution.

That could leave many a Russian puzzled. It should present some mysteries for knowledgeable Americans as well.

"As you know, two years ago the 24th Congress of our ruling party, the Communist party of the Soviet Union, approved the Soviet peace program, which is a concrete embodiment of the policy of peaceful coexistence in modern conditions," said Brezhnev on U.S. television.

He likely was aware few Americans knew anything of the sort.

But if Americans take his word for it, that the long centerpiece report Brezhnev laid down at that Congress was the source of this whole peace offensive, it makes for some interesting reflections about Brezhnev 1971 and Brezhnev 1973. Just a few examples:

Brezhnev industriously courted every U.S. capitalist within reach in his U.S. week, admiring the American system's efficiency and know-how and expressing hopes of concluding big deals. What did he have to say about the U.S. system in 1971 when, according to him, his current foreign policy was being drawn up?

"The general crisis of capitalism has continued to deepen," he said in the report that was the basis of his current program. "Even the most developed capitalist states are not free from grave economic upheavals. The U.S.A., for example, has been floundering in one of its economic crises for almost two years."

Brezhnev told the American public that patience and understanding are needed to promote peace. What sort of understanding of the U.S. "imperialists" did he display in that 1971 program speech?

"The imperialists are prepared to commit any crime in their efforts to preserve and restore their domination of peoples in ... countries that are escaping from the grip of capitalist exploitation...." Brezhnev told the Americans the cold war was over. Does this suggest calling it quits in the war of ideology?

In that same "program" speech of 1971, Brezhnev said Soviet policies meant "fresh prospects have opened up for the triumph of socialism all over the world.

"The full triumph of the socialist cause all over the world is inevitable," he said. "And we shall not spare ourselves in the fight for this triumph."

Fuel costs increase for school districts

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Twelve school districts in Franklin County will have to pay more for their fuel this fiscal year.

Standard Oil submitted the lone bid on the one million gallons of fuel the districts use each year.

The bid was 26.9 cents a gallon. Last year, school districts bought gasoline at prices ranging from 18.95 cents to 21.45 a gallon.

Paris summitry enters 2nd day

Gesturing toward the chateau, Pompidou told the Soviet leader, "This is where the rupture between De Gaulle and Macmillan took place."

He was referring to a 1962 meeting in which the then British prime minister, Harold Macmillan and Gen. Charles de Gaulle could not agree on a concept for an independent nuclear force.

Tolan's escape act fuses Cincy's win over Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Cincinnati centerfielder Bobby Tolan pulled an escape act in stealing second base against Houston that would have made Houdini proud.

Tolan, apparently caught in a rundown, dived into Astros shortstop Roger Metzger in the eighth inning and mysteriously appeared again on second base without being tagged Tuesday night.

From that point, with two out, the Redlegs scored three runs on a two-run double by Dave Concepcion and a run-scoring single by Bill Plummer to rout the Houston Astros 5-1, snapping a four-game winning streak.

"I tagged him as I jumped over him," Metzger said. "I wasn't low enough to tag the turf and I know I hit something."

"They had already run me as hard as I could go, so I figured the only thing to do was slide," said Tolan. "I didn't feel any tag. The only thing I felt was (pitcher Don) Wilson's knee when I dove back into second base."

"I'm looking right down the line and I can see Metzger tag him," said Astros Manager Leo Durocher, who was ejected from the game in the ensuing rhubarb for kicking a batting helmet twice. "That call cost us three runs."

The Astros already were trailing the Reds 2-1 on the strength of Joe Morgan's tworun double in the third inning. Houston got its only run in the second off Tommy Helm's double.

The Astros blew plenty of scoring opportunities against the defending National League champions, leaving runners on third base in the third, fourth and sixth innings.

Doug Rader flied out with the bases loaded and two away in the third. In the fourth, Reds right fielder Larry Stahl caught Jim Wynn's fly, then made a perfect throw home to catch Tommy Helms.

Successive groundouts by Wynn and Metzger ended the sixth with runners on second and third.

Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson said Tolan definitely was safe on the controversial play, but he couldn't say if the victory would pick the Reds up from the doldrums.

But Anderson agreed that a few more escape acts like Tolan's would help the Reds in their efforts to climb from fourth place in the National League West.

Creamer elevated in MT's basketball coaching ranks

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Sports Editor

Dale Creamer, reserve basketball coach at Miami Trace High School the past four seasons, has been elevated to the head coaching position.

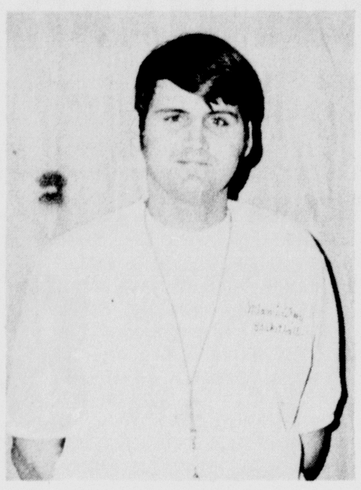
Creamer, who was named to the head coaching job by the Fayette County Board of Education at its regular meeting Tuesday night, replaces Jan Stauffer, who resigned last week to accept a position as an assistant instructor in physical education and help head coach Bobby Knight with the basketball program at Indiana University.

STAUFFER, who had coached Miami Trace's basketball teams for the past three years, will also be working toward his doctorate degree at Indiana University.

Creamer, a product of Otterbein College, Westerville, and a former All-South Central Ohio League basketball player, has guided Miami Trace's reserve basketball teams to a respectable 42-30 all-games record during his four-year tenure.

His first Panther version turned in a lowly 4-14 all-games record, but the 1970-71 team completely reversed that showing with a 14-4 mark and captured a SCOL championship.

Creamer's last two Miami Trace editions have registered identical 12-6 records, with the 1971-72 team winning a SCOL title.



DALE CREAMER

In the 1970 and 1971 seasons, Creamer was an assistant with the Miami Trace freshman football program and last year joined head coach Fred Bernier's varsity staff where he tutored the offensive line.

He was born in Jeffersonville and graduated from Pleasant View High School, near Columbus, in 1962. Creamer played basketball, baseball and football and it was in basketball that he was named to the All-SCOL honors during his senior year. In football he played defensive tackle and was a pitcher in baseball.

Following graduation from Pleasant View High School, Creamer went to Otterbein College where he received a bachelor of science degree in education in 1966.

Creamer played varsity basketball for three years at Otterbein College before a fractured foot sidelined him during his senior season.

AFTER GRADUATION from Otterbein College, Creamer accepted a teaching position in the Xenia School District, where he stayed three years before coming to Miami Trace.

While at Xenia he coached junior high football, basketball and baseball for one year and served as an assistant coach and reserve basketball coach for two seasons on the high school level.

During his first year at Miami Trace, Creamer taught at Eber Junior High School and the following year joined the high school faculty. He has been teaching history and driver's education, but will instruct health and physical education next school year.

In 1971, Creamer completed the requirements for his master's degree at Xavier University, Cincinnati.

Creamer and his wife, Susan, reside at 403 Western Ave., in Washington C.H. and have two children, Kimberly, 3, and Kregg, eight and a half months.

Unser's career aided by Washington paper

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Del Unser is not one of them.

In fact, the Philadelphia outfielder, who had five hits, including two homers in Tuesday's twi-night doubleheader split with the St. Louis Cardinals, recognizes that a Washington paper may have helped his career.

Unser's three-run blast in the first game powered the Phils to a 10-3 victory and his two-out ninth-inning homer tied the second game before the Cards won it in the 11th.

Last winter, Unser opened a Washington paper only to find he'd be reading a different sports page this summer. The story said he'd be trading his fifth-place letters in Cleveland for Philadelphia's last-place letters.

But that didn't bother Unser. Reading on, Unser found out that his job in Philadelphia wasn't going to be fulltime. Now that irked Unser.

The article said that he was slated for pinch-hitting, pinchrunning and defensive work, all part-time stuff. So the first act he did as a Philadelphia Phillie was call his manager.

"I'm going to be a starter," Unser said from his end of the phone. "Just give me a chance."

From the other end of the line Phils' Manager Danny Ozark claimed he was misquoted and assured Unser he'd get his chance.

Elsewhere in the National League, Los Angeles shut out San Diego 7-0; Atlanta blasted San Francisco 9-2; Chicago defeated New York 5-1; Cincinnati beat Houston 5-1 and Montreal stunned Pittsburgh 10-3.

The Giants lost No. 14 of their last 18 games Tuesday night at the hands of Atlanta. Substitute starter Ron Scheuler pitched a six-hitter and Darrell Evans and John Oates clouted homers in the Braves' victory.

The loss dropped the Giants 6½ games behind the pace-setting Dodgers in the NL West.

The Dodgers, behind Don Sutton's two-hit pitching, blanked the Padres for their 11th victory in their last 12 games.

The Mets are damaging New York's dream of a subway series. While the Yankees are first in the American League East, the Mets have dropped into last place in the NL East. Burt Hooton pitched a four-hitter and Jose Cardenal keyed a three-run third inning rally for Chicago's victory.

The Cubs now lead second-place Montreal by 6½ games.

In Houston, Joe Morgan's two-run double and the combined pitching of Ross Grimsley and Clay Carroll gave Cincinnati the victory and halted the Astros' four-game winning streak.

Rozelle still ponders drug testing proposal

NEW YORK (AP) — National Football League players who have been steaming over reports that Commissioner Pete Rozelle might force them to take urine tests as a means of deterring drug abuse may soon have a new target for their wrath.

Rozelle said Tuesday the league has put off any plans for such unprecedented testing of its athletes—but he stressed the idea is far from dead.

It is "still under consideration," he said, and may be resurrected for the 1973 season if legal problems regarding such a concept don't crop up and if the league's newest official, a medical consultant, thinks it's necessary.

The post hasn't been filled yet and isn't expected to be until this summer. Rozelle said three men—none of whom he identified—are being considered for the job and that several medical groups are being consulted in the search for the right man.

The appointment of an NFL medical consultant and the absence of urinalysis were highlights of a news conference in which Rozelle introduced some new procedures to supplement the league's drug abuse program.

The 26 team representatives in the NFLPA unanimously endorsed a resolution last Sunday rejecting "proposals lacking due process which would invade the privacy of gifted athletes and further violate individual rights and freedoms enjoyed by other citizens."

And a number of players, fuming over what they feel is the idea that they might end up being treated like race horses, say they're ready to seek legal counsel to fight urine testing.

The NFL didn't come up with the idea. It sprang from a congressional subcommittee probing the relation, if any, between sports and drugs. And the subcommittee has suggested that, if the drug problem becomes a serious one, it may seek its own solutions—such as urinalysis in a variety of pro sports.

Pistol match slated Sunday

The Fayette County Fish and Game Association will sponsor the second in a series of pistol matches from noon until 5 p.m. Sunday at the association's range on Stafford Road.

Phil French, chairman of the project, said all firing courses will be held at a distance of 50 yards and the competiitors will be grouped together according to the type of handgun.

The course of fire will consist of 30 shots and the public is invited to participate in the event.

The Fish and Game Association's April 29 pistol match attracted a fine turnout and officials are expecting more competitors this month.

WCH visits Waverly in SCOL play tonight

Weather permitting, Washington C.H.'s Post 25 American Legion baseball team will be hoping to improve its disappointing 1-4 record inside the South Central Ohio League pennant chase tonight when it visits Waverly for a single game beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Rain forced postponement of a non-league game between Washington C.H. and Lebanon Tuesday night at the Washington Senior High School diamond.

The game, played under a tornado watch, got off to a late start and the teams had completed three innings before home plate umpire Dale Creamer called the game at 8:45 p.m. following a 15-minute delay.

THE RAINS started to drench the players in the third inning after a three-run triple by Randy Rodgers had handed Washington C.H. a comfortable 5-0 lead. Post 25 had pushed across two runs in the opening inning on a two-run single by Paul England.

Lebanon was threatening to score in its half of the fourth inning as two runners had reached the basepaths on Post 25 starting pitcher Jeff Green before the weather conditions forced the umpires to call the game.

Following tonight's SCOL encounter at Waverly, Post 25 will have Thursday off before entertaining always-tough Cincinnati Bentley in a 5:30 p.m. clash Friday at the WSHS diamond.

Two more home games are billed for Post 25 this weekend. Washington C.H. is scheduled to host Groveport in a non-league game here Saturday and veteran manager Dick Shaffer's Hillsboro team will invade for a SCOL doubleheader at 1:30 p.m. Sunday.

Nicklaus threatened during tournament

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Authorities were remaining quiet over a reported death threat against golfer Jack Nicklaus Tuesday while he was playing a fund-raising round with comedian Bob Hope.

Additional protection joined the duo after the threat was made, according to The Cincinnati Enquirer.

Blue Chip Dan joins race with Secretariat

CHICAGO (AP) — It will be three against the Big One at Arlington Park Saturday, with Blue Chip Dan joining the battle against Secretariat in a 1⅛-mile, $125,000 special race.

An Arlington Park spokesman announced Tuesday that the connections of Secretariat, the winner of the Triple Crown; Our Native and My Gallant, had agreed to allow Blue Chip Dan into the race.

Decker's prayer answered with 15-whiff performance

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The curveball and the fastball are a pitcher's most effective weapons. But then, it never hurts to look elsewhere for an extra edge.

Minnesota's Joe Decker looked...up.

"Before the game," said Decker after his 15-strikeout effort defeated the Chicago White Sox 4-0 Tuesday night, "I prayed that I would have a decent performance. One that would get me started—get me going this season."

To say that Decker's prayer was answered is an understatement. The strikeout total became the new American League high this season and nearly doubled the total the 26-year-old right-hander had accumulated going into the game.

In other American League games, the New York Yankees pummeled the Cleveland Indians 10-2, the Baltimore Orioles blanked the Milwaukee Brewers 6-0, the Detroit Tigers topped the Boston Red Sox 4-1, the Oakland Athletics beat the Texas Rangers 6-2 and the California Angels edged the Kansas City Royals 6-5.

At Fenway Park in Boston, Mike Strahler pitched 8 2-3 innings of seven-hit ball to help defeat the Red Sox and break the Tigers' eight-game losing streak. Gates Brown supplied the power with a run-scoring triple and two singles and Strahler did the rest, except for the final out, which was handled by John Hiller.

For many of the Oakland A's, the highlight of their victory was was not the long-ball hitting of Bill North and Joe Rudi, but the appearance at bat of relief pitcher Roilie Fingers. Fingers, who batted .316 last year before the inception of the designated hitter, batted for Deron Johnson in the ninth inning of the triumph.

The result might explain why the AL doesn't allow its pitchers to swing bats. Fingers fanned, becoming the second pitcher to have a strikeout recorded next to his name. Chicago's Cy Acosta was the first.

The Cleveland pitching staff couldn't keep from getting hit— and hit hard—by the New York Yankees, who piled up 17 hits on the way to their victory. Graig Nettles and Roy White hit home runs as the Yankees won their ninth game in 10 starts.

Boog Powell's two-run double and and Bobby Grich's two-run single backed Jim Palmer's four-hitter in Milwaukee. Palmer cruised to his eighth victory in 12 decisions and stopped the five-game win streak of Brewers' ace Jim Colborn.

Kansas City's Dick Drago was coasting into the eighth inning on a two-hitter in California when the Angels, behind Vada Pinson's home run, erupted for four runs, then scored two more in the ninth to overcome a 5-0 Royals lead.

Home runs pace Good Hope win

GOOD HOPE — Good Hope's Little League team, behind the one-hit pitching of Billy Henry and a deadly home run assault, bopped New Holland 18-2 Tuesday night. It was Good Hope's fourth win in five starts.

Mike Cline cracked a pair of home runs including a grand slam while Brian Zurface belted a pair of round-trippers and a single for Good Hope. Mark Dunn had three hits to provide ample support in the 15-hit attack.

Eight to compete in Can-Am final

COLUMBUS — And then there were eight.

The nine gruelling qualifying legs of the 1973 Canadian-American Pacing Series have been completed, and from an original list of 101 nominees, the top eight point-earners are set for the $50,300 finale at Scioto Downs Thursday night.

Vying for the second largest harness racing purse ever paid in Ohio, the eight finalists in the Can-Am Series will meet at Scioto Downs, which is the fastest rated track in the series.

MUDDY GEORGE, the fleet bay son of Muddy Hanover, owned by Lawrence Hooey of Orono, Ontario, Canada, heads the impressive field of finalists, boasting the most wins in the series (5), the fastest mile in the series (1:59.4), and the most points earned (275). Trained and driven by Ron Waples, son of the crack Canadian reinsman, Keith Waples who won last year's Little Brown Jug with Strike Out, Muddy George has demonstrated that he can win over any size track, and under any weather conditions. He won at Blue Bonnets Raceway's five eights mile oval in 1:59.4, won at Batavia Downs and Buffalo Raceway's half mile ovals in the rain, and won the first division of the Can-Am over Vernon Downs' three quarter mile track in the rain.

Finishing second in the final point standings was Smog, the handsome roan son of Meadow Skipper, trained and driven by Stanley Dancer. Owned by the A.M. Cuddy Stables of Strathroy, Ontario, Canada, Smog won three legs in the series, but his finest performance of the year was at Rosecroft Raceway. With Dancer up, Smog won the $30,000 William E. Miller Memorial with a new lifetime record of 2:00.4.

With Smog's start in the 1973 Can-Am Final, Stanley Dancer will have the opportunity to become the second driver ever to win two Can-Am finals, he won the 1967 final with Nevele Dancer at Mohawk Raceway in Canada.

American Skipper trained and driven by Dick Buxton is America's big hope in the Can-Am Final. Owned by Gordon Walters of Canton, Ohio, American Skipper won two legs of the 1973 Can-Am Series, but like Smog, American Skipper had his finest hour in a race out of the series.

On June 16, American Skipper won a Preferred Pace at Wolverine Raceway in a dazzling 1:58.4, to give him the fastest clocking of the year of any starter in the Can-Am Final.

Hasty Ed jumped from sixth to fourth in the final point standings with his brilliant two length victory in last Friday night's leg at Northville Downs in 2:01.4 over Muddy George. Hasty Ed, owned by Allan Begg and driver Clayton Faurot of Marshall, Michigan has been the "Iron Horse" of the series, starting in every one of the nine qualifying legs. He won one, had one second, and six thirds. Last Friday's mile in 2:01.4 was a new race record for the son of King's Regent. His fastest rip was a time trial in 1:59.4.

Hurricane Shadow is one of five Canadian entries in the 1973 final, and this powerful son of Shadow Wave is owned-trained-and driven by the veteran, Jack Kopas, with three wins in thirteen starts this year. Hurricane Shadow won the second division of the first leg at Blue Bonnets Raceway in 2:02.1, and owns a lifetime mark of 2:00.2.

DURRELL'S CHIP won his second victory of the year in thirteen starts, with a decisive win the Windsor Raceway leg in 2:02.1. Owned by A.F. & Mrs. Laurence Brazeau, of Aylmer, Ontario, Canada, Durrell's Chip has started in all nine legs of the series.

When Saumon O Mouette pulled up lame after Friday night's last qualifying leg at Northville Downs, that left a berth in the final Thursday night for Hortense Barmin. The only mare in the race, Hortense Barmin won eight races last year, with earnings of over $11,000, and owns a half mile track record of 2:03.3.

'Suddendeath' qualifications scheduled for Schaefer 500

MOUNT POCONO, Pa. (AP) — A "sudden death" playoff was scheduled at Pocono International Raceway today for six open berths in the line-up for Sunday's $400,000 Schaefer 500 Mile Championship Race.

Thirteen drivers were to get one shot at the timing clocks beginning at 9:45 a.m., EDT, in a special qualifying session that was arranged after rain broke up Sunday's final day of trials with only 27 of the 33 starters determined.

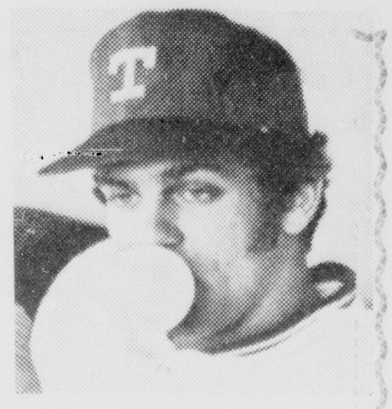
Under King's edict, drivers in today's qualifying line-up were to take their places in line, hold their positions there until called, and then drive the standard four-laps under the clock.

Under qualifying procedure last weekend, a driver was allowed three shots at the clock, his crew having only to wave him off the track before completion of four laps. He then could take his place in the line for another shot.

Among drivers expected to work their way into the line-up, beginning with the vacant 28th position, were Dick Simon, Mel Kenyon, Bob Harkey, John Martin and Jerry Karl, all of whom were starters in the recent Indianapolis race.

Two regular qualifying sessions saw 21 drivers make the field on Saturday and six more on Sunday. Their average speed was 184.780 miles per hour—nearly eight miles faster than the average for a similar number last year.



DAVID CLYDE

David Clyde sets debut

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — One of the most publicized schoolboy stars in baseball history makes his major league pitching debut tonight, and 18-year-old David Clyde will at least get the Texas Rangers his bonus money back even if he doesn't get a single Minnesota Twin out.

Clyde, who pitched nine nohitters for Houston's Westchester High School, was paid a bonus believed in the neighborhood of $100,000. A record crowd of over 32,000 will jam Arlington Stadium to see the lefthander's blazing fastball, and tickets averaging $3 apiece are making the Ranger front office happy.

The lowly Rangers, again languishing in last place in the American League West, went into the contest behind last year's attendance pace, but sudden success by Clyde could cure all that.

Clyde had a 52-13 career high school record and says he won't mind pitching in front of a huge crowd.

Ranger manager Whitey Herzog says no matter what happens Clyde "won't go nine innings even if he's pitching a shutout. Clyde hasn't pitched in 19 days and only thrown batting practice three times. I don't want to take any chance of hurting him. How far he goes depends on a lot of things—how he is laboring while throwing."

Paul Brown remarries

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati Bengal coach and general manager Paul Brown said Tuesday that he has married his former secretary.

"This is no big deal for anybody but us," said the 64-year-old Brown.

He married Mrs. Mary Rightsell, 44, an attractive blonde who is the mother of four. Her brother, Ray Taylor, is a nationally known harness driver and trainer.

Brown, reached in New York where he is attending a National Football League meeting, said the marriage took place in LaJolla, Calif. in the past week.

Brown's first wife, Katy, died in 1969. Mrs. Rightsell, who formerly resided in London, Ohio, was widowed about four years ago.

Good Hope extends skein in Mosquito

GOOD HOPE — The Good Hope Mosquito League team won its seventh game in eight tries with an 8-4 win over New Holland in a rain-shortened game at New Holland.

Roman Linton and Jimmy Perrill pitched for Good Hope. Perrill had a double and Bruce Coil two singles for the Good Hope team.

Once Irish victorious in River Downs race

The winner, paying $4.00, $3.00 and $2.60, went the six furlongs in 1:11.

Saloon Girl placed to return $10.20 and $6.00. Diplomat Girl showed at $4.60.

AVAILABLE
FAYETTE COUNTY FARMS

140 Acres. Well located just off U.S. Route 62 with virtually new split-level, fancy family residence along a 3 acre lake (plenty of fish). Balance of land nearly all tillable. Other out buildings. Early possession of residence, lake, pastures and farm buildings. Balance of farm on 50-50 crop basis for this year.

125 Acres. Fronting on state route and sided by secondary road. This highly improved two-story, four bedroom home, basement, extra outside summer kitchen (with fireplace) plus so many extras. Plenty of horse barns and loafing sheds, along with other farm buildings. 30 days possession on residence and barns. Farm land is on cash rent basis for this crop year.

100 Acres. Another show place fronting on U.S. route and sided by two county roads. Five bedrooms, modern residence with lots of trees. Plenty of horse barns, silo and other farm buildings. Early possession of residence. Farm land is rented for this crop year.

53 Acres. Vacant land. Located in the Corporation of Jeffersonville. City sewer and municipal water available, plus financing at 7 per cent interest. Full possession when wheat is harvested.

5½ Acres. Fronting on S.R. 38 and Danville Pike, just North of Bloomingburg. Lots of trees. One and a half story, three bedroom family residence with fireplace, and all remodeled. Ample livestock buildings for this acreage.

5 ♥	6 ♣	6 ♠	Pass
Pass	7 ♣	Dble	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead — king of spades.

There is a permanence about hands played in duplicate bridge that is not achieved in hands played in rubber bridge, where the outcome is often quickly forgotten.

Consider this deal from a team of four match, where the swing was simply enormous.

At the first table, the bidding went as shown and South wound up at seven clubs doubled. North's two notrump bid over a spade was equivalent to a takeout double, except that it indicated unusually great length in the minor suits.

The rest of the bidding was natural, North finally bidding seven clubs as a sacrifice against the slam East-West seemed destined to make. East's double was rather poor — the least he could have done was pass and let partner make the final decision.

The double proved to be exceptionally expensive when West compounded the felony by leading the king of spades instead of the ace of hearts. Declarer ruffed in dummy, drew trumps, and easily made the rest of the tricks to notch up a resounding 1,630 points.

At the second table, East-West got to six spades doubled and made the contract with an overtrick to add another 1,860 points to their teammates' score, thus gaining 3,490 points on one deal!

The hand once again illustrates the principle that — in high level contracts where the outcome is uncertain — a player should tend to bd one extra for luck in order to stop a major disaster from taking place.

East-West at the first table and North-South at the second table could both profitably have applied the principle by bidding one more time. In any case, their failure to act more prudently is something they will not easily forget.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A Miracle: Speech Regained

I have had my voice box removed because I had a cancer. I've been told you have written about a way for people like me to speak again.

Can you tell me more about this and where I can find this miracle?

Mr. T.N.B., Ill.

Dear Mr. B.:

The real "miracle" is that so many people who have had their larynx, or "voice box," removed because of a cancer have been able to survive and live fruitful and productive lives. They heeded the advice that all persistent hoarseness must not be neglected.

Hoarseness is a vital sign. It may indicate many other conditions besides cancer. But if cancer does exist, and is recognized early and treated intensively, the results are quite spectacular.

My admiration is limitless for the courage of laryngectomized patients who have had their entire voice box removed. Many men function very well in business and socially, and have learned, through a special technique, to speak. I specifically say "men" because for some strange and unexplained rason, women rarely develop cancer of the larynx.

After the voice box is removed, many patients learn to speak understandably, but it is far from normal speech, with all its intonations.

Some people have difficulty in acquiring the knack of "esophageal" speech, by which air is swallowed, and "burped up" in order for the speech to be understandable.

It is for them that I particularly described a new device, implanted by a simple operation, to bring better and more clearly distinguishable speech.

Dr. Stanley Taub, a Clincial Professor at the New York Medical College, designed a system of tubes and valves that makes possible recognizable speech in patients who have had difficulty after the voice box is removed.

Patients are carefully chosen because some cases do not readily lend themselves to the use of this brilliantly conceived device. It is a great boon to those people who are condidates for its use.
